HARVARD LAW SCHOOL
STARTS DRIVE FOR FUNDS

Seeks Five Million Dollars in Order to Maintain Its Standards and Make Improvements

WILL ENDOW RESEARCH CHAIRS

Feeling that there is much dissatisfaction with the existing country-wide uniformity, Harvard University has launched a campaign for $5,000,000 for the development of its Law School. Part of this sum will be used to establish six research professorships. The men chosen for these chairs are to conduct thorough investigations into the whole field of American law.

Four million dollars will be devoted to the improvement of existing buildings and library and the further endowment of present professorships and new fellowships. The remaining million will be used to found the research chairs. With the funds which are being requested, Harvard does not contemplate provision for a larger school, but merely adequate physical provision for the present students and an increased number of professors and greatly increased facilities for teaching and research.

In his statement opening the drive, Dr. Barnes E. Peirce, dean of Harvard Law School, said: "What research has done for the prevention and cure of disease, what it has done for engineering and the technical arts, it may well do for the law. The call for research in law is especially strong. Lawyers, courts, legislatures, the administration of justice in general, and the administration of criminal justice in particular, are subjects of serious criticism on the part of the lay public. The strain upon law due to the changes in modern life, and the resulting delays, uncertainties and hardships, demand a service from legal scholars in our law schools that can be performed by no one else.

"One subject in which research is needed is in criminal law, admittedly the weakest point in our police. No subject of research offers greater possibilities. But the administration of criminal justice is involved, in part at least, in a wider problem of enforcement of law, in which research is urgently called for. One side of law enforcement has become of special importance to the country, namely, application of law administrative boards and commissions.

"American law schools can render a great service, not merely to the profession but to the economic and business interests of the country and to every citizen, by carrying on the scientific investigations on which the law reforms of the future must go forward."

Are you going into the bond business?

There is a ring of fashion not only for the hat college men wear but for the line of work into which they go.

But your job has to fit your head as well as your hat, for it has to fit your state of mind.

Like your hat also, your job needs to fit your purse.

Therefore, why not choose one that brings not only satisfaction in service but a financial return.

Selling life insurance, one of the few modern business vocations that does just this. It takes Intelligence, Zest and Ability.

Intelligence, the basis of action, the satisfaction of making future security and prosperity secure to living people, and a positive, imaginative, and tangible sense of security as well as mental record.

Are you looking for a business, not only for money, but a business you can be proud of, a business that you can hold high in the respect of your community and friends?

Like the quality hat you wear, you must select a business that will stand the test of time, a business that will keep itself up-to-date and in the forefront of current thought.

But don't let the term "life insurance" scare you.

It is a common mistake to believe that life insurance is only for the older people. This is not true. Life insurance is just as important for young people as it is for old people.

So if you are thinking of entering the life insurance business, don't let the idea of "life insurance" deter you. It is a great business, and it is a business that is needed by everyone.

You will find that the life insurance business is a business of help. It is a business of service. It is a business of giving. It is a business of providing security for those who need it.

And it is a business that is always changing, always growing, always improving.

The Assistant Editor, in assigning responsibility for the publication of the Column to one of the undergraduates this year, made the following comment: "This year, my friend the Librarian, Merchandising 1, the Dorm Cop, and the Old Man in the office are all under my supervision. I am no longer merely a copyeditor, but a full-fledged editor as well."

The position of Assistant Editor is not an easy one. It requires a great deal of hard work, but it offers the opportunity to be involved in all aspects of the University's activities. The job involves not only the editing of the Column, but also the coordination of various activities, such as the organization of alumni events and the publication of the alumni newsletter.

The Assistant Editor is responsible for the overall quality of the publication, ensuring that the Column meets the standards of the University and its members. The job requires a lot of attention to detail, as well as the ability to work under pressure and meet deadlines.

The Assistant Editor is also responsible for the selection of articles and the development of new ideas for the Column. This involves working closely with the other members of the editorial board to ensure that the publication meets the needs of its readers.

The job of Assistant Editor is challenging, but it offers the opportunity to make a real impact on the University community. It is a position that requires dedication, hard work, and a strong commitment to excellence. If you are interested in this position, please contact the University's editorial board for more information.

Where it has been brought to its maximum effectiveness, as in the English universities, one tutor is responsible for the instruction of from five to ten students. At present we have only thirty-three tutors in the entire university. OHIO STATE LEADS WEST IN NUMBER OF ENTRANTS FOR UNIVERSITY RELAYS

Coach Gastman, of Buckeye Institution, has Entered Entire Varsity Squad in Annual Games

NO OHIO ENTRANT IN DECATHLON

Entries of Brigham Young, Oregon State and Michigan Send Entries to Unprecedented Total

Ohio State University leads all colleges and universities west of the Alleghenies in the number of entrants for the thirty-third annual University of Pennsylvania Holiday Carnival, to be held here April 22 and 24. Coach Gastman, of the Buckeye Institution, has entered his entire track squad in the invitational games, including a number of performers of national reputation. His list of participants is exceeded by only a half-dozen eastern universities.

Not only will Ohio State run in the various relay meets, but men will be entered in virtually every special event on the program, with the exception of the decathlon. G. P. Guthrie, one of the most brilliant hurdlers in the country, will attempt to lift the crown of 400-meters hurdle championship, which last year was won by Lord David Burghley. Inability to secure permission of the faculties of schools and colleges to enter hurdlers in the country, will at least partially counteract in the event the brilliance of Guthrie, however, will have stiff competition in the event, judging by the number and class of entrants that have been received thus far.

Ohio State will be entered in the 880, 1,500, mile, two-mile, four-mile and decathlon relay championships. In the special events, Coach Gastman will have athletes in the century, broad jump, pole vault, hurdles, pentathlon, shot, high jump, discus, javelin and hammer throw, and high-school relays.

The stories of Brigham Young University, Oregon State Aggies and Michigan, just received, make the total of entries to an unprecedented total. Manager H. Jimmie Wears expects the min- utes and measures of entries to bring the total mark in excess of any previous year before.

DR. PATTERSON UPHOLDS WHARTON DISCIPLINE

Contradicts Rumors of Many Expulsions from Wharton School After Midyear Exams

ONLY 67 DROPPED OUT OF 2,551

In answer to rumors of wholesale expulsion of Wharton School students from the University for failure to pass midyear examinations, Dr. Ernest M. Patterson, professor of economics and treasurer of the Wharton School's executive committee, stated out of the 2,551 Wharton students, only sixty-seven were dropped. Thirty-one were in their freshman year, eighteen were sophomores, seventeens were juniors and two were seniors.

"These numbers should correct at once the impression that a large number of students are being excessively disciplined by a heartless faculty," said Dr. Patterson. "When a student body is recruited from all parts of the United States and from many foreign lands, and when it is considered that these men come from different types of schools and from homes that vary widely in their influence, these percentages are surprisingly small."

"In self-defense the University has been compelled as limit the number of students it will accept, and therefore the commitment will be gradually cut down to about 1,500." Dr. Patterson explained further that these students whose work is definitely receiving special attention from their instructors, and if the reports assembled by the registrar show that any student is not passing in at least 50 per cent. of his work, he is placed on general probation and his parents are notified.

The Ox Woman

On an East Indian farm, where the crop is tea, a wooden plow turns up the rich black soil. A woman drives, another woman pulls—and a black ox pulls beside her.

Six hours under a tropical sun, a bowl of cold rice and six hours more. Then the woman goes to bed of rushes, and the beast to his mud stall. Tomorrow will be the same.

The American home has many conveniences. But many American women often work as hard as their Oriental sisters. They till at the washtub, they carry water, they churn with hand—all tasks which electricity can do for them at small cost, in half the time.

The labor-saving possibilities of electricity are constantly becoming more widely recognized. And the social significance of the release of the American woman from physical drudgery, through the increasing use of electricity in and about the home, will appeal instantly to every college man and woman.
