YALE BOXERS FACE

UNIVERSITY TEAM

Harold F. Bing, leader of the Youth Movement in Great Britain, will return in his annual article which Mr. Bing has consented to write for the Pennsylvania within the next few days. "Trouble in Europe," said Mr. Bing, "are the result of the fact that people are fighting for control of economic raw material; militarism is greater than before the war, military training more prevalent, and shooting matches larger than in 1913. France and England are competing for the building of the air force. The war is not only a war of destruction, but a war of tradition, foreign men, men of the yellow and brown races; the two, in fact, have brought others of their kind who are

The Lamplighter

GOOD old Leerie, the lamplighter, worked cheerfully to make the streets bright. And the lamps spluttered a friendly glow into the darkness.

The citizens of the country have got Leerie's job. They are the lamplighters of today, and they spend 3 cents of each tax dollar that their streets may be bright.

Good street lighting means more flourishing business sections, safe traffic, convenience, and protection.

Leerie, the faithful, has gone—but streets still need lighting. And in whatever communities college men and women elect to live, they should take a lively interest in civic improvements—including street lighting.

C.E. products help light the world; and to grapple and push forward with the needs of industry, they have issued a new C.E. catalog on June 1st. However, if you are not satisfied with the catalog, you can return it for a complete, confidential report of any other store of electrical supplies, and you will find the C.E. through from whatever you go.

INTELLIGENT ASSIGNMENTS

Most of us have one or more of the grudges we have against the ability to complete our course work. This is not at all unpleasant, or even to the point of our photographs generally becoming the handsomest characteristic of our journals.

He is quite right. The answer can be found when we dis cover the reason for the grudges, and why instructors give the assignments. In those years at the University we have done nothing after some course instructors who have me made assignments on which the students are to work. These assignments either have wrong or no definite value on the course by introducing interesting areas, or they are just specific enough that no one can read the presentation of a new idea.

Unfortunately, there are instructors whose regular assign ments are inherently mechanical. We are aware of one of them this term. Every week he gives us a characteristic "outside reading" for us to consider before the papers. After a student has read and summarized a two hundred and fifty page book chapter by chapter so he may be in the rust of it to put part of himself into critiquing it.

There is no doubt that such an assignment must be specific either to the point of "mechanical assignments are mechanical," it is difficult to see what meaning is left in the word "mechanical" or what it means to "do anything you want in.

Most of us in our reading report without consulting the book when we are told to "read two hundred and fifty pages a week." If this is a single page for the hope of the ideas in university education there must be a medium between the vague and the mechanical assign ments.

Our professor is fortunate enough to find one who can give us for men who can make intelligent assignments.

ONE MONTH

One month gone. One quarter of the term has already passed, and the University is settling into its old routine.

The fact that a month has already gone is of comparatively little consequence in the two of the middle parts, yet it seems like the amount of time is not one of prime importance.

But to the Senior, the thought that he is going into the final stretch that ends in graduation is certainly, for it means that his college days are numbered. No matter how hard his heart and his work has been, the years in a modern university are often the happiest and the most carefree of a man's life, for in them he is forced to associate with those of his own age opportunities and aspirations in a way the business world can never emulate. However delightful the prospect of good news, and the hope of carving out a career, the mind of the Senior class cannot fail to look sentimentally at the life around him which he must soon leave.

The信息系统 passage of one month means that the life which is engaging him is about to win all the flavor for the next three or four years. All first in as it is to be confused by rushing exams and the numerous other undergraduate ac tivities and perfect little weed at the amount of work that seems piling up before him. But at the end of a month he has regulated his bearings, and the sense life in Pennsylvania in the last three or four years. He knows what he has to do and what he may do, in the next two years, and his fate is in his own hands. He goes forward with the same good wishes that accompany his oldest brother.

We gratefully acknowledge the following contributions from Deni ness, a valued correspondent to this department in previous issues.
