Student Health Shows Increases in Cases Treated
Rise in Students' Visits Double Over Last Year
Health Director States

Student Health has handled nearly twice as many cases this year as were treated during the same period last year, Dr. Paul Schroeder, director of Student Health, said yesterday.

Two thousand eighty-nine visits had been made by students by October 30 this year. More than one thousand visits were made last year in the same period. The increases are primarily for this year, according to Dr. Schroeder. “If we could afford to hire additional physicians, the number of treatments would continue to rise,” he said. At present, four doctors are at Student Health during the treatment period.

Psychiatric Calls

The annual users of Student Health, on a full-time basis for the first time this year, has received the largest number of student calls this year, with 725. In a number was the surgical branch, which had treated 1,114 students during the time of the survey. Additional staffing has been added and have spent a final of 688 physician visits during the year.

Night emergency, being longer during the year this time, has received 848 calls, most of whom were due to a growing urgency to require immediate assistance from the Student Health Center.

X-Ray Program

The Clinic’s X-ray program, sponsored by Student Health, averaged approximately 30 treatments a day for the term that it was located behind Colburn Hall. This week the unit is located in the medical and veterinary buildings and is expected to have one hundred per cent of those examinations expected from this group. The X-ray unit will be allowed to continue in its present site after the completion of the program. Any student may make an appointment in advance for the purpose of the location of the event.

In addition to University students, the X-ray unit is often given emergency treatment to members of the community. More over 1000 have been examined this year and at present have a Hawker Office for the head within the head under surveillance.

Memorial Dedicated

Chaplain Edward G. Harris will dedicate a memorial to the alumni of Beta Sigma Rho who died serving our country in World War II at Beta Sigma Rho fraternity Saturday afternoon.

The memorial was designed by John Dispar, a member of the Beta Sigma Rho fraternity. It was a leather sign containing the names of the alumni who gave their lives in the war. This before the fall of Wilson.

University Has Not Been Able To Take Advantage Of Low Interest, Long-Term, Federal Housing Loans

by Harvey Zahnle

The University has not yet received any assistance in the form of low-interest, long-term Federal funds at attractively low interest rates. The development of the buildings has brought new schools and changed the area of the campus which has been available for development.

The provisions of the Housing Act of 1949 are available to the University under certain conditions.

You can always tell a "Harvard man," they say. A "Yale man" or a "Princeton man" has his own distinctive identifiable characteristics too. How about a "Pennsylvