BOOSTS AND KNOCKS

"If you can’t beat, don’t knock." At a good old-time hundred parents American school which is used on various and occasional occasions. In fact it seems to have been accepted as a standard of behavior. We hear it applied to this, and the other thing, and it has been so drummed into us that it seems almost impossible to think of doing it as a habit. Of course, there are few who are so eager to regulate their actions and words as to follow it universally, but as a basis of conduct it is pretty well admitted as right.

For be it from me to extol the children’s “kicker” or justly say vicious attacks on anything or anybody, but unless it is a great thing and it is worn for the freedom with which it is hurled about, this would be a deadly, designed world of ours. In fact a kicker alone is a thing of times. He is stimulating. He makes you think, and thus every snip which can be found for the child’s mind, and force it out of its rut has at least accomplished something, to say nothing of the right. But still it would be so that they generally pick the wrong time and the wrong situation for their view.

Criticisms which are constructive are always a good thing. Criticisms which are destructive is sometimes a good thing. In various fields of life it is often necessary for a lot of self-satisfaction which is warranted, and nothing is a little bit better than such an attitude. While a boost will of course bring you no personal harm, but who is he that can say he is contented, single tracked. He is our pleasure to live you to.

*"Today, when we dinner out and see the face of such and such or fly into various and sundry expressions we are claiming the whole attention of the serious undergraduate of any city, we think it best to keep most of it in your imagination."

Today, as we dinner out about us and see the cows of such and such or fly into various and sundry expressions we are claiming the whole attention of the serious undergraduate of any city, we think it best to keep most of it in your imagination.

WELCOME ALL

Today the University has freed itself from the thousand athletes as the Thirty-third Annual Bowling Carnival takes its way on Franklin Field. To each and every one, from the mild pet from the prism hunter or to our classes across the sea, pass. This be the end of our club and world-breaded wails.

It is our pleasure to have you today and tomorrow as our guests. It is our sincere hope that your visit will bring you the same joy as your previous visit brings us.

The Pennsylvania undergraduate body, the administration and the Reedy management stand ready to help you in any way possible. The University will be an open house to all let the occasion will find you ready to serve you and make your stay pleasant.

The Spirit of friendly rivalry, in which you will compete, beguiling not as it does the boy that in a man, is the sign man will draw thousands of visitors to Franklin Field. They come for the thrill that crouches competition across in doors. They will cheer you on as you play for victory. They will greet those who are winners with the smiles of those to follow. There will be plenty of friendly competition for those who arrive mightily but whose best of forts were not quite good enough to win the latest wounds of victory.

Pennsylvania has great pride in being first at such or other events. Typical of all that men in athletics. Countless competitions and a spirit of friendly rivalry—such is the Bowling Carnival opening today, the thirty more when Pennsylvania has been privileged to hold.
