REST IN PEACE

"No person shall represent the University of Pennsylvania in any intercollegiate contest, either at home or abroad, in a spirit which he has represented, on University line, another institution from which he has transferred, without the passage of this rule."

Quality and unselfishness the Committee on Athletics honored the proposed Big Five into an absurdity at its meeting last Friday afternoon. The meeting the transfer rule was formally announced to the student body in our next column, regardless, although few were aware of the events leading up to this.

SCIENTIST DISCOVERS BLOOD PRESSURE SERUM

Discusses High Blood Pressure Remedy

Professor L. Gradis Lawrence announced recently at a meeting of the Medical Association of the City of New York that he has discovered a serum remedy for high blood pressure. Several injections of the serum, which he calls "hypotonin," have been sufficient to restore the blood of those suffering from the malady to normal pressure in many cases, according to his report.

Speaking of experiences made with patients at Service Hospital, a favorite re-treat for aged persons, he said that during all his observations, he has never made any choice in the type of patients to be used. They were all over sixty years of age, with high blood pressures and with diseases prevalent in the aged. A point of the process that was very extraordinary is that neither the rectum, nor the diet nor the general habits of the patients were altered in the slightest throughout the experiments.

Following the injections, there occurred a response in each ease by a very noticeable drop in the blood pressure. This drop continued during five or six hours for the first three or four injections. The blood pressure was lowered further (after the seventh or eighth injection), demonstrating the enormous effect of this serum.

Professor Lawrin, who has made some discoveries of note that have aided medical progress greatly within the past few years, is recognized as an authority on the subject of blood pressure. He was formerly an assistant to Professor Cesare Lombardo, noted psychologist and criminologist.

incumbent department. Four representatives are chosen at large from the University. The editor-in-chief of The Pennsylvanian, a representative from the undergraduate captain of men and managers of the major sport teams, and the senior president, who acts as chairman, constitute the Council of fifteen. The applications for nominations for senior classes of the freshman dormitories, which are to be handed in by April 25, to Farabaugh, may be forwarded to 5th Fivemaster Dormitory, as well as to the Council office, as heretofore announced.

WESTERN INSTITUTION ARRIVES FOR CARNIVAL

indicate that the western harder might have a slight chance to take some of the honors, as the event is barely done in any better time at the Pennsylvania games. Coach Pippal expects to send men in the sprint and distance medleys. His decision will be definitely reached when he is certain that Y. Nash will come in no harm through running in too many events. Nash, besides being entered in a few other sprints, is slated to compete in the quarter-mile race. Last week, at the Kansas meet, one of his legs became cramped in the remaining thirteen yards of his 220 of the half-mile relay race. Although he won for his team, the leg has been a serious handicap, but the western coach hopes that it will be in good shape for Saturday's outing.

So far this week only three teams have made their appearance, Wisconsin, Hamilton College and Occidental. Victor Chapman, the far-famed two-meter pole from Wisconsin, is expecting more of his teammates to arrive today, although Robert Kemeny and he have been in Philadelphia since Monday. According to the track officials, Springfield, Butler, Yale, Rutgers, Columbia, Penn State, M. E. M., Eremington, Syracuse and Princeton are due tomorrow. Most of these teams will make their headquarters at the various hotels around the campus, while one squad expects to stop at the Hotel Hope. Coach Lawson Robertson has changed the running order of the Red and Blue one-mile team. Last Friday, from the results of the preliminary try- outs, Mcdonald, Leonness, Boll and Greer were slated to compose the quartet. This eleven-hour conference places Rogers in Greer's stead. Greer will act as first alternate.

Falling from the appearance and conclu- sions of the track several weeks ago, it is incredible to believe that it could reach the present good form. Coach Pippal said that it looked exceedingly fine, while Victor Chapman is very much pleased considering that he must go around eight times. He was the only man permitted to see the past yesterday, but a small amount of running was done on the north side.

spent a great deal of time during since re- ceiving his degree in teaching the country making speeches for the alumni endow- ment drive, and he has been very successful in this field, according to Fund officials.

The tickets for the banquet are in the hands of the ticket committee, and Philip Bix, chairman of the committee, states that the sale is progressing very favorably. Members of the Class of 1926 may secure tickets from any member of the committee for three dollars.
