Annual University Yuletide Caroling
Held Tomorrow Evening at 7:30

A large number of students turned out for the Christmas Caroling last year, when now helded the campus.

Hallelujah Chorus' Will Highlight Music Sung at Chapel Service

For the fifth straight year Handel's 'Hallelujah Chorus' sung by the Choiral Society, assisted by the University Symphony Orchestra, will provide highlights of the Annual Christmas Chapel in Irvine Auditorium tomorrow at 11 a.m. under the direction of the Rev. Edward G. Harris, chaplain of the University.

Senior Editorial, Business Boards To Meet Today

There will be a meeting of the senior editorial board at 7:45 p.m. in the Franklin Society Room.

The senior business board will hold their meeting today at 3 p.m.

There will be a meeting of the senior editorial board at 7:45 p.m.

Dr. Carlton Coon

Professor of Anthropology, author of "Story of Man," says object of book is to show that history follows natural laws.

"It is the object of my book, "The Story of Man," to show that history follows natural laws," said Dr. Carlton Coon, of Anthropology and curator of General Ethnology at the University Museum, talking about his latest book, "The Story of Man: An Antique Land," that he will deliver for the First Annual Lecture of the San Francisco Society for Ethnology.

Dr. Coon said that his views were at variance with those of Professor Bishop, who in "From An Antique Land," said that man's tendency to make history conform to natural laws because the factitious character of history producing men such as Genghis Chiao was unacceptable.

Choices Made Necessary

"Some people, in my opinion, "Dr. Coon charged, "are unable to make history conform to natural laws because the factitious character of history producing men such as Genghis Chiao was unacceptable."

Mrs. JoAnn Leach, the reviewer, added that while she appreciated Dr. Coon's views on the history of races, she found it difficult to make history conform to his own views.

The study also revealed the existence of an inter-racial relationship between the IQ of children of families who had an income of over $1,500 and those who had an income of less than $1,500. It also showed that the highest IQs were found in the children of families who had an income of over $1,500.

A similar study by sociologists has borne out these conclusions. One of the more famous works on the inter-racial relationship of family income and high school activities, as well as what students do after graduation from high school was entitled "Education's Influence on Educational Achievement."
Last week the placid course of this season's legitimate stage in Philadelphia was interrupted by an electrifying and officer melodrama called "Anastasia," which moved quickly to town to take advantage of the critical and public storms that swept the East. In the cast of the play's many virtues, one of the most significant was the character of Miss Linderfors, in the title role. Her gifts in impersonation were one of the most difficult and exacting of any in recent memory. She had a remarkable gift for gapping in almost hypnotic awe at the audience's ear.

Following the second night performance, I went back stage at the Walnut Theater for a friendly chat with Miss Linderfors. This is a little bundle of dynamite that has not yet been discovered. Her major credits, which have consisted of a few minor roles, are not as yet widely known. But among the public and the critics, she is already beginning to be heralded as a future star of the legitimate stage. Miss Linderfors is a slender woman of medium height. Her eyes quietly into town and preceded to take both the critics and the public by storm. It is not only her acting that has caught the attention of the public, but her beauty as well. She is a very attractive young woman with a charming personality.

Vivica Lindfors takes a backstage coffee break. Just before returning to the footlights for a series of publicity photos, the actress managed to pose for the DP photographer and give an interview to the Pennsylvania between shots. She will be taking for two weeks prior to opening in New York late in December. On the subject of the living stage, Miss Linderfors becomes very animated. Although most of her work in this country has been in films, she prefers the stage. "That's the medium that lets you get into a role with something of yourself. On the stage, you can be yourself in the part. In the movies, you actually shoot only a tiny bit of a scene at a time. You can only act for a few minutes, and then you go home and worry about doing more of the same thing on the next day."

In Sweden, she did a great deal of stage work holding a coveted position as one of the leading actresses of the Royal Dramatic Theater. She has appeared in both modern plays and most of the standard classics. Born coming to the United States in 1946, her Broadway appearances have been limited. "I played in John van Druten's 'Tea Gown' about two years ago. That was a play which I liked, but which the critics didn't." Her other American stage appearances have been confined to a summer stock tour in "The Real Box and Candle" and five months of touring for the Theatre Guild as part of its all star cast in "An Evening With Will Shakespeare."

