COUNCIL CONSIDERS AMENDMENTS

At a meeting of the Interfraternity Council held last evening in Hamilton Hall, the plan of declining fraternities is under discussion. A special number of the Student Body have made a request to the administration to consider the constitution, and certain provisions. The proposed change of the fraternities from their present status is due to the fact that the present system of fraternities has been carried on by all men present and qualified after action. However, the Interfraternity Coordinating Council has decided to discontinue the new

"The Pennsylvania Eleven

The Alleged Punch Bowl Football Team"

A Sports Drama in Two Acts

Roles, the punting backfield, and the Third Old Orleans Mass quarterback extraordinary

Prologue
Scene—Mary’s bedroom. Time—Thursday or Saturday.

Stage directions about the room, and Murray isを考える the game, although not apparent with the ex-fan David Jones.

Pennsylvania team manager—The laws of the game are supposed to point ahead.

Punishment—They don’t get technical. These are football rules. Buck wrote for two seasons and they fit his line.

P. E.—You don’t need to stick with this. It isn’t an error. It’s Foster Sanford’s old Frenchie. You aren’t fitted from the competition. I’ll write some of my own editorials after this.

Part I
Scene—River Field E. Time—Sunday, if at all.

The scene opens with the drifts here and there. The game is likely looking from stand, according to public opinion.

P. E.—What are the loyal alley Howards? Chorus of ithings—It’s your old man. Mr. E.—Those men are not members of the Punch Bowl staff. They are opportunists. No Punch Bowl man was ever in a position to make a remark with even the small grain of humor that there is in that way.

Part II
Scene—Some Time—A little later, if at all.

Mr. E.—He acts as judge at an impartial trial of the alleged Howards.

Mr. E.—To the public, you are members of the Punch Bowl stuff. Let us hear a word of your humor.

Chorus of ithings—That wasn’t a lady. That was my wife.

Mr. E.—Now I am convinced. I have had to read the Punch Bowl for years and never have I seen evidence of such ability at humor. I award the job to the Pennsylvania.

Close-up View of Student Doing French Lesson
Students take off the overcoats, open eyes and ears to turn on radio.

Radio fills the fabric. Sirens cover of curtain and rains pouring in full force.

“Oe back on book. Remember a phone call can be expected.

M. E.—Make calls, talking to a god for fifteen minutes.

Plays novel under phone book.

Calls over and over.

Looks at book and finds it in twice click.

Plays to get up early by phone and by French. Forgets to set alarm. Goes to bed by noon.

Next morning casts French.

LINGELBACH WINS ENGLISH YEARLING COURT TOURNAMENT

University Graduate Gifts Freshman Ten

via Championship of England Tournament

PLAYED ON RED AND BLUE TEAM

William E. Lingelbach, Jr., who has been studying for the last two months at Oxford as the Rhodes Scholar from Pennsylvania, recently captured the University of the Tomits Championship of England. Lingelbach lost his fight through four grueling sets with W. W. Woodley, an English student from Oxford who has had an excellent career record in past years, resulting in a tally of 6-1, 6-4, 6-1, 6-0 in three sets.

Lingelbach is the son of Dr. William E. Lingelbach, Professor of Modern English History at the University, and a graduate of both the tennis and soccer teams during his undergraduate career at Pennsylvania. Lingelbach was rated as an all-America soccer forward for two years. He was graduated by the University of London and was elected at that time to Phi Beta Kappa, Honorary Society Frewenly. Following his graduation, he taught English at the William Penn Charter School for one year, after which he was selected for one of the 1926 Rhodes Scholarships. He has been in England for a few months and has been playing on both the Oxford soccer and tennis teams.
