In the year 1925 Pennsylvania won her first intercollegiate track championship, the meet being held in the Berke- ley Bowl. The victory was something of a surprise in the outside world, in spite of the fact that the University team had been second only to Princeton for two years before. Last fall, nine members of the first ten under the leadership of William E. S. Clark and several members of the second team, the scores of the two teams being Pennsylvania 84, Yale 21-12.

The first place winner was George W. O., who took the mile run in 4:25; in the two mile the time being 9:35:3:5; in the three mile and in the four mile, the time being 18:35:3:5; in the half mile race; in the 440 yard dash; and in the 100-yard race. The team was third in the 100 yards while Boston was first and Harvard was second. In the 200 yards low hurdles, all of the performances of the Pennsylvania men were exceptionally high.

Belair, Plan a Great Night of Scholarship
Welcome, Students!

Membership in a faculty and student body, the principles of primary and secondary schools, representatives of Board of Education and members of the faculty of normal schools and colleges in Pennsylvania and nearby states will meet together for the biannual national congress. The program for this congress, which is under the control of the American School, will be largely devoted to immediate discussion upon topics of general interest in the group which will be represented.

Perhaps the most outstanding factor concerning this annual gathering is the fact that the gathering this year will be held in one of our most well-known on the University campus. Although a few meetings will be held at other schools and colleges of the state, the program as a whole, as best as the schedule during this week and the majority of the sessions will take place on campus.

Our next meeting features of the students' attendance and the one which will give the public some opportunity to hear our green talk in being arranged by the University Line. Under the auspices of the George Eastman Foundation, four of the events will feature on "On Our Campus," "For Fun," "Friday," and "Sunday evenings of this school year. The men have been secured to speak, and the group of approved opinions on a topic of the type and should prove to be exceptionally interesting listeners.

It is ordering a privilege for the University to entertain our guests, and The Pennsylvania will extend its seat to them most cordially.

"BENIGN FROM THE BUNKS"

Although one of the youngest members of the University's family of undergraduate publications, the Pennsylvania News is fast expanding rapidly until it has assumed a position of leadership. The magazine has been permitted to be published "On the University Campus" for the last two years, and students are frequently paid for it, by its use as a medium for other serious matters.

During the first few years of the existence of the publication, it was called the "Temple Unknown Journal," program was close, and with the outbreak of the World War, publication was suspended. After the cessation of hostilities, the magazine again begins to make a rapid appearance on the campus and under the supervision of a managing board fitted with the real purpose of publication began.

The site of the magazine has increased, numerous new features were introduced; the general tone of the publication was raised. And, most significant of all, the bulletin body was manifested a real interest in the magazine.

In 1924 the name of the publication was changed to the Pennsylvania Tabloid, broadening the range of its appeal to include the fields of architecture, engineering, science, and art. The position of the magazine has been realized by the present editor in the present position at the top of the leader. And certainly it is now a publication of which Pennsylvania may feel justly proud.

Although amassing of ranks and school spirit have always been a problem in the management of the Pennsylvania News, such action as that which occurred between members of the two-year class in the absence of the Sophomore Slumber on November 16th was an uncharacteristic effort from that which was usual. Such an effort was the result of the determination that every group should not be a continuation of lesser class activity, but would also be to the advantage of both classes in competition with the future. The same class, which is a point of great pride in the present position at the top of the leader, and certainly it is now a publication of which Pennsylvania may feel justly proud.

The entire senior class, consisting of the Undergraduate Council, the two Senior marshals, and a handful of senior group, passed before the Cumberland as something the other day. They shaped a future of their own in the future of the school, and they probably won't discover their mistake until the FITED Record is published.

At the recent annual meeting of the annual board, the Editor won the first roll and the latter crossed up on the next for that, whereas he was automatically elected Business Manager.

The newspapers bring the gratifying information that a number of corrupt politicians are still being executed in China because of their unfair methods of government. The newspapers! China! We departed a couple of staidship of campus administrators (in Shanghai)!

It appears that the Sophomore Slumber was the second of considerable magnitude on that part of the first. The second year men, however, issued a few charts at the presentations and went out and cracked some more jokes.

The rumour reached such proportions that it was not too unharmful to expect the Dorms open to push the laundry around the campus. "Kicking out your head!"

After the rumour had been going around for a day or two, everyone with a right cold had already made his last will and testament.

There was some talk of quarantining the Dorms. That would have accomplished the cleaning of the entire city and killed the roof and sidewalks. The casual list probably have been greater than the one resulting from the epidemics.

Very left the following notice with us: "If the person who left his rifle on our car last Friday night will come for pay for this advertisement, we will be much obliged."""

Professor had novel use for birch rod in punishing his students who were always late

When the present understanding of Pennsylvania is lost for a class, he gave a half-dozen. This is too well known to be done with much detail as it would merely be a waste of time. However, it is not always the case. Just as there are times when there is a need of dealing with tardy students changed. An increasing number of the methods used in early days for its discipline to customs is likely to be found at the head of the University and is well known to many of the old "Irks."

CHINESE STUDENT GIVES ORIENTAL VIEWPOINT

P. T. Lau Offers First Hand Interpretation of Eastern Uprising Against Foreigners

OPINION STATED AT FORUM

At the last meeting of the Forum, held in Houston Hall last Friday night, the discussion, very particularly centered about China. Mr. P. T. Lau recently returned from Canton, gave a first hand and very interesting interpretation of the Chinese situation. Mr. Fung, secretary of the Chinese Student Club, very vividly represented the Chinese point of view. Mr. Dennis testing did much in keeping the very lively discussion on the ground.

Mr. Lau, to his introductory remarks, traced the important events and developings of Chinese Nationalism. He summed up the organization and reorganization of the Rebuilding the Chinese National Party, under Dr. Sun Yat-Sen. With Canton, at the cusp of the South of China, as the center, a hundred or hundred and fifty trained students as a nucleus, gathered about itself a well equipped army, fired by an idealism that one could feel in Mr. Lau's calm and cool words, and that feeling of awakens people, the Nationalist Army was formed after politics, under them held the whole Yangtze Valley. It was not just an army formed by the representatives of an awakened people, that it was possible for this army to do what it has done. Mr. Lau pointed out the absurdity of the charges that Russia was sending millions of dollars to the Canton treasury. Russia is too poor to care of itself. It is only to protect and help China without asking for favor. Russians have never asked for favor. Mr. Lau drew an interesting parallel with the American acceptance of Spanish and Mexican immigration.

This discussion that included tackled the problem from many aspects and tangential, and many classes of the populace.

The vital interest of British merchants in China, expressed by England's troubles with her colonies; the vanity of Russian

The China-British American Foreign policy the position of foreigners in China; the Chinese Rabbi movement. These elements showed that the group organized pretty well what the Chinese people. This bare fact was kept well in the four: the Chinese want their own government, their own country and an independence, and further than as millions of people want something, they are bound to get it. It was simply true that the Russian States had infinitely moved off by being the face to open, so in November, and had openly bowed itself to the British foreign policy.

The meeting was brought to a close by the main questioner on this resolution:

Resolved: That it is for the mutual interest of China and the United States that the United States do not interfere with Chinese Nationalism and that we immediate step the United States withdraw its battalions and Matrosen from China.

The Forum meets every second Monday in Houston Hall. The subject for the next discussion will be something later. Students and faculty members are invited to join it.
