Senators . . .

McCarthy: No Defense Possible

by Arthur C. Pariente

It has been interesting to note the reactions to the Watkins Committee's decision. The position was made known by Senator McCarthy himself, in a letter to the Washington Post. The letter was written in response to the Committee's finding that the Senator had committed perjury in his testimony before the Committee.

Some of McCarthy's followers areBroadly speaking, the test of this past year has been the test of the Senate. The Senate has been the test of the Senate. But, they say, this merely Catholic Church. The Church has perhaps been the most vocal critic of McCarthy's actions. The Church has denounced McCarthy as a threat to the integrity of the Senate.

The other charges against McCarthy are serious. The charge of perjury is among the most serious. McCarthy has denied all charges of perjury.

The dust from last week's whirlwind election has finally settled down, revealing the political party as it is in control of the House of Representatives and holding the balance of power in the Senate.

Superficially, it appears that the political party has been more accurate in predicting the results of the election. The Democrats have gained control of the Senate, while the Republicans have maintained control of the House.

The election has been characterized by one factor: time. McCarthy has given his time, his health, and almost his life, to fight for his country against what is perhaps the most vicious and dangerous enemy that has ever appeared on the scene.

The view of President Eisenhower's role in the election campaign and his positive effect on the election results is hard to ascertain. Republican leaders have asserted that the President's campaign was a key factor in the election. Democratic leaders have maintained that the election was a popular mandate for their program.

The loss to Senator McCarthy is a loss to the Senate. The Senate has been the most vocal critic of McCarthy's actions. The Senate has denounced McCarthy as a threat to the integrity of the Senate.

What makes a Lucky taste better?

"IT'S TOASTED"

to taste better!

What cigarette do college students go for?

According to the latest, biggest cigarette-to-cocast survey, students prefer Lucky's to all other brands. And once again, the No. 1 reason is better taste. Of course Lucky's taste better. First of all, Lucky Strike means fine tobacco. Then, that tobacco is toasted to style better. "It's Toasted"—the famous Lucky Strike process—tones up Lucky's light, mild, good-tasting tobacco to make it taste even better. Try a pack. Maybe you'll be as fortunate as the student in the Drodle to the right, titled: Lucky smoker...faulty cigarette vending machine. Even if you're not, you'll enjoy the better-tasting cigarette...Lucky Strike.
