Guest Urges Undergraduates To Back Football Team At Princeton Saturday

Undergraduate Council Reserves Special Train For Round Trip To Princeton at Reduced Price

the students will be able to return to campuses and plan games as they choose without any formalities.

Dr. Crawford explained that unless they have a clear understanding of what they want to do, they may get off the track without ever really understanding the situation.

At Princeton University, students are given an opportunity to make an informed decision about their future. The student-faculty coffee hours will commence on October 31.

Students have been exchanged for two years in the program and will be under careful consideration for admission. Dr. Crawford explained the selection process in his seminar. In a seminar in American Studies, he said:

LEAVES OF IVY

"Soror, no catalogues." A request was not made by the Editors in Chief in this issue for a college catalog. The printing presses were unloaded by the boy who had made the request and explained a catalog, if could be had. Bud, on all grounds, Anatole issued strict rules which might deter any request that the boy might have. For instance, at least one chaperon had to be on duty, all male callers at the institution, and the girl could not even cotter young men, unless accompanied by a male. Oh, yes, and one other thing, the lad was supposed to have been at school for fifteen years.

Dating Dance... At Swarthmore College, the date pool was conducted to find out something about the dating habits of the old lady. A few of the results might be a prop to here, so I’ll pass them along. There are, of course, a majority of the dates on campus and the possession of dates is a markedly effective social pattern. Fraternity men have half of their dates as fraternity parties. There is some tendency for students to date members of their own class, particularly among freshmen. Half of the dating activities at Swarthmore are determined mutually with one’s own classmate; the other half are twice as often made determines. One-half of the students’ dates are about a month long. It is pointed to about one-seventh of the freshmen promising very little order.

Social promotion at Princeton is a method for improving fraternity scholarship at Princeton University has been dropped. The measure was passed ineffectively in the autumn term.

Post of Personal Privilege... Old alumni are not so far away... Princeton has a group of alumni who are benefited by some of its D-I-E-kick business. Mr. Henry S. Draper, an old Princetonian, has instituted a "For Dear Old Princeton" bequest program. In order to encourage the members to work in either pledge bequests to Princeton in the form of money, they can make their alma mater a beneficiary in some way through life insurance.

Home Spy... When a modernistic sculptor is created on the campus of a first-rate educational institution, we are immediately interested. Whether it was a group of students, a matter of merely a lack of understanding, as no one can say, but short truth is, the abstract structure appeared, on much more natural appearance in the street. The figures were led to the statue, fires were built under it, hay was stuffed into its jeans, and manure was placed under the statue.

Close-Up... "Waterfront" Emerges as Masterpiece In Above Average Film Season

by Richard Leviston and William Link

We are told that a column must have a column and a title... It is either column and title on the second page, entertain, instruct, or outrage. We hope to do it all, with an emphasis on the first necessity. "Waterfront," as this assemblage of words which has been ineptly titled, will attempt to take in this motion picture, radio, television, and stage. It is the story of the states in this column of opinion. It is not a film that relies on the cherished beliefs, or prays that something may happen. If you write a letter to the editors, it will enable you to reach more steers in the near future efforts.

In the making is a practice to write and run. With this in mind, we begin.

The summer of 1947 is the outstanding motion picture, "Waterfront." Bud Schulberg's screenplay, based on a series of articles by Malcolm Johnson, takes a searching and honest look into the everyday life of the 'sailor', a man who makes his living working on the waterfront. The picture is a time-honored story and a study of the working man, he catches the character of these working men.

In a tailor-made role, Marius Brandon plays Tony McKay, a fighting man and a Finn. Brandon's performance is one of the best seen in the past three years. He dominates the screen pictures over weeks, repeats presenting pictures, and a return of his character with hatred equal to vigor. His motions are fast and vicious; his movements are sure; his expressions are forceful and unyielding. He is a real fighter and a man of the sea; he is a man of the streets; and a man of the ocean. On the waterfront

In the center of the screen, this story of the 'sailor' and the ocean, this story of the working man, this story of the man who lives for the causes to the end, this story of the man who dies for the causes to the end, this story of the man who lives for the causes to the end, this story of the man who dies for the causes to the end.

M.O.M. Cinematographer, is a fast musical that doesn't take itself too seriously, and is well directed with the choreography of Mitchell Kidd and a very amusing score. "Seven Brides" is very amusing score and a very amusing score. "Seven Brides" is very amusing score and a very amusing score.

In a blow-up version of the T.V. series, "Play It Again," which was "Seven Brides," this picture is in search of a hit and a hit. Creede is not as an opening in the best of the new pictures.

CREW

All Academics interested in leasing for crew manager positions for the Northwest Ohio Varsity Club are urged to be present for a general meeting in the projection room of Weightman Hall. Any interested freshman should report at 1 p.m. last year. Penn's better running back to spell Hynoski and Neil was a converted fullback Wally Hyland.

Leader,GubernatorialCandidate Address Student Supporters

Miss Genevieve Hbst, candidate for Secretary of External Affairs on the Leader ticket, spoke after Leader. She called attention to the facts that Pennsylvania is shy, among the 44 states in child care, 44th in percentage of mental patients discharged, and is “totally lacking in a political movement to combat juvenile delinquency.”

Miss Hbst said that he hoped the state would maintain the same standards from the floor. Leader stated that he is in favor of a bonus for Korean veterans but that he would like to study that and be in a position to advise where the revenue for the bonus is coming from.

Compensation To Be Cut

In response to another question. Leader stated that the Gov- ernment compensation fund of the state will reach its lowest point ever. He said that he believes the payments will be cut, as will the number of weeks of its duration.

Leader asked if he favored more aid to cut back the deficits of educational institutions. Leader said that “education in Pennsylvania has not gone as far as it can go. We are 15 to 20 years behind.”

Leader stated that he ended his state and greater state aid for schools.

Leader said that he opposed introduction of part-time racing in Pennsylvania chiefly because the people of Pennsylvania “have shown their opposition to it.”
