MUST RETURN BLANKS TOMORROW

Distribution of Slips Necessary

Institution on Jury System

In the past few days, the student body has experienced a number of changes that will affect their daily routines. The central office has announced that starting tomorrow, all students must return all blanks to the office. This is in an effort to streamline the distribution process and ensure that all students have the necessary materials for their classes.

As a result of these changes, some students may experience disruptions to their schedules. The administration has expressed its appreciation for the patience and understanding of the student body during this transition period. They encourage students to reach out to their respective departments if they have any questions or concerns.

Parents and students are reminded to check the school’s website and social media channels for updates and additional information. The school will continue to monitor the situation and provide timely updates as needed.

Committee in Charge Accepts Final Plans for Erection of Memorial Hall

Dr. Paul D. Dodd, Associate Director of the Christian Association, is pleased to announce the completion of a new construction project at the University. The committee, including many of the faculty and students who have been working on this project, has accepted the final plans for the erection of Memorial Hall.

This hall will be a significant addition to the University's campus, providing additional space for academic and religious activities. The construction of Memorial Hall is a testament to the dedication and commitment of the University community.

Increasing Student Government Experiences

Pennsylvania University basketball team is ready to engage the Naval Academy in what promises to be one of the hardest fought contests of the year. The players know that their whistles are scheduled to blow at 4 a.m. and it is hoped that many students will be present to witness the match. During Christmas week, the Navy quartet defeated the Columbia aggregation, in present champions of the Intercollegiate Basketball League, by a 10 to 14 score, and undoubtedly will be prepared for the present match. This five-member unit is good enough against the Yale team last week.

The Pennsylvania Reviewers are greatly disappointed because of the injuries suffered by three of the regulars. Manager, "Gree" Kennedy and "Goo" Schaefer will be on the programs as substitutes in the match. This five-member unit is good enough against the Yale team last week.

The Pennsylvania Reviewers are greatly disappointed because of the injuries suffered by three of the regulars. Manager, "Gree" Kennedy and "Goo" Schaefer will be on the programs as substitutes in the match. This five-member unit is good enough against the Yale team last week.

The Pennsylvania Reviewers are greatly disappointed because of the injuries suffered by three of the regulars. Manager, "Gree" Kennedy and "Goo" Schaefer will be on the programs as substitutes in the match. This five-member unit is good enough against the Yale team last week.
THE PALESTRA AGAIN

That the advance of the season upon Pennsylvanians whose campus is one of the most numerous hibernaculums within our confines in recent years is a fact not to be denied. As such a realization from a mass of turfed about project, has placed in our midst a gigantic indoor athletic plant which bids fair to impel the undergraduate to place on the mat and proceed promptly with the school, as the gymnasium during the course of the winter months.

The planter and colorful counterparts of the football gurus, who take place upon Franklin Field during the fall, will not find it necessary to depart from the athletic stage this year. A recent announcement brought to our attention the fact that the University Board, in order to have a place where competitive activities may be held, will engage luckily in the new spacious Palestra, at the close of each ensuing grid commenced.

A recent announcement has brought to our attention the fact that the University Board, in order to have a place where competitive activities may be held, will engage luckily in the new spacious Palestra, at the close of each ensuing grid commenced.

One charge that has been brought against university social organizations is that they are too often associated with the idea of mere socializing; that the members of an organization form a unit, which is too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

It is often said that every social organization has been formed, an attempt to combat, or prevent the traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.

The traditions that have become too marked, and that the organization has been too often concerned only with the welfare of the undergraduate body by the organization. When this idea becomes too marked, a weakening of the individual and moral results.
GET ACQUAINTED WITH OUR CUSTOM-MADE DEPARTMENT
Fit Guaranteed Wonderful Values

UNIVERSITY CLOTHES SHOP
3705 Spruce Street

Yellow Lantern Cafeteria
3441 Walnut Street
Dinner 6 to 7
Luncheon 11.30 to 2
Closed Monday and Sunday

COACH WITTMER TUTORS
Clever Princeton Five

Tiger Counter-Boost Fighting Quintet—
Miles, Sophomore Guard, is Outstanding Star

PLAY VARIETY JANUARY TWELFTH

One week from today, when Pennsylvanian's varsity basketball men invade the fair of the Princeton Tigers, to do battle with the strong New Jersey five, the Red and Blue team will face one of its hardest matches of the current season. Just as such battles between Cornell's golden eleven and the University football team figure out the best in the rival teams, so does each court fray between Pennsylvanian and Princeton furnish ideal thrills to the spectators.

The five regulars who will take the floor at the opening whistle for the Princetonians will probably be McCabe and Hendricks, forwards; Floyd, center; Alexander and Miles, guards. Perhaps the outstanding star of this aggregation is a Sophomore guard, Miles by name, who bails from Pittsburgh, Pa. His stellar performance has been the guiding star of Princeton basketball all year and his work has insured that of any other member of the squad.

The Tiger Five this year is a fairly inexperienced combination. This statement is proved by its defeat at the hands of Temple University, a Philadelphia, in the opening game. In this regard the two rivals are equal, for Pennsylvania dropped its opener to Temple in a body-controlled fray.

Come To the Largest Clothes
Factory
In Town

That sells direct to the wearer at wholesale price.
No high rent—no high salarey—no charges—no middleman profit.
Just one small wholesale profit.

$35 Value Silk-Faced TUXEDOS
Perfect fitting finest mate-rates, silk faced lapels, wide and regular braided trousers.
Sizes for every Young man,
Tall, Short, Slim or Stout.

Ed. Kolhoff
3611 Woodland Avenue

Character Building

Education, social responsibility, self denial, and experience all go far toward building character.

Few of us realize that good clothes are also an important factor in that greatest of all architectural achievements - the building of a MAN.

Stetson 'D' Clothes are made only for college men, and are making their first appearance on the Pennsylvania campus today —and such “clothes make the man.”

Phy & INNES
LEADING COLLEGE TAILORS
1115 WALNUT ST.

Ed. Kolhoff
3611 Woodland Avenue

PYLE & INNES
Leadirig College Tailors

Clothes Satisfaction
For over 20 years we have given Clothes satisfaction to many Penn Men—
Our “brightest and best” stock now awaits your call whether for Sack, Tuxedo, Full Dress, Sports Suits or Over-clothes—Always the newest in pattern and the latest in style.

SHREDDED WHEAT
MAKE IT A DAILY HABIT

Try Shredded Wheat today with hot milk or cold, or enjoy it with your favorite fruit for a real cereal feast.
STRAWBERRY & CLOTHIER

January Lowers the Prices on a Choice and Large Stock of Men's Suits

Stein-Bloch, Wickham and Alex Makes

The Suits Include about every type and variety that any discriminating man would want. A large selection of other-than-seasonal sizes is included.

Substantial savings.

Men's Overcoats

Stein-Bloch, Wickham, Alex and Theaston & Wright Overcoats in these groups—each coat offering the purchaser good appearance, comfort, and a money-saving opportunity he'll appreciate.

Bethlehem & Clothier—Men's Floor 1st Floor

Zimmerman's

MEN'S SHOES

137 S. Broad St. 1232 Market St.

THREE NEW "Fall Models" 7

The Greatest Values In Philadelphia

Price Range $7 to $10

OPEN SATURDAY EVENING

January, 1927