FOSTER SANFORD CHOSEN TO STOP GARNET NINE

Doctor Carus Plans to Make Infallible Shifts When Red and Blue Face Swearmore

ECKERD THREATENS AGAINST VARSITY

Swarthmore College's nine will engage the Varsity baseball team this afternoon on Franklin Field in the fourth engagement of the series. Foster Sanford has been assigned to stop the garnet aggregation and will be backed by the splendid corps of the Brown. The wrappers will be represented on the dash by Evan Board and Harry Felix, two of the most strenuous players of the Garnet. Several lean backs may be resolved upon, Pennsylvania is the favorite in the battle of fifteen, but the change in personnel of the Brown and Red and White, which has left the field with the damaged ankle, has been appointed to fill the short stop position. Sanford, however, as will be seen in this post, will be out of the contest for the whole season. The game is now tied, 2-2, and will be opened at 3:45 this afternoon. STUDENT RIGHTS IN THE TICKET QUESTION

The plan proposed by the Undergraduate Council has many strong points for adoption by the football ticket committee. Above all, it is practical, and demands no special consideration of the student body on the part of the Council or the Administration, since the students feel they are entitled to it.

Further, its adoption would not call for any special financial consideration on the part of the student body, the plan meeting the very needs of the present interest in athletics.

The plan, as originally proposed by the Council, consisted of setting aside a certain number of tickets for students desiring to sit in the cheering section, and therein would be provided with seats in a more desirable location, thereby removing all necessity of students considering the proposal, however, has not so truly represented the proper value of the problem whereby all thronging the gates of the stadium long before the opening of the game. This particularly bad feature of the plan would be shared jointly by the student body and the Council on Athletics, above all practical, and demands no more.

Further, it offers an ideal training for commercial purposes. Included in the Hall of Wharton sub-

YALE BEGINS STUDY OF PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

Research Federation Commences Work To Train Students in Problems of Industrial Men

STUDENTS RATED ON CHARACTER

Several of the departments of Yale University have begun cooperative study of the personnel management, according to a report of the Personnel Research Federation of the El institution which was made public recently. The departments of the University are now working to prepare for research work in personnel, the first Student Research Federation being organized. The course in Industrial Psychology has been developed because we believe that the health of the worker and the adaptation of the job to his physical capacities, is a problem of sufficient economic and social importance to warrant study.

'The course covers the normal and abnormal operations of the human body particularly in the environment of industry. In preparation for research work in personnel management the Sheffield Scientific School has inaugurated a plan of rating the students in fifty qualities of character and collecting complete information concerning the students' activities. On seven of these qualities, character ratings of the fellow students will be obtained in addition to the ratings given by the faculty. It is expected that these ratings will very materially assist the students in the self-development of character, as they will consult their division officers about them.'
