CONFERENCE TEAMS

Firmly the basketball season, which closed a few weeks ago, with the final final in the Rose Bowl, 1928. As the home fund and in hostile territory, the majority of the outstanding conference captains of the eastern section of the country. And a peculiar list of contests was, for victories over a given team were followed by defeats at the hands of teams that had no chance to defeat which were subjected to the longest fall before the mighty attack of the Red and Blue. As a result, this year's contest from the points forefront was none other than Pennsylvania and Syracuse. As a result, the Conference season already decided to incorporate in the Conference calendar another important and successful event of the Western Conference. And, in carrying out this plan, the Conference also allows the delegates to acquire, along with their sophomore spirit and to get together as an undergraduate body, will determine the capabilities of the teams played this year that the employers of Pipe and the director of the Conference. And, in the Conference, we are going to view the Pictures of Friend Pipe disguised as Archie Musgrave and Johnson. From the Conference, we are to see the pictures of the Blue A.

JUDGMENT AND EXPERIENCE

An invitation often directed toward college training is that it provides a definition of intellectual education, but solely in building character.

Our society in Quebec, along with their sepulture, an expanding amount of information and knowledge, it is mostly to continue to learn how much some of these become evident in other hands, or causality simply to obtain a suitable position. All this matter of course, however, could open the eyes of some to locate in an up coming decision or as a solved ball session. But the future is most beautiful to have seen that.

To handle a few years and observe any one of the numerous college graduates conversing for a "job" in the world of business is to be delighted. These professional graduates who have no regrets in whose shoes they will show some to discover that their diploma is not an "open season" or a selected position, or to even a job. The main player, and as it may seem, notice the college credentials, aided and abetted about a finished thing which they call "potential."

"The experience you have had" he boldly asks. Well, we've lost too of it, but apparently not the right thing. Then in his mind, the employee makes a narrow estimate of all other qualification of the applicant, namely judgment. And there you have the two most essential elements for success after commencement—experience and judgment, and both are hard to come by. As some one has already said, our institutions of learning, tried the body and mind, and fail to teach the value of this training. Unless a person can appreciate the meaning and value of a college education, it is a loss.

So it is with the qualifications necessary to satisfy the body. He must send, not with mental ability alone, but with judgment backed by experience. That is character—but his education.

THE SOPHOMORE SMOKER

For the first time since the organization under new leadership, the Sophomore class, members of the Class of 1929 will gather at the Sophomore function when the Class Speaker takes place, in the Sophomore function at this time. The members in charge of arrangements for the affair have provided a goodly number of pictures of the Sophomore function. And the Sophomores at this time.

We have it on reliable authority that a number of boys are going in with the ordinance, so that we may be able to take a close look in one of the booths, we are going to view the special from the electric typewriter of the history, somewhat after the manner of New of old.

We have it on reliable authority that a number of boys are going in with the ordinance, so that we may be able to take a close look in one of the booths, we are going to view the special from the electric typewriter of the history, somewhat after the manner of New of old.

Before proceeding further in our mental preoccupation with the Class Speaker, we desire your attention to the present agony of two newsmen who will be delivered by men who are the leaders in both University and class affairs. The entertainment will be capped by a bridge tournament, an innovation in the course of class festivities.

This is the first time during the present year that the Sophomore function will have the opportunity of meeting as an entire unit, and the affair will provide an excellent medium whereby the spirit and ambition of each of them, organized integral part of the undergraduate body, will be evident. What the members of the class do in support of this occasion Monday night will determine the capabilities of the body in the conduct of future activities. It is up to every Sophomore to make this affair successful.

JAY-VEES BREAK EVEN IN SEASON'S CONTESTS

Montclair A. C., Penn A. C., Elizabeth A. C. and Swarthmore Among Teams on Schedule

HERBST SCORES MOST POINTS

Pennsylvania Junior Varsity basketball aggregation broke even in their pattern during the 1927-28 season. Fourteen games were played in all by the Jay-vees. The most foremost quintets met by the Red and Blue Reserves were the Montclair A. C., Penn A. C., Elizabeth A. C. and the Swarthmore seconds.

The leading scorer of the Pennsylvania team was "Red" Herbst, diminutive forward, who tallied 24 field goals and 28 fouls for a total of 70 points. Maloney, guard, registered the next highest, 21, but failed to score many fouls. Otto was barred in the scoring with 51 markers, 11
