Two Important Track Meets Take Place On FRANKLIN FIELD TODAY

Confident from Page One

Robertson has permitted a number of the track squad to enter the national trials at Philadelphia and although they will be at great disadvantage as a result of the heavy handicap imposed upon them, they should offer a special interest to the fans. The legendary Billy Bryan, with an entry list of thirty-five great track organizations will be the center of interest to the undergraduates. The meet is to be run on the 440 yard track by a team of four men, each man running 220 yards.

Confident from Page One

Not for sailors and skilled sailing fans. More, Stevens (Brown) scored second in 400 yards of the game. The Red and Blue will meet Harvard at Cambridge this afternoon. The game was moved from Friday Wednesday with a loss to New York Military Adjutant, and even though they stand in the State college ranks today, one or more entries may possess record-breaking teams. "SCOTT-POWELL A’MILK”
A SPUR TO ATHLETIC ENDEAVOR

Although school boy day is a week in the past, school boys will again rally for a brief period at the University to pay as more than two hundred preparatory and high school athletes compete in the twenty-fourth annual interscholastic track and field championship meet on Franklin Field. The story line includes thirty-three schools represented throughout the entire section of the country.

In the line of regulations which a preparatory school administrator attracts the widespread attention that is focused on a running college athlete, he is forced to battle without the aid of plain and simple newspaper publicity and does not have his praises sung to the skies, even though his performance may be most pleasing in quality. This occasionally a preparatory school athlete who is developed in a greater degree than the average--as on the famous Holsey--breaks into the limelight, but such occasions are the exception rather than the rule.

Despite the fact that amateur athletes generally pass mended by the general public, the watchful eye of manyensors are focused upon them. Even assuring a desire to produce winning teams for the colleges by which they are known, but there is nothing that tests the performance of the preparatory and high school boy as they go through their paces. At times the presence of the college faculty to square accounts with their Super is dull reading, but even though they are inspired by the desire to do their best for their respective alma maters, they do not fail to look into their possible futures as college athletes and strives to perform brilliantly before the college crowds.

Yes, it would seem that interscholastic athletics are a training school for the college athlete. They are a medium through which the spirit of competition is fostered and the potentials of many great athletes discovered. Thus, through its annual series of scholastic meets in various sports, Pennsylvania is not only advancing her own interests, but is also rendering a distinct service to the athletic world.

Here's That Special You've Been Waiting For!

Of course we have not been in the business of column-writing long enough to know exactly what extent the columns reflect student opinion, but if the general tone of the contributions expressed in this week's is any indication, there is certainly a great deal of involvement concerning football explorations. Personally, we think it is better, but in order to prove that portion of the column's clientele who profess an interest in the gridiron, we select a resume of what our staff has contributed on this subject.

Best Groove will get his boy from the Acme Syndicate to break Forty, he has written, a definite purpose behind the enforcement of regulations. A better man is compiled, to give the purpose of the vigilantes during the past week, however, this difficult is not likely to devise ways and means of getting the full rule cut, the leaders of the vigilantes have been planning with a view of making the law rates more flexible, but all of this, even, is no sufficient achievement in persuading up to go there. There is always the danger of getting cold feet.

While we are on the subject, we might add that the Dynamic Club, which recently abandoned "The Power Horn" for "The Broad Highway," is endeavoring to select a new "The Power Horn."

Nosey, the campus Freshman, has definitely unearthed that there will be no dress-makers in the Pinafore east.

The pressmen are evidently proceeding on the theory that "it is still two weeks away."

One hundred students at the University of Minnesota have thrown discretion in the winds and come out with their ideas of what constitutes the perfect world, but it is too early yet to make a definite statement on such matters, but one can see that the matter has come too soon.
