WAKE UP, 1929:
Last year's number of men were enrolled at the University and the Freshman bush leagues became reality and organized as the Class of 1929. As the year advanced, the enthusiasm of the group increased, and it was evidenced in the number of men who registered at the class meetings. It became the proud boast of this Class of 1929 that it was the most spirited of the classes.

A year passed, and the group became the Sophomore class. Immediately, the interest in institutions began to wane in class affairs grew less. Members of the Class of 1929 have not yet learned the importance of regulations with marked exception. Many disregarded them entirely.

Finally, a storm of protest broke out on the campus, as the new policy of the Freshman class was transgressed. The Vigilance Committee and the Sophomore Class began to realize the importance of governing class began to realize that Freshman regulations must be strictly followed. At this point, it became apparent that the Class of 1929 had established a precedent.

Announcement was made of the Sophomore class that all passengers would now be subject to regulations. This notice was met with understanding and is expected to prove successful in the future. It is a well-known fact that the lack of interest in the election is due to the lack of interest in the election.

We have always attributed this inactivity in the court goes to the fact that most of these men have neglected the interest of their daily lives in basketball playing preparatory schools. It is partially true, but there is also a part of the country that has supplied the material for the clever quips which Penquin Edge Publications has so often produced.

In proof of these theories which we present as to the typical player who enters this institution we offer the records established by the majority of Freshman class from the past few years. Considering the fact that most of these men must be taught the Pennsylvania system is far too prevalent, it is not surprising that the court rooms have been consistently good. In contrast to all this we have the responses to the recent calls for candidates by Freshman Coach McCutcheon. An unusually small number of aspirants turned out and those who did not appear up to the standard set by the first-year men of former years.

We do not believe that this situation is indicative of the future, for the recent basketball season was one of the best in the history of Pennsylvania. The members of the class have been turned to by earnest application and are expected to be among the ablest of the Freshman class, and will more than make up for any deficiencies in the past.

THE STANLEY
"Kid Boots," which was one of the most successful musical comedies ever offered by Florenz Ziegfeld with Eddie Cantor as star, has been transferred to the screen with that popular comedian in the same role that he played upon the stage. He is said to be even fatter than he was in the role on the stage, and the production is held to be one of the season's most enjoyable. It will be shown on the screen feature next week at the Stanley Theatre, and as a special stage attraction, there will be offered a new Stanley Frolic. As long as the presenters, this Frolic was conceived and produced by Joseph Forman. Costume and scenery were designed by Henry Deeds.Phan and the hallers are the work of Arnold Buirman. There is a special music by Jacques Graenberg, arranged by Cecil Coping. The Stanley-Mark-Strand Ensemble will also offer a song feature, and there will be a song by the Stanley-Mark-Strand Male Quartet. A novelty will be the first presentation in America of the Stanley-Violinophone, with Madel-elle Marshak as soloist. Edythe Handman and Frank Mello will sing a duet and Miss Ferm, who is a soprano, is down for a solo, as well. June White, Betty Hale and Robert Stetson, the latter as "The Scree-ncrew" are also on the program. The cast will also include special music by the Stanley Symphony Orchestra under the able direction of Graham Morris.

High lights of "Kid Boots" are girls, golf, agility and fast fun. Cantor is making his screen debut with Paramount as star in this presentation. Clara Bow is playing the role of "Kid Boots," and Miss Harris has seen as a swimming instructor. B. F. KEITH'S An engagement of unusual importance, that of Miss Jean Acker, celebrated screen star and first wife of Randolph Valentine, is announced for the week of November 1 at the B. F. Keith Theatre. Miss Acker is a Philadelphia girl and in addition to hav- ing been featured in many screen successes she has enjoyed a most brilliant career on the speaking stage and as one of the most instructive and entertaining features of the present day. Miss Acker is presenting a brand new playlet called "Smokes," which contains a thrilling dramatic story without emotional sen- timent but interesting and with a strain of comedy running through it to add to its amusing qualities. Miss Acker has a fitting role and with splendid support is giving a vaudeville of the best small plays it has seen in a long time. There is a surrounding bill of excellent quality and lusty ballyhooed over by bright and saucy offerings suitable to the vaude- ville's taste. Connie Tilton, clever and versatile singing comedienne who cre- ated such a strong impression here last season returns with a cycle of song storie- s, the lyrics and music of which she wrote herself. They are mostly character songs and may be called types each being a description of something or some per- son and each told to a complete narrative by itself. Philadelphia also contributes another feature to the bill in the person of Flirtie Lo Ver, who for some time appeared in the popular team of Haynes & Lo Ver. She now presents a novel pot-pourri of song, music and dance, called "Catherine," which offers for greater opportunities for the use of all many talents.
