Penn Tones To Sing in San Juan, Puerto Rico; Choral Group Is Now a Recognized Activity

The Penn Tones, a singing group now in its first year of operation as a recognized University activity, are flying to San Juan, Puerto Rico today for their annual Easter holiday engagement.

In addition to providing the floor show at the hotel, the group will have a concert at the Sands Hotel, and will be featured in the hotel television series.

The trip is the highlight of the ten-day tour of the Caribbean with pretty semisalsas and visiting American college girls, put on in honor of the group, will make this a perfect Caribbean vacation.

To make the trip's itinerary even more interesting for the troupe, the group has sung for the past six months to a variety of audiences in this country. Their first engagement will be at the Greater Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce's International Dinner on April 13. The group has also done work for the YWCA, Pennsylvania Hospital, Lehigh University, Delaware University, Pennsylvania State University, Swarthmore College, Villanova University, the March of Dimes and the Philadelphia Zoo.

On April 13 all University eating services will resume their regular schedule.

Article on Pin's Address Creates False Impression

In the report of Dean Robert H. Page of the Interfraternity Council banquet, a reference was made to the Interfraternity Council's recognition of the request of the Phi Sigma fraternity at Swarthmore College that their candidate for the leadership of the Interfraternity Council be made a member of the Interfraternity Council.

He did say that no decision could be made until the enrollment of the University for the year 1955-56 was completed. But he also stated that the Interfraternity Council has accepted the request of the Phi Sigma fraternity for the membership of their candidate.

Dean Pitt further said that the trustees are studying the situation carefully, and that he urged all members of the Interfraternity Council to keep their minds open about this problem.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, Daily Pennsylvanian:

For three years now, I have read articles written by the staff. Some I agreed with, some I found questionable. Now and then there is such a narrow-minded, mass of absurdity as that found in Michael Francis’ article titled, “Music with a Groen Mirrors Cul.”

From Mr. Francis’ tirade, I assume he is not familiar with Beethoven. If he is familiar, he is not a major figure of music. I am quite sure that Mr. Francis, at least, if he is familiar with Beethoven, that he is familiar with music. Music is not just Beethoven, but he is a major figure. The only thing that music is not is “Music with a Groen Mirrors Cul.”

Modern Jazz is an art as in painting or sculpture, and the modern artists are formed into schools of classical musicians. Dave Brubeck is one of the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music. John Lewis is a graduate of the Los Angeles Conservatory of Music. One of the most influential people engaged in the writing and playing of music is Louis Jordan. He is a master of utilizing every classical technique, such as jazz and rhythm and blues.

Many modern musical instruments are used too, like the oboe, the saxophone, and the trumpet. We must not forget that any new art form can be used. Some people who are using the new art form are the best. Some of the better people who are using the new art form are the best. I am quite sure that Beethoven is not the only figure of music. Music is not just Beethoven, but he is a major figure.

Sincerely,

Sheldon Brooks, 59’66

Baseball Team Defeats Hawks

The Quakers broke a scoreless deadlock in the fifth inning with three unearned runs as they outlasted a feisty Holy Cross nine. Sophomore Larsen, a two-year senior on the mound, was almost unhittable. Scoring all its runs in one big swing, the Quakers broke a scoreless deadlock in the seventh inning with three unearned runs. A three-run home run by junior McCarthy completed the scoring. The Quakers are 9-6 on the year.

Other sports, including track, were turned over to the spring schedule. Adams, two sophomores, are also jockeys. King, who holds the nation's week-end championship of the Famous O. Stetson, returns to the Quaker lineup.

In the Red League, Tau Epsilon Phi upset Theta Chi. In the Blue League, Lambda Chi Alpha brought its record to 7-1 for the year. The Alpha Kappa Lambda Bowl was won by 2-0, and the Betas now own a 4-1-4.

The high point of the week's activities came Tuesday afternoon in the Connecticut Bowl relay. Theta Chi placed third and the TFP bowlers reigned supreme in the Penn Relays.

Golf Team Opposes Haverford in Openner

Coach Bob Hays' golf squad opens its 1920 schedule against Haverford Tuesday, April 13, on the latter's course.

During pre-season practice, Hays' golfers have looked promising, and if they come along as hoped, they may better last year's record of 12-4.

The tentative starting lineup for the opening match includes: capture the Quaker blading after a three-year hitch at the University's NUBPAS. Frank Porus and Chuck Stansfield, two sophomores, are also expected to see action during the season.

Dormitory Construction Progresses at Rapid Rate

—D.P. Photos by Larry Kneifel

Construction on the new dormitories is rapidly nearing completion so that the dorms will be ready for occupancy this coming fall. The same style of architecture will be used as in the present dorms, thus enabling the University to have its buildings looking alike.

The construction workers, when interviewed, stated that they enjoyed working on the dorms as there was always something going on in the great. Even today the workers mentioned that a fencing match, in full regalia, was going on about closing time.

The dormitories, which were built to meet the ever expanding demands of a growing student body, will complete the picture. The dorm construction is only one of many developments and new buildings on the Pennsylvania campus.

Undergrad Council Takes Yearbook Reserve Money

Beginning of each year to run the publication, Doh then said that there was a question in his mind as to whether the student photographers should not be allowed to make the faculty pictures since the Record is primarily for student writers and photographers.

In giving an outline of the progress of the Record for 1955, Doh said that the Record is doing well. For the future, it was hoped that the graduate manager be notified from the Undergraduate Council discusses financial matters concerning student publications.

After the motion taking the funds away from the Record had been passed, the Council then discussed the idea that the Record operate on a lower budget, excluding from the book certain "tricks" such as half pages, fold outs and also have fewer color pictures.
