V. L. Gravniiss, the distinguished English actor, will render a dramatic presentation of the principal characters from the drama of Weighs in Time, Weighs in Time tonight at 8 o'clock in the Princeton University's Kresge Auditorium. The program is to be assisted by several music students.
Mr. Gravniiss's program will consist of an introductory lecture, followed by a short pantomime presentation in costume and make-up of the principal characters of the drama. The pantomime will be based on the characters of the nurse, the housekeeper, the cook, the gardener, and the porter, as depicted in Weighs in Time.

FRATERNITIES IN RELAY RACE.

With approximately two hundred students entered in this year's spring Handicap races, all of which will be held at the Princeton University, the Fraternity Handicap, Manager E. Allen Graham closed practice meet yesterday afternoon. In the inter-fraternity relay race, thirty four fraternities were represented. The winning team was the Beta Gamma Sigma of the University Club.

The Princeton University's Fraternity Handicap, which is an annual event, is open to all members of the Princeton University's fraternities. The races are held on the Princeton University's Outdoor Stadium and the courses are designed to test the physical abilities of the participants. The races are divided into three events: the 100 yard dash, the 200 yard dash, and the 400 yard dash. The team with the fastest combined time wins.

A communication appeared in yesterday’s Pennsylvania which was received from a sophomore who questioned us as to the correctness of the statement that “The Bed and Bites.” To many students in the University, this has never been properly explained.

According to our understanding of the matter, the procedure is different when the song is rendered indoors than when it is rendered out doors. When it is played at an outdoor contest or at any other occasion while it is held indoors, Pennsylvania should remain seated during the verse and stand to accompany the chorus with the waving of hats. However, when the song is played during indoor contests, the girls should stand during the whole song. This should clear up any doubt which exists in the minds of students as to proper conduct during the rendition of this famous song.

A second-year man should never have had to ask this question. There is, however, no reason why he should not ask what to do in a case such as this present. In all the past the incoming freshman classes have manifested to the University without having explained to them the customs or traditions of this great institution. Why should a minor matter such as this be taken up in detail? This attitude did not work to the best interests of the University.

When a new freshman class matriculates at the University, it is not an organized group, but a number of individuals who have few, if any, acquaintances on the campus. The majority of the more expert to become important caps in the numerous organizations. To this group is stressed the advantages of keeping for publication of their status at the University in an athletic way, but the traditions and customs which have become such an important part in our lives are permitted to remain a deep, dark secret to them. These men should be informed of their responsibilities. They should be taught to know their University and not to be silenced after diligent research and bitter experience, to gather a knowledge of her customs.

Such a campaign should be started next fall to give all the classes of 1927 a fair chance to know Pennsylvania. A little effort expended early in the college life of these men should add greatly to their value to the University during the four years of their undergraduate days.

FRANKLIN SOCIETY BANQUET

Tonight the members of the board of the various campus publications will gather as the guests of the Franklin Society at the annual banquet of this organization. This affair is usually one of the premier events of the season for the publication men because of the attractiveness of the program that are always presented.

The purpose of this dinner is to give the members of these publications an idea of the aims of the Franklin Society and to stress the importance of the responsibilities which these men carry. The guests will also become more closely acquainted with each other in the matter of mingling together during the dinner and entertainment.

An especially attractive program has been arranged for this year’s affair, which includes, among a number of other items:

First off, we would like to make it plain that this is not an information bureau on any courses. If we gave out any advice, we would not put it past the faculty to hear down on the courses we recommend. We might be accused of trying to extend our field to include practical joking.

However, we will pick up what the new requirement of Buffalo 3 will have practically no effect on any of the students who are specializing in Sanskrit, Mechanical Engineering, or Biology 38-54.

The faculty seems to be trying to have the students establish a connection between all of the various subjects studied. However, in Public Speaking we find that speech is different, while in quizzes in other courses it is instead that brains is golden.

The Finance Department then comes to the rescue with the following offers to one.

But to make matters worse again, Economics teaches that money talks.

The Freshman across the Hall wants to know if he will be allowed to vote now that he has registered.

All our has to do is read the Ledger and the Daily News to find out that no notice who is elected Senator, the country will go wrong.

There may be something to your anti-prohibition stand, however, as the statistics to show that prohibition is a failure is simply staggering.

A further period of the newspapers leads us to believe that the explorers are fond of the song, “This Is Where We Are,” and want a suitable place to express their feelings.

The Post Office Clerk says they had better watch out, however you never can tell what those careless fellows are going to do when they start mischief tests, etc.

Nancy just arrived with the report that there will be no business Law I lecture tomorrow as Professor Raleigh has lost his voice.

A man with a revolving head has appeared in one of the lecture halls of the campus. Maybe he is one of those who try to get the to shore in an hour and a half and do not know the traffic rules.

Anyway you would have to be a hard bird to watch in an examination.

ANCIENT ROYAL SEALS ACQUIRED BY PENNSYLVANIA

Probably, they will be kept in the Field Museum.

By the way, you have not noticed that Bello has lost part of his tail? While going down grade the other day, the fat mouse got over a first one.

A new bowler, Wood, has come out along with Row and clip. It looks as if the players are trying to keep the clues.

SPEE, in league, Wende, Myla, Law and Wood.

When Benny Franklin First Walked the Streets of Philadelphia—

A fair damsel gave him the merry laugh.

So like a "wise guy," he discarded the leaf of bread.

Which, by the way, wasn’t all "dough".

And came back and fixed things up.

For "Benny knew his outs!"

He once said, "When ‘tis fair, take your gratitude with you."

Meaning—if you want to be protected, be nice, like the other one.

Just order that nut right now.

For the present is "now"—a tallied-toward suit—wonderful selection of materials—and done well at $35, $45 & $55.

And he didn’t fool.

When the straight-8 blows a shoe

BEFORE you even look for the jack or tire-tools, tack a neat wad of Prince Albert into the muzzle of your jimmy-pipe. Light up . . . and get yourself in the frame of mind where a flat tire is "all in the day's work." Talk about a gloom-chaser!

P. A. simply knocks troubles for a row of planished-steel mudguards. Its cool, soothing smoke percolates into your system, the sun crashes through the clouds, and everything is hony-totey. Yes indeed, Fellows, Prince Albert is great tobacco.

And paste this in the fly-leaf of your the-saurus: P. A. can't bite your tongue or parch your throat, no matter how hard you hit it up.
