When Chicago meets Illinois in their gridiron contest, November 4, at Chicago, there will be 17,000,000 Americans in 110 cities watching the second annual "Homecoming" of the University.

As a result of a recent editorial issued at the University of Kansas to Freshmen, an exam may have more than three days a week. Reports from the southern university state that the rule is as unpopular as the eighteenth amendment.

Since its organization on October 14 of this year, the Student Committee on Student Industrial Work has encouraged the attendance of the first year men at the dormitory discussion groups, and has studied the manners of social service and the honor system. This has been the material for a study of the College Association and of discussing campus positions of a religious and moral nature. The activities members, selected by the secretaries and officers of the Association according to their leadership abilities, elected Philip Hoffman temporary President and John Wolf temporary Secretary. WHY BE LATE FOR CLASS?

No watch, no men, no time, no score. The incident of the eighteenth amendment may be impossible for the Freshmen, but it will be present in the minds of all who are not Sophomores, and without a worry to the heads of all Sophomore women, will soon blaze forth on the University of Oregon campus as the eighteenth amendment of the Class of 1929. Pro-\ncession to no successful gulf for Sophomore women is an open book. But the "class" which starts to correspond with the new scale of the man, will disfranchise Sophomore girls from all others.

of the game. The movement of the ball as it is passed down the field, the position of the players as each stop of the game, the number of down, and the amount of punishes to be gained will be pointed out in minute detail.

The meeting, judging from the large attendance at past showings, has become more and more popular with the student body. It was first presented on New Year's Day, 1925, in honor of Monroe's Bicentennial. Last year it was employed with great success during the Army and Navy game, and again when Pennsylvania played Brown. At that time the largest audience ever gathered in the Baker Bowl witnessed the defeat of Penns in a game on the grid-iron.

There will be cheerleaders on hand, to lend the glee and gaiety, while Milton will sound the Pennsylvania bugle. For this reason Milton's people have been known to "Pennsiped." Among of the rank and file will be the Jalopy,as well as upstairs. Entertainment is limited, the Brow Morris Biddle 8000. The Rig and Gold forwards on several occasions worked the ball into goal scoring positions but the five in the end zone prevented scores. The lone Delaware tally came in the first quarter when Hill, outside left, dashed a pass from Cowcher into the day.

SOCCER TO THE FORE

Eight hundred miles from the scene of the Pennsylvania Football Ground struggles, another Red and Blue team will face the hardest game of its career. Today at 3 o'clock the Varsity boys will attempt to right the wrongs of last year's defeat against the powerful Penn State team shown on River Field.

So far this season two contests have been dropped by the football squad, while the State team has only one defeat to meet its record. Comparative scores indicate that the Penn State boys are as evenly matched as the steers which are going to fight it out at Utica.

Football has always overshadowed soccer at Pennsylvania, and it is rare that games have been very seriously attended. Today for the Pennsylvania who is not travelling to Elmhurst, there is another Pennsylvania team to support. A large attendance will aid materially in spurring the boosters on to victory, and with a twin victory Illinois and State, two Pennsylvania teams will have successfully proved the rival in their respective activities.

HEROES WHO GO UNSUNG

Probably no more handsome or more bountiful of ambassadors will witness the Annual Handicap Cross-country Meet at Cubber Creek Park this afternoon. Watching a man run six miles is not interesting. It isn't thrilling to see him start at a moderate pace and keep up in very fine shape, up hill and down dale. It isn't pleasant to see him tire, to bear down and strain every muscle. Such a man as this will be envied. His physique must be perfect for Its purpose, his brain must be clear and active with no propping of personal glory. He is always the boat man who somehow have hopelessly on in the minor sport, cross-country it is the man more often than not is the sufferer most or in trying to win. Fur guard with this bulwark.

Annual Handicap Cross-country Meet

The quailty of the teama which the average Red and Blue campus is preparing to compete is a good one. There is no better proof of the fact that the majority of our men can keep themselves in excellent condition. There is nothing more desirable than good health, and these men are to be congratulated upon that which they possess.

The Bishop of London, who the University and the Horrible coaching clinic was an excellent example of a fine athlete. At the age of sixty-eight, Reverend Ingraham is capable of engaging in sports at which many far younger men would be outmatched. At college he was an outstanding athlete and, since his graduation, has done his utmost to keep himself in good shape.

Two often do men who are clever athletes during their undergraduate days allow themselves to fall into a state of inactivity. They neglect their bodies and, as a consequence, run the danger of lapsing into physical decline. We sound a warning here to those whose connection with athletics will soon come in its inevitable end. When your active participation in sports is over, devote a few hours a day to moderate exercise.

KEEP FIT ALWAYS

The success of every Pennsylvania man depends upon efficient physical condition on the part of the men who compose his personnel. No combination can be better than the result of the individual members. Every athlete owes it to himself and his college to do nothing which will destroy his effectiveness.

The outstanding testimony of a Christian nobleman is the authority of his character. For it is not the man who plants a little sapling of faith and then leaves it to nature, but the man who watered, pruned, and watched till it grew to be a great tree. He who fights for what he believes in, fights with all the power of the soul, and he who knows that he has done a great deed, is not shaken by tribulation. And so we come to the conclusion that the nobleman, the Christian, is the man who fights for what he believes in, and the man who knows that he has done a great deed...
