The Provost's Dinner

Although vaguely marks the student from the campus of the thousands of students who go to their respective homes to spend Christmas vacation, there are many who will be forced to remain in the city during that period. The majority of those who plan to stay here have homes so far away that the long and tedious trip would make the world move. So matter how the Provost, or any other member of the faculty, is supposed to meet and to find out what the long and tedious trip.

In these circumstnnces that Provoi1s Prinlivenessilo a most hearty invitation to join him at the festive board on Christmas eve. A week from today all the students and other men who are obliged to remain will gather in the Auditorium ofWoman Hall at this annual affair.

The purpose of this event is to provide a good fellowship dinner for the men who are forced to miss the joy of their home. To do this once a time when one is bound to think of the food ones far away, the annual Valhalla get-together should prove a welcome event.

The fact remains, however, that if too small a number of men take upon themselves to meet for friendship's sake at the time when the, vacation will be very short. All of you men, then, who will be away from your homes during the holidays, should communicate immediately with the dean of your department in order that you may arrange for your presence at this all-night feast.

A National Student Conference

In past years it has been custom for the college and university of the country to hold annual conferences in their particular districts on a comparatively small scale. For the current year, however, there has been decided, stage one of the reunions on a national basis in an effort to assemble the most representative of high school students that the country can afford. It is planned to extend the sessions of this advisory over a period of time, 11 to 11, and to conduct the discussion without a formal session. The first of the four sessions will be held in Madison, Wisconsin, Tuesday of next week. Pennsylvania will be the only state to use this opportunity to have a session. In the session to be held on the 16th of January, Roy E. Honey. In addition, twenty undergraduates will present themselves.

It seems to be that one of the greatest forces of collegiate life in the United States is the fact that there is little discussion between the various institutions— that the college on the right hand knows not what is on the left hand. There is but one way, as we see it, to eliminate the evil, and that is, to be found in conferences of the type of the every one of which we speak.

The greatest concern of the national centers is the "false religious and economic problems from the other fellow's point of view. The plan is an attempt to get together in an effort to solve some of the problems that face us all and to find out what our neighbors think about them.

The only bad habit of time and these great conferences is this: some thing is a higher education does for a man is to broaden. If he be the case, and we want are the statement that is true. The National Student Union and the National Student Union Union should do much to involve the Universities in their transactions.

May the New Year be

AN INERMISSIBLE LAW

We are in the habit of looking at anyone or anything which has been over in any way, as made or less of an evil which should be cast off. It is a characteristic of human beings to be self-condemning and therefore one can be more seriously considered for it. But, just the same, it is the fault of authority to say that more. We merely have not much you feel that authority is to be despised remember that even the man may say. The president of a business, with his power, but he must reckon with a board of trustees—so it is all politics of unjust. The hard part about authority, however, is that it must be acknowledged over him who cannot control himself. The man who cannot or will not obey the dictates of his own beast, who is absolute in absolute poverty to do the things which he knows is proper, has to be put under whom he must obey. It is so in every form of life. It is a law of nature which cannot be cast aside.

Well, we are feeling better now. thank you. Too much of the gas life seemed forced upon us during the early part of the week, but after cutting a few minutes of time to have it any way on life. The Corinna, as you will observe, is still helping to make us feel better. So these two things are beginning to resemble a pre-Christmas spirit.

Elsa feels Chaplin's father may be adopted to bear that we agree with any regarding what this daughter needs. He estimates the application "impossible"—but don't think of Elsa in the role of the recipient. That is to say, in fact, but that you have Hollywood's traditions.

Alexander Watson, journalist of some distinction, excites in his a current issue of Corinna, with the information that Alice Foss is not a blizzard, and that the title to that melancholy book was the outgrowth of a publisher's idea. Well, we think that...

Adieu to Press resorts—Many happy returns.

Two gentlemen of our acquaintance, practical students have formulated an elaborate plan to go home in the Pullman berth. Naturally there are those who will have to remain in Santa Clara.

Christmas presents for this department are completely absent.

Personally, we do not feel aggrieved; but we should like to receive a box of dog biscuits.

"I would go home today, but I don't want to ruin our chances.

We take pleasure in increasing the Ink Pen Light on the Christmas Freeman who searched in vain for a seat on the Pullman Hall Christmas trips.

Tentative New Year Resolutions:

1. We are going to try to come home every night before the sun rises.
2. We are positively and absolutely going to obtain "raises" this term.
3. We are going to say "thank you" instead of "thank you" for once this year.
4. We are going to face the fact that we are not "living things" and that the more we think about life, the more we realize that... things never happen that way, and that there is the best way to be to look down the road and to see...
5. People who say that they think we are "in the wrong" to be here.
6. We are going to try to remember to have the door closed properly.
7. We are NOT going to wear any of the Invincibles underwear.
8. We are not trying to look at any of the things that appear in Punch Road.
9. We are going to try to graduate in order that we can... several things that happened.
10. We are trying to get through the year without considering anything.

The forty-fifth birthday of this paper came and went, without much as a salutatory shot from us. However, we won't suppose it makes much difference.

We have a vague feeling that the "house" is strictly deserted. If there is anyone present who can offer any real answer, we should consider with this paper people... in our own homes.

Before we finish off in the general direction of the next year and plan, we wish to extend the Christmas seat to one and all, including Messrs. Steeplechase, Punch, and the Undergraduate Council.

Let's dance and sing, and make good cheer.
For Christmas comes but once a year—
But finds another, and my dear—