While Miss Lindfors feels that there is some room for improvement in the state of the modern theater, she does not shrink from the currently prevalent view that the medium is now suffering an all-time low. Her main is, in fact, to challenge those who think the modern theater is not worth much today. "The fact that many of these works have been written by men of genuine ideas and that the productions seems to indicate a growing desire for greater artistry and realism on the professional stage."

In regard to the movies, Miss Linderfors is keeping up her film work. This summer she made two films, "Moonfleet" with Herbert Granger for MGM and Paramount's "Mini For Cover" in which she co-stars with James Mason. Although she is not yet a major star, she is very much like a younger Greta Garbo and has nothing to indicate that this individual is only a passing fad.

Following the second night performance, I went back stage at the Walnut Theater for a friendly chat with Miss Linderfors. This is a little bundle of dynamite that has not yet been discovered. Her major credits, which have consisted of a few minor roles, are not as yet widely known. But among the public and the critics, she is already beginning to be heralded as a future star of the legitimate stage. Miss Linderfors is a slender woman of medium height. Her eyes quietly into town and preceded to take both the critics and the public by storm. It is not only her acting that has caught the attention of the public, but her beauty as well. She is a very attractive young woman with a charming personality.

Vivica Lindfors takes a backstage coffee break. Just before returning to the footlights for a series of publicity photos, the actress managed to pose for the DP photographer and give an interview to the Pennsylvania between shots. She will be taking for two weeks prior to opening in New York late in December. On the subject of the living stage, Miss Linderfors becomes very animated. Although most of her work in this country has been in films, she prefers the stage. "That's the medium that lets you get into a role with something of yourself. On the stage, you can be yourself in the part. In the movies, you actually shoot only a tiny bit of a scene at a time. You can only act for a few minutes, and then you go home and worry about doing more of the same thing on the next day."

In Sweden, she did a great deal of stage work holding a coveted position as one of the leading actresses of the Royal Dramatic Theater. She has appeared in both modern plays and most of the standard classics. Born coming to the United States in 1946, her Broadway appearances have been limited. "I played in John van Druten's 'Tea Gown' about two years ago. That was a play which I liked, but which the critics didn't." Her other American stage appearances have been confined to a summer stock tour in "The Real Box and Candle" and five months of touring for the Theatre Guild as part of its all star cast in "An Evening With Will Shakespeare."

While Miss Lindfors feels that there is some room for improvement in the state of the modern theater, she does not shrink from the currently prevalent view that the medium is now suffering an all-time low. Her main is, in fact, to challenge those who think the modern theater is not worth much today. "The fact that many of these works have been written by men of genuine ideas and that the productions seems to indicate a growing desire for greater artistry and realism on the professional stage."

In regard to the movies, Miss Linderfors is keeping up her film work. This summer she made two films, "Moonfleet" with Herbert Granger for MGM and Paramount's "Mini For Cover" in which she co-stars with James Mason. Although she is not yet a major star, she is very much like a younger Greta Garbo and has nothing to indicate that this individual is only a passing fad.
Quaker Mermen Drop Opener, 44-40, to VMI

by Gerry Hiebeshohn

In its initial appearance of the season, the Pennsylvania swimming team tried in vain to overcome an early VMI lead as it lost by a score of 44-40 at Hutchinson Pool, Friday afternoon.

Captain Walli Herman led the Quaker mermen with a first in the 200 and 100 yard freestyle events and a second in the 400 yard freestyle.

Puntin Johnstone easily copsed the 200 yard backstroke event with his amazing excellence of form. He also swum a good race in the 400 yard freestyle relay.

Sieniman Wins

Den Beitzman took first in the 150 yard individual medley event as he bested VMI star Dick Opener, 44-40, to VMI 3rd for the Quakers.

Ridgeley Pete Wyly finished 8th of any swimming meet, providing a valuable contribution to the Quakers press.

The Red and Blue Captain Walt Herman led the Quaker swimmers, placing first in two events and finishing second in the 440 freestyle as the mermen were beaten by VMI 44-40, in its debut of the season. This marked the first of ten dual meets to be held at Hutchinson Pool this season.

