ARTS ASSOCIATION COUNCIL CONVENES

Plans for Year Discussed at Initial Meeting of Executive Body

President Dechert presided at the in- tial meeting of the Art Association last night. All members, both faculty and students, were present, and plans for the year were discussed.

The first topic raised was the question of "What do we want?" This was discussed at length, and the next step was to draw up plans for the next year.

"The chief feature of the afternoon's business was the adoption of a new constitution for the Art Association," said the speaker, "and this is to be printed and distributed to all members of the Association."
SCOPE OF VETERINARY SCIENCE INCREASING

Dear Reader,

This issue highlights the increasing scope of veterinary science and the importance of preventive and treatment measures in agriculture. The veterinary profession plays a crucial role in safeguarding the health of animals and preventing the spread of diseases.

The spread of disease from animal to human is a serious concern. This fallacy is widespread and misleading. It is not true that all horses in the country are dairy cows. The number of dairy cows in the state has decreased over the years, and this has led to the spread of disease from livestock to humans.

The veterinary profession is essential in preserving animal health and ensuring the safety of food products. The number of veterinarians employed by state authorities has increased, and inspectors are now responsible for the inspection of livestock, food, and medications.

In 1929, the state of Pennsylvania had more veterinarians employed by state authorities than in 1901. This illustrates the growing importance of veterinary science in public health and agricultural development.

Dr. Louis Brandt, a prominent veterinarian, emphasizes the importance of the veterinarian's work. Veterinarians would still have plenty of work even if the actual number of dairy cows in the state were to decrease further.

The spread of disease from animal to human is a minor phase of the veterinarian's work. Other important roles include the inspection of livestock, production, and packing.

INTER-FRATERNITY AGREEMENT
We, the signatures hereto, believing in the value of the several fraternities on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania, hereby agree to the following terms with each other. This agreement shall be considered equally valid in force upon the signatures of the respective fraternities in the provision of this agreement to be signed by them with scrupulous fidelity. This agreement shall be considered finally executed and in force upon the signatures of the legality of the fraternity to the agreement in the presence of a President of the Interfraternity Council, who shall notify the fraternity on the anniversary of this convention has been held, and who shall hold a trial before the Board of Arbitration within twenty-four hours of notifying the second.

IS THIS WHAT WE ARE COMING TO?

I beg your pardon, but have you a match?

Why, no. I thought I had; but if I have not, I have misplaced it. Sorry, that's alright.

And, say, by the way, most of your companions seem to be wearing buttons with the class name 1927 on them. Why don't you go on and get a button with our immortal class name 1927?

THEY ARE RIGHT THERE ABOUT THAT, BUT THEY'RE SUCH A DAMNED BUNCH, DON'T YOU KNOW.

Yes. By troublesome gadets, but, really, you ought to have one. And if you will excuse my getting personal, I don't think that green in your eyes is normal.

"I can't say that I agree with you about that; you see, I wear my glasses to match my eyes." "Oh!" my error. Mighty sorry, old man."

"They're right there about that, but they're such a damned bunch, don't you know."

One thing more, while I think of it. Most of the fellows in the class don't make speeches. Here, try one of these. It'll kill me and see if you don't like it better than that wood."

"Oh, no, man, but I guess I'll try and adjust me for a white. My hands get so if I don't keep them in my pockets."

"Well, I must admit I've seen a few. If I help me, I'll come around and see you."

They ought, buddy. And if I get the help I need from the first house. So long."

Can You Strut the New Ones?

STRONG men are out on the floor these days. Almost every week a new step comes up from the black bottom of the Mississippi, or the plantations along the Gulf.

Do you know the new ones?

Vanity Fair shows you photographs, posed in its own studio, of famous dancers executing the intricate figures. Clear enough to practice by.

And that's just one of the new things Vanity Fair—every month—shows.

Everything New—When It's New

VANITY FAIR knows every celebrity and novelty—American, English, French, Viennese, Spanish, including the Scandinavian.

Vanity Fair has access to the new work of the best men and the best work of the new ones in all the arts.

Vanity Fair goes to all the motor shows, sees—or starts—all the night clubs, is a guest at the private view of all exhibitions, hears the new composer play his symphony at tea, sees the pre-shewing of the new movie, goes behind the scenes wherever anything new in sports or shows goes on.

Just one simple little joy-dollor will bring you the next six issues of Vanity Fair. For sheer clear amusement it beats a dollar's worth of ham-and-eggs all to bits.
