Fraternities Must Resist Efforts To Seven-National Affiliations: McCracken
Chairman of Trustees Addresses Opening Session Of National I-F Conference at Belleville-Stratford

Fraternity men should resist all efforts to sever the bonds of fraternality, the chairman of the University's Board of Trustees, advised some 650 delegates to the 46th annual convention of the National Inter-fraternal Conference, meeting over the weekend at the Belleville-Stratford Hotel.

McCracken informed representatives of 63 national fraternal organizations that he was told of a current effort to dissolve these bonds. "I am firmly of the opinion," he said, "that every such effort should be resisted.

Although the convention keynote address, "The Future of Fraternity," was to center around the recent Supreme Court decision that "social organizations at all levels of the University community who attend or participate in any of the activities of the University." "I do not view this decision as a sweeping condemnation of our organizations on the national level," Robert T. McCracken, chairman of the University's Board of Trustees, advised some 650 delegates to the 46th annual convention of the National Inter-fraternity Conference, meeting over the weekend at the Belleville-Stratford Hotel.

Although the convention keynote address, "The Future of Fraternity," was to center around the recent Supreme Court decision that "social organizations at all levels of the University community who attend or participate in any of the activities of the University." "I do not view this decision as a sweeping condemnation of our organizations on the national level," he said. "We are not called to account for the actions of individuals or groups who choose to violate the policies of the University. We are called to account for our own actions and the actions of our members."

The Supreme Court decision, McCracken said, "is a reminder that we must remain vigilant in our efforts to uphold the principles of fraternity. We must continue to work to ensure that our organizations exist for the purpose of promoting the values of friendship, brotherhood, and the pursuit of knowledge. We must continue to work to ensure that our organizations are not used as a means to undermine the principles of the University."
This Thursday and Friday the Penn Players will present "My Three Angels" at Irvine Auditorium. In the top picture the three angels, Jules, the convicted murderer, played by James Falen, Joseph, the embezzler, played by Ivan Rodriguez, and Alfred, another murderer, played by Mark Silverberg, watch the Ducotel family eat dinner.

Bette Friedman plays Marie Louise Ducotel, the heroine of the drama laid on a penal colony in French Guiana. Her father, Felix Ducotel, is Jim Kilpatrick. Rita Williams portrays Mme. Ducotel.

(enter-left, the three angels watch mean uncle Henri, played by Brooks Butler, berate Marie Louise and Paul, the young lovers.

Lower left, Alfred carries Marie Louise to her mother's house after saving her from drowning as Emilie, Jules, and Joseph watch.

Linda Adams purchases tickets for the show from Bill Zimmerman as three cardboard angels watch her.
