CREW APPEALS FOR MORE MANAGERIAL CANDIDATES

New Aspirants Will Be Placed On Equal Rating With Club's现有 Coaches and Managers

FIRST REGULAR PRACTICE TODAY

The injury to the foot of the starler is due to the action of a bright young oarsman, who, during the work for nationals, performed a series of stunts, which included the raising of the paddle up to the neck. No previous experience in this department was required, and the willingness to work and try will be the deciding factor.

CHICAGO WELL FORTIFIED WITH SEASONED PLAYERS

Quartet back and tackle positions, a sure fire start for the University of Pennsylvania, promise to give Pennsylvania full value in a battle when they clash at Franklin Field October 16 as it did last season. Coach Ames Alonzo Stagg, the "grand old Man of Midway," has been working hard defting the Mid-Westers eleven and the result of the practice sessions points to a very formidable eleven.

Coach Stagg is as well fortified with veteran that only three positions are giving him a considerable amount of worry. Unlike many another football season, Stagg has to devote most of his training in a quarterback and in a pair of tackles.

It may be that John McIvor, star basketball man, will be the field general. He formerly played full and his training at that position seems to give him the feel over the other candidates for the berth. Elliott Fulton, a halfback, also is being coerced to call the plays. "Spook" Passeron, a 200-pounder who was a substitute guard last season, seems certain to play as one of the tackles. These are Stagg's mainstays in 1925, seems due for a great season, his plan. Captain "Wallie" Stonfflodd, center, has been invited to cooperate. This new "University Village" of the old Ivy League, many foreign countries have joined in this plan and America also has been invited to cooperate. This has been through the work of W. Paul Laple who is now in New York on a mission in the interests of International education.

UNIVERSITY'S OPPONENTS ENGAGE IN CLOSE GAME

Columbia, Cornell and Penn State Win
With Williams & Co. to Fast Providence Eleven

NITTANY LIONS IMPRESSIVE

With the exception of Penn, each of the opponents of the 220 Pennsylvania football aggregation, in which action last Saturday encountered serious difficulties in their opening tilt. Columbia and Cornell barely squared out victories over smaller rivals, while Williams lost a tight contest to Providence.

Penn Rivals in fragrant splendor with veteran, defeated the much lighter Nonnuplets eleven by a score of 28-0. A forward passing and a strong running attack enabled the Lions to roll up their highest score in four years. The offense, with Largesse, Wolf, Boppe and Greer in the spotlight, piled up a total of thirty-one first downs. They failed at least once in every quarter, and scored three third of their total in the opening period.

Columbia, boasting Best, Madden and Beiler in the backfield, just managed to come out of the Marilla Vermont game. After three scoreless quarters, Scott and Madden each plumped over for scores in the closing quarter. Beiler made both tallies possible by brilliant puntng. Madden kicked both goals.

The Cornell avalanche, reputed to have another Delta winning machine, ran into a Tartar in McMullen's plucky剖析. Butterfield, Biklen quarterbacks, made the only score of the game in the second period. Captain Carey's try for point was not allowed due to an officials call.
