Philadelphia Showing Of 'Vamp Till Ready' Held On Penn Campus

Student Opinion and Musicians' Strike Influence Decision To Return Production To Campus

"Vamp Till Ready," the 68th Mask and Wig production, will have its Philadelphia run on the University campus, in Irvine Auditorium, for the first time since 1945. Robert Wickersham, newly appointed director of Mask and Wig productions, explained that the decision to change the location of the show from a downtown theatre to Irvine was brought about by two major considerations.

In the first place it was felt by the union that production activity for male undergraduates at the University should "be back on the campus" where it may readily be reached by residents and where the parking facilities of Museum Field may be made available to those driving to the show.

Strike Is Factor

The other factor concerns the strike which has been in effect since labor Day against the Academy Theatres by Local 274 of the Musicians Protective Union (AF of M) when a new contract between the parties could not be secured.

The union has demanded continuance of "blackouts" which provide for a 20 per cent decrease in musical production, and at last year six weeks for dramatic performances.

Wickersham explained that no decision had been made to the extent of musical "blackouts" although that is what 90 per cent of the union would have to be made to the script as a result of the change in theatres.

Other Shows in Irvine

The Fresenius Mask and Wig show is annually produced in the nearby city of Scranton. Its annualiphone show of "Cavalcade of the University," first performed there. There is a 20 per cent decrease in the playing time when the Mask and Wig show is performed on the campus.

Wickersham continued, "This was a matter which 90 per cent of the union would have to be made to the script as a result of the change in theatres."

In addition to soliciting blood from students, Friars is going to waive public size in the faculty member's mail box. At present, only the individual receiving his blood is notified of the donation. The donor will be able to choose his recipient from the list of students and faculty members.

Robert Wickersham, director of the Student Health Service, will be stationed in Irvine Auditorium near 40th and Woodland Avenue for the remainder of the weekend.

Queen Contest Forms Due

All completed applications for the Junior Queen Contest should be handed in to the Houston Hall information desk or to John Turner at 253 South 39th Street by 3:30 this afternoon. Almost one hundred dollars worth of prizes have been pledged by local merchants for the winner, Prince and Princess. A complete list of awards appears on page four of this issue.

Market St. Tube Starts Operating; Spruce Cars Stay

Final work on the eastern section of the new Market Street tube line will follow the tube to 36th Street, where it will be completed and be in operation about January 1.

The Market Street elevated will begin underground at 36th Street and will be torn down in the near future to make way for subway cars on the new underground line.

The Market Street elevated will be extended under 36th Street and will be open to the public by January 1. With that run, all PTC's eastbound subway cars will be using the new tube. The car-filled with riders will take 15 minutes to arrive at 36th Street, which is expected to shorten round trip time by as much as 15 minutes.

The new extension, which is expected to open in January, will be finished, and 36th Street will be turned into a park. The Market Street elevated will be extended underground at 36th Street and will be open to the public by January 1.

Editorial

At Last

Since the editorial voice of The Daily Pennsylvania Student was one of those most frequently raised in favor of improving the lighting in the Library, let us be as quick to acknowledge the recent decision to install new lights in the Reserve Room, and to commend the Director of Libraries for his efforts in the students' behalf.

If our expression of appreciation is not overflowing, it is because we do not feel that this is a gift which the University has magnanimously settled upon the students. It is, rather, a small standard obligation which has finally been met, after much shilly-shallying and postponing.

The fault did not lie in the Library. As long as ago as March, 1949, Dr. Charles W. David, then Director of Libraries stated in a report that the lighting condition prevailing in the Library were "positively injurious to health." In March of 1954 this paper ran a series of articles which documented the need for improving the lighting of the University Library with readings from extremely impartial light-meters.

We could go on, but the point here is only this: we feel that such things as adequate light in the Library (and an improved standard for those who are ensconced on the campus by the greatest contemplatory thinkers)—are manifest obligations of Librarians. We have grown along with them, it is true, but they have to be met if this University is to live up to its reputation.

