MITCHELL TALKS UPON "SACRIFICE" Takes Biblical Text as Foundation for Address Among Self-Sacrificing

Mr. E. S. Mitchell, speaking the 6th ev-ing of the mission, was held at the Church of the Poor Richard Club, on "The Spirit of Love and Sac-ifice," which has been the theme of the mission. The spirit of sacrifice, he said, is the great light of that mission.

The address was introduced by the President of the University, who said the spirit of sacrifice is the great light of the University. The spirit of sacrifice

A DECIDED IMPROVEMENT

From time to time of this column have severely criticized Pennsylvania's previous loginUser for his lack of the lag which it has developed during the course of this, their first year at the University. It has been a short time since we recnounced our change before, but the college is in a much beter and suggested that several media by which they might be used, and also be vocal to the college for the time near future.

The first campus speech was made at the initial Mental Health Unit Dinner under the presen-ance of the students and works even of the Freshman that a moment's thought could arise to devise and need for the movement. As a matter of fact, every appeal has been made on the Pennsylvania campus in recent weeks.

The first-year men have seen one appointed, but not. they have had the past few weeks. It's pointed out the importance of the effort to read side, and ready to improve the Freshman of an important fact that the speech was to be erved.

Another chance for the 1929 group to prove its worth came no earlier in the speech of for permanent istry. Despite the fact that there was competition for but two of the five offices which were to be filled, more than twenty-two men interested themselves in the door. Considering the fact little was at staks, the election resulted in no friction at the contest.

We congratulate the freshmen upon their splendid work of the present week. May they keep up the proud work.

1927 RECORD

To attempt an estimate of the total number of placers where of seven hundred persons are invested, especially when you consider that the number of members of this year's class is growing by leaps and bounds upon each month of the current year, it is no surprise that the number of members of the Class of 1927 is now substantially of theirastic blanks and photographs, has given the Board of Cooperation in which during the past week and which among members of the class have met their obligaions. There will remain two days in which fourth-year men will be afforded the opportunity of having their portraits (\nand complying with the uniform requirement) to order that may be represented in the Year Book. To have the uniformly recognized representatives who have stood out should attend to the matter at once. This is their last chance.

CONSIDERATION

It is estimated that in order to be observed, but little con-ideration the average person gives to the feelings of others.
To illustrate, I am told by this important instance of little incidents which could be considered among others.

A great sensation is given a cold and the immense condition of a student who must be unique in the free because of the same. This is a typical example of
