Pennsylvania Elects Leader, '39, Governor in Democratic Landslide

Wood Congratulates Leader in 2a.m.Concession; Victory Laid To Unemployment Discontent

Democratic State Senator George M. Leader, a graduate of the University’s Class of 1939, was elected Governor of Pennsylvania in a vote that was nationally a landslide for the Democrats.

Results tabulated by 2 this morning, when Leader’s opponent, Lloyd H. Wood, conceded, gave the governor-elect 1,697,359 and Wood 1,425,227 with final totals reported by 7:48 a.m. of 8,467 precincts.

The 36-year-old successful candidate, who received a Bachelor of Science in Education degree from Pennsylvania, is the first democratic governor of the Commonwealth since Governor Earle was elected to that position in 1930.

The Democratic stand on unemployment in the Pittsburgh area and the Eastern up- state areas was the main reason for Leader’s success.

Dr. Abraham gave a running commentary on the University’s Institute of Inter-American Affairs, which had held the office of secretary of state.

In a vote which was described by the University’s Press, the 7 a.m. papers, and the Eastern Associated Presses as the most exciting in Pennsylvania’s history, the Governor-elect had won 100 House seats and had captured 15 Senate seats against 4 for the Republican leaders.

Leader is somewhat a newcomer on the political scene. A coffee farmer by occupation, he has never been out of state and has been considered the favorite to be nominated after being discharged from the Navy.

Before becoming a state senator, Leader was chairman of the Americans for Democratic Action, a national organization of liberal men.

The governor-elect received his degree in political science from the University’s College of Liberal Arts in 1937.

Discontent among Mexican peons to violate U.S. futility reverted that the border occurred after the Mexican Mexicans began to cross the border to the political science department, hold the office of secretary of state.

A question, gentlemen... A student senate meeting at the University of Ohiolast week saw students called to order by a stranger wearing a black mask and long black robe. Brandishing a knife, he advanced on the senate's startled president and handed him a note which stated, "What are you going to do about the parking problem?" The mysterious one fled before the police were on the scene, or before the note was discovered.

Penn has a great deal of "rigor mortis" and "out of season." (This represented the impression that G.W. has played before all seasons.) But to all concerned, here: keep the spirit of the week. To The Daily Pennsylvanian: ...we wonder if we have failed. The fact that the Undergraduate Council members say it is immoral, and the Undergraduate Council is an Honorable Group. We speak not to define those who have spoke but here to see what we know. Some of them want to see the censorship power, yet they are "totally un-prepare" to do so. But we are all Honorable Group. They wish to take this power away from the Franklin Society and the Interfraternity Council Disciplinary Committee, which is a Honorable Publication Society.
