Monday's check should prevent the forward line flat that will probably start the season. It will be played against an Irving Field. Up in from left to right with Larner, Dowell, E. Schoeberl, and Jirouin, the only three offered is a formidable opposition. The top possible change in the present plans might come with the availability of DeVito who was injured the season at center forward but did not play in the game at Engledow last Saturday.

CLASS FIGHT PROBLEM

At the meeting tonight, various representatives of the campus organizations expressed their opinions regarding the fight. The problem was thoroughly analyzed from the student viewpoint as well as that of the administration. Mr. Woodward introduced a committee, representing the student body as a whole, to be appointed to meet with the administration and review the situation. Following this conference, direct action will be taken and the fight will either be reinstated or, in all probability, be permanently discontinued.

HEADS WESTERN ELECTRIC
Edgar Seiden Bloom, '96, Has Lead
Active Life in Service of Telephone Industry

RECEIVED SCHOLASTIC HONORS
With his election as president of the Western Electric Company last August, Edgar Seiden Bloom, '96, T. E. R., completed another phase of his unusual career in the telephone service. At the time, Charles C. Bolles, former president, became chairman of the Board of Directors.

The company of which Mr. Bloom is chief executive officer is the purchasing and supply department of the Bell System, and manufactures a large part of its telephonic equipment. However, it is best known in the general public as a manufacturer of radio and other communication equipment. The Western Electric Company is the world's largest manufacturer of telephone equipment and has a business of two hundred and fifty million dollars yearly.

Mr. Bloom entered the University with the Class of '96, but took an additional year of postgraduate work in the Tower Scientific School and was awarded the degree of Mechanical Engineer in June, 1900. As a freshman he played on the men's football team and became a member of the Delta Upsilon fraternity. He was on the staff of the University Courier and a member of the Mock Trial Club and the Men's Training School Club. Besides taking an active interest in social activities he won scholastic honors in his Renaissance year.

Immediately after his graduation, Mr. Bloom entered the telephone industry as a member of the engineering staff of the New York Telephone Company. Since then he has been associated with many well-known firms, and at the time of his recent election as head of the Western Electric Company was serving as vice-president of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

Mr. Bloom is a director of his company, and of the Grayslake Excise Company, the Bell Telephone Laboratories, Inc., and the Manufacturers' Junction Railway Company. He is a member of the University and Industrial Clubs of Chicago; the Lion, Bankers and University of Pennsylvania clubs of New York and the present Masonic Country Club of Bex, New York.

WOODLAND AVENUE AT 37TH STREET

CROSSED FOR FIRST TIME

Graduates Marshall Fields, champion dodger, crossed Woodland Avenue at Thirty-seventh Street presently. It is the first time the traffic has been accomplished.

Planning is in from the Greek side at Six A.M. He battled his way through the tireless mass of running vehicles for fourteen hours and seven minutes, reaching the Forty-second Street side of Thirty-seventh Street about 11:30 P.M.

Criggins'Fields collapsed after the struggle and was taken to the University Hospital where it is said that he will recover.

This marks the first time his condition was so serious and he is likely to die, according to those who know the hospital officials best.

The champion accompanied by the trainer, an official of the International Traffic Dodging Association, members of the Greek faculty, and a representative of the Pennsylvania, reached the northeast corner of Thirty-seventh street and Woodland Avenue shortly after sunrise.

Urgent wires were a flashed signal to a Red and Blue Jacket, with sprints, hang guards, starter guns, other sprints, a green flag, and heavy padding. His trainer grasped him with handles, cantilever, and tied, and he was ready for the plunge.

"The next time I cross Woodland Avenue at Thirty-seventh Street it will be by airplane," said the captain as he walked into the traffic.

His trainer, his revenue, and the traffic dodging association official hovered over him in a Fokker plane while the newspaper men witnessed the great performance from a blimp to Reaston's.

As he accomplished several attempts in reaching the one-quarter mark a tide of cars from Thirty-seventh Street swept him back almost to the presentment.

At 11:37 A.M. he had gone half way across, but the main tide swept him back almost to the Irk presentment, his brilliant dodging and lagging going for nothing.

At 12:42 P.M. he took his first meal of fruit extract and naps.

His trainer leaned it to him in a basket while the Captain delightfully side-stepped and straightened the drifting muse.

