PROVOST FAVORS EXTRA-CURRICULAR ACTIVITIES

Dr. Penniman Believes Work on Campus Organizations Helps Students When Not Overdone

ACTIVE MEN HIGH IN STUDIES

Contrary to the opinions expressed by many noted educators throughout the country, notably Dr. Frank Abbot, president of Swarthmore College, Dr. Joshua D. Penman, President of the University, it is in favor of the many extra-curricular activities in the college of to-day. Emphasizing the importance that the student should make his studies the principal consideration in his college life, Dr. Penman went on to say:

"I do not feel that the college system places any undue emphasis on 'activities' in college, although it is true, of course, that there are always certain young people in every institution who have a wrong, or rather, a foolish sense of values, and to whom it seems more desirable to appear important than to be so. In my experience of university life, however, I have often observed that it is generally those young men and women who are interested in a number of activities who are really the best students, and who might themselves well in later life.

"The only remedy that I can propose against the abuse of 'activities' in college, or in the world itself, is common sense. Everyone must decide for himself what he is best fitted to do, and then do it as well as he can. We have, however, a great multiplicity of 'activities' in our colleges, due to the recognition of the fact that all cannot, or will not enjoy, doing the same things, but that there should be some 'social outlet' for every student. "

"Because there are many 'activities' from which the student can choose, it does not follow that all are supposed, or encouraged, to take part--n mushy. It college, as in the world, the individual is supposed to discard and select. All his life he will have to do this, and it is best for him to begin to do so at college."

ON TO PRINCETON

In the season of football at Princeton, the leading girlish minds engaged in by the women of the Big Red and Big Blue have been with the fighting shelters representing the Big Red of Cornell. And just at this season's opening they have been brightening every light of every university season, or also been every basketball game with the Princeton Eagle been a terrier and hard-fought conflict—ever a veritable survival of the fittest.

The students of Princeton show no sign that as manner how great a team with the floor wearing the colors of the rival institutions, the other side was very likely as a championship group. The weaker team in any of these battles always seemed to be strengthened by means of its opponent's movements countermoves.

The newspapers countervail that the mighty Eagle to its glee for the supremacy of the Eastern universities. It has been an evenning's common for the men have been defeated and men have succeeded in very numerous instances of victory over.

An examination of these forces of the two will not, however, except upon the conclusion, we can assure you at this time that Princeton Pennsylvania classes.

The Big Red and Blue towers tower only with the assurance that the student body is behind them, heart and soul, and they will remember that when they take the field in the Nassau gymnastics tonight. But think how much more real this rivalry was never to them if they were to find a multitude of Pennsylvania men in the stands cheering them on.

A fighting court combination is desiring of support, Princeton is but a comparatively short journey from Philadelphia. Prove your loyalty! Prove your oft-reiterated loyalty would been)

As a witness to prove that all of our beloved mermaids swimming around Nassau Island from being in a rest of a course is probably another chapter of banana oil.

Toodays Fray Makt:

All Students who do not have their pictures taken for the 1925 Report this week may pose with the Freshmen class.

We have not conferred with the authorities on the subject, but we concluded that it is not common world's gratification on the improvements of our past life.

As we reminisce (and why not?) about the worst land up with which we lived life was the necessity for riding horses. With it was an urgent necessity and not a position. In order to check further sagacity from the efforts of others, it is not known that we have never enjoyed it, and if we can follow, we shall not ever feel in the future again.

Our present daily routine is considerably different from the succeeded Wild and Woolly Western life. There, we were employed by staw milkers and house boys. Here, we spend our time glorifying politicians and professors.

Our idea of a dull evening is to listen to a bridge game over the radio.

We wonder what the anthropologists expect to find under the skye street pavement? It is reported that the carsome were begun by a breakfast who lost a car taken by an entrance in Hamilton Walk.

We have never imagined understanding which comes into mind just now in the Daily News campaign to employ the disinterested.

The next night, the men from John's home town came across the street and start putting together their fraternities that they would not run Freshmen until the agreed upon dates.

Now at this big university, in the part of him, there were two Freshmen, John and George, who were roommates. They came from a long, long way from the university. And when they arrived at the university, they knew that the leaving would be long, and far for less about the ceremonaries.

One night in November, John and George were sitting in their room, making, when they heard a knock on the door. John opened the door and found three newspapermen inside. One of them was a man from John's home town, as he asked them in. The two Freshmen were introduced to the other man, who seemed very pleased, and chatted with them for quite a while.

COLLEGE CAMPUS CHAT

Although Freshmen have the reputation of not being able to see Johns, the seniors at Fairfield have American college customs prevail intact. The appearance of a yellow sticker on the campus is enough to make one believe the weaver as a prank.

A decidedly aristocratic atmosphere prevails at Oxford. Conformation would not be rare if anyone attempted across the campus in baggy plus-four's, green golf-socks, red beards and a bright red inside. American graduate students at the English university are known to give away the clothes which they formerly wore because they could not endure the tempting publicity which they attract.

Toleration is not used by college men as such as the public thinks. If statistics gathered from the Freshman class of this State can be accepted as a criterion, out of a total of 2,184 men, only 29 per cent, or 770 men, use tobacco in any form. Of the total number of tobacconists 400 see cigarette smokers, 200 puffs away on the cigarette pipe, 55 prefer pipes and 6 confide to clopping.

While many courses are conducted without the use of text books, a class in logic at the University of Texas is the only one on record in which the students wrote their own text. A textbook is written by all enrollees considered in the class, after which a final analysis, consists of an adequate text book on the subject.

A questionnaire sent out to graduates of ten colleges and universities in that country shows that the students' ideal of a wife should be a "home body," who will have at least two children, one who does not want a business or career woman, who does not smite, drink or "pet," and who will be good enough to sit and read if the time of marriage is between the ages of 25 and 35.

LA SCALA RESUMES OPERATIC SERIES

Stevens may obtain reduced prices for "Fatti" Production Saturday

Mr. George E. Nitschke, President of the La Scala Grand Opera Company and Recorder of the University, announced yesterday that reduced prices will again be available to University students wishing to attend the presentation of Fatti which will be given this Saturday by the Metropolitan Opera House. Mr. Nitschke asks that all students who wish to take advantage of this opportunity purchase "concert" admission tickets. Students will have to sign a list of members who wish to purchase "concert" admission tickets. In addition to the regular cast which will take part in this week's production of Francesca Poli, Director General of the Metropolitan Opera announces that the role of Marzio will be taken by Miss Helen Moran John, a young American Soprano, who made such a great success in New York. The ballet, which will number over 150, will be an outstanding feature of this production.

Mr. Nitschke states that his opera is so popular among music lovers, will be presented sparsely, and will therefore be offered as much as possible. This opera will be an outstanding feature of this production. Mr. Nitschke asks that all students who wish to take advantage of this opportunity purchase "concert" admission tickets.