Red and Blue Captain Walt Herman led the Quaker swimmers, placing first in two events and finishing second in the 440 freestyle as the mermen were beaten by VMI 44-40, in its debut of the season. This marked the first of ten dual meets to be held at Hutchinson Pool this season.

Rifle Club tonight at 7 p.m. at 1513 Chestnut.

Following Van's DINYA'S famous old-time Restaurant

412 Arch St. Since 1874

No Food - No Fines...

The Downton Shop specializes in fine campus wear.

Carleton's Men's Shop

1513 Chestnut

Open 'till 9:00 p.m. Mon., Wed., Fri.

Edward Wolfe

Economies: Convenience! Enjoyment!

Many Make's of Foreign Cars including Austin, Hillman, M.G., Morris, Jaguars and Others

call HARVEY WOLFE

EV 8-1277

between 4 and 5:30 p.m. or leave note at Law School
I-F Bowlers Begin Season

The annual Inter-Fraternity bowling league competition opened last week with all three divisions, Red, White, and Blue, starting their campaigns.

Defending champion Tau Rho Pi, winner of the I-F title for the past two years, continued its winning ways as it won its opening match by a 4-0 score. Led by Captains Barry Babb and Jerry (Toy) Leckie, who averaged 184, the TEP bowlers were victorious in the first house to enter a three game set gets an additional award of 100 points for the highest total of pins for the team in each match.

The Alpha Phi Omega team, winner of the I-F title for the past two years, continued its winning ways as it won its opening match by a 4-0 score. Led by Captains Barry Babb and Jerry (Toy) Leckie, who averaged 184, the TEP bowlers were victorious in the first house to enter a three game set gets an additional award of 100 points for the highest total of pins for the team in each match.

The annual Inter-Fraternity bowling league competition opened last week with all three divisions, Red, White, and Blue, starting their campaigns.

Defending champion Tau Rho Pi, winner of the I-F title for the past two years, continued its winning ways as it won its opening match by a 4-0 score. Led by Captains Barry Babb and Jerry (Toy) Leckie, who averaged 184, the TEP bowlers were victorious in the first house to enter a three game set gets an additional award of 100 points for the highest total of pins for the team in each match.

The Alpha Phi Omega team, winner of the I-F title for the past two years, continued its winning ways as it won its opening match by a 4-0 score. Led by Captains Barry Babb and Jerry (Toy) Leckie, who averaged 184, the TEP bowlers were victorious in the first house to enter a three game set gets an additional award of 100 points for the highest total of pins for the team in each match.

The annual Inter-Fraternity bowling league competition opened last week with all three divisions, Red, White, and Blue, starting their campaigns.

Defending champion Tau Rho Pi, winner of the I-F title for the past two years, continued its winning ways as it won its opening match by a 4-0 score. Led by Captains Barry Babb and Jerry (Toy) Leckie, who averaged 184, the TEP bowlers were victorious in the first house to enter a three game set gets an additional award of 100 points for the highest total of pins for the team in each match.

The Alpha Phi Omega team, winner of the I-F title for the past two years, continued its winning ways as it won its opening match by a 4-0 score. Led by Captains Barry Babb and Jerry (Toy) Leckie, who averaged 184, the TEP bowlers were victorious in the first house to enter a three game set gets an additional award of 100 points for the highest total of pins for the team in each match.

The annual Inter-Fraternity bowling league competition opened last week with all three divisions, Red, White, and Blue, starting their campaigns.

Defending champion Tau Rho Pi, winner of the I-F title for the past two years, continued its winning ways as it won its opening match by a 4-0 score. Led by Captains Barry Babb and Jerry (Toy) Leckie, who averaged 184, the TEP bowlers were victorious in the first house to enter a three game set gets an additional award of 100 points for the highest total of pins for the team in each match.

The Alpha Phi Omega team, winner of the I-F title for the past two years, continued its winning ways as it won its opening match by a 4-0 score. Led by Captains Barry Babb and Jerry (Toy) Leckie, who averaged 184, the TEP bowlers were victorious in the first house to enter a three game set gets an additional award of 100 points for the highest total of pins for the team in each match.

The annual Inter-Fraternity bowling league competition opened last week with all three divisions, Red, White, and Blue, starting their campaigns.