In lighting the Reserve Room the University has done nothing extraordinary. That such a standard for all University libraries, should have been so prolonged and difficult is, that's what the smart money is doing. It is good to see the band shape up and the Penn team has shown improvement over the past. But it was slightly pitiful to hear so many sing "Hang Jeff Davis" so loud when he now out for the season with a broken collar bone, showed more hustle and drive than any other six players on the field.

The Quakers, for the most part, beat the Penn team has shown improvement over the past. But it was slightly pitiful to hear so many sing "Hang Jeff Davis" so loud when he now out for the season with a broken collar bone, showed more hustle and drive than any other six players on the field.

The Quakers, for the most part, beat the years, the standard way to melt a girl's heart was to write poetry to her. Honesty compels me to admit that this poem fell short of success. Nothing daunted, I wrote another one. This time I paid a switch, I threatened myself instead of Maud. This is good to see the band shape up and the Penn team has shown improvement over the past. Princeton 150's Defeat Quakers In ELI Opener

Pennsylvania’s 150 pound football team opened its 1955 Eastern Intercollegiate season on the same note as it did last year by dropping a 36-7 decision to Princeton, Saturday, on the winner’s field. Penn did hold the midway lead midway through the second quarter when they recovered a punt by the Tigers at Penn’s 30 yard line. Princeton plowed over the goal line from two yards out. The score climax ed a 35 yard drive by the Tiger halfback.

Tigers Lead 7-0 At Half

duction was the only score in the first half of the day game in the third quarter when the Tiger halfback caught a punt on Penn’s 30 yard line and ran the ball back for a thirteen yard touchdown. The Tigers converted again, ending the third quarter with the score, Princeton 14, Penn 0.

With the victory Princeton improved their season winning percentage to .500. The Quakers dropped their third straight game and are 0-3 this season.

Middies Only Grid Foe Victorious on Saturday

Pennsylvania’s football forces will have the dubious honor of campaigning in the remainder of their ten remaining major unbeaten teams. The team is 0-3 this season.

The Middies gained this distinction with relative ease last Saturday by ousting the nation’s ten remaining major unbeaten teams. It was the winner’s fourth straight victory.

The Tigers were in the running for the score, Princeton 7, Penn 0, at the end of the first quarter.

Midfield linebacker Bob Hellman caught the second on Princeton’s 20 yard line and ran the ball back for a 30 yard touchdown, giving Princeton a 14-0 lead in the score. The Tigers converted again with the score, Princeton 21, Penn 0.

Charlie Stickels asks: Does Du Pont hire graduates who are draft eligible?

CHARLES A. STICKELS is currently working toward his B.S.E. degree in chemical and metallurgical engineering at the University of Michigan. Mr. Stickels is a past Editor-in-Chief of the Michigan Technic, vice-president of his student chapter of A.I.Ch.E., and a member of several honorary engineering fraternities. His editorial work has made him especially aware of contemporary employment questions facing engineering graduates.

John Oliver answers:

The answer to that is definitely "Yes!" Charlie. We've employed quite a number of college graduates with definite military commitments, sometimes knowing that they could work only a few weeks before reporting for active duty.

The reason is that Du Pont is primarily interested in men on a "long range" basis. The fact that they're temporarily unavailable—for a good reason like military service— isn't any bar to be considered for employment. After working only one day, an employee is guaranteed full re-employment rights—that's the law. But if a man works for Du Pont at least a full year before joining the service, he gets a bonus of two months' salary. If he's entitled to a vacation but doesn't have time to take it before leaving, Du Pont gives him equivalent pay instead.

Even if present employment is impossible, Charlie, we definitely recommend your talking with Du Pont's representatives—and those of other companies, too. The very least you'll gain will be valuable background and some contacts which may be of real benefit to you when you leave military service.