Five hours later he ate three waifs beans.

Early in the evening he showed signs of weakening and by 3:50 his condition appeared so perilous that a hurry call was placed to a third 1.0. the a rapidly sailing his aorta to the sky, the swimming was again rapidly too large for him.

He arrived on the Greek side at 3:52 and started en- couragingly to the fast dodging champions.

His prestige might he took the first place for the Forty-second street and rushed into the telephone exchanges. After lying wallaby for an hour he succeeded in getting the signal to call the Director of Public Safety.

The Director, with permission to turn all the lights in the red which was promptly done and Captain Fields stumbled forward to the form presentment. The gathering throng cleared for hours and swore to the champ's feat as soon as conditions were favorable.

If the football teams find their ways down, Bells has agreed to shoot along Walnut Street showing some of the running bodies which have been published lately on the campus.

THE PENNSYLVANIAN

editor-in-chief, Philadelphia .

Dear Sir: Dr. Joseph A. Alleen, State President of the Pennsylvania Association of College Bases, announced that the University of Pennsylvania had been chosen as the site of the 1926 College Bases Convention. The decision was based on the University's prestige and the excellence of its faculty and facilities.

The Pennsylvania Convention was held in Philadelphia from September 25th to 28th, and was attended by delegates from all over the United States. The convention featured a series of workshops and seminars on various aspects of collegiate education, with the aim of promoting the development and improvement of college curricula.

One of the highlights of the convention was a panel discussion on the role of athletics in collegiate life, featuring prominent educators and sports figures from around the country. The panelists discussed the benefits and drawbacks of intercollegiate competition, and the importance of balancing academic and athletic pursuits.

Another important topic at the convention was the issue of student athletics, with several sessions focused on the challenges of managing athletic programs on college campuses. The discussions centered on the need for better funding, increased support for student-athletes, and the importance of ensuring that athletic programs are integrated into the broader educational mission of the institution.

The Pennsylvania Convention was widely regarded as a success, with attendees reporting that they had gained valuable insights and practical knowledge from the proceedings. The organizers expressed hope that the event would serve as a catalyst for continued dialogue and collaboration within the collegiate community, and that it would inspire further action to improve the quality and accessibility of athletic programs across the country.

In conclusion, the Pennsylvania Convention of College Bases served as a pivotal moment for the collegiate athletics movement, providing a platform for educators and leaders to come together and share ideas on the critical issues facing college athletics. By fostering a spirit of cooperation and innovation, the convention paved the way for future developments that would shape the landscape of collegiate sports for years to come.

SCOLARIAL JOURNALISM

School Paper Rapidity Assuming Importance, Says University of Wisconsin Professor

PUBLICATIONS TOTAL 14,000

Professor Edward Marion Johnson, of the University of Wisconsin, and editor of the Scholarial Review, said that scholarly journalism is rapidly becoming an important force in American journalism. He estimated the number of school newspapers in the country at approximately 14,000, and the number of school year books at 12,000. This country.

He also said that the total of school papers is the same as that of all college and university papers. "One learns much about the power of the press from a study of school papers." Purposes of scholarly journalism as told by the Wisconsin leader are as follows: to improve the community indoctrination; to serve the school as an integrating force; to aid scholarly, in showing talent for leadership, and to prepare for thoughtful citizenship.

Officers of Organization Announce Two-Fold Purpose for Accomplishment During Year

STUDENT COOPERATION ASKED

Founded in the spring of 1924, the Kite and Key Society began their third fall at the University of Pennsylvania. This organization has held two meetings with the best for the future, and they will continue to hold their club activities.

The purposes of the officers, Albert Kipnash, President; Raymond V. Forch, Vice-President; and Joseph Zane, Secretary, are to accomplish this year: to foster interest, during their stay in Philadelphia, the members of all classes that come to visit, and Pennsylvania students, to interest prominent students, to conduct to the University.

President Kipnash desires that all members of the student body and the non-members of the various houses co-operate and work together. To work in this direction, he will materialize the organization to gain the highest point of efficiency.

Membership in the Kite and Key Society is restricted to the members of the Junior Class and seven members of the Senior Class. The third year men are chosen from the Sophomore Class for the competition. The Senior Class includes the fifty-first members of the Philadelphia College of the representative of such a society.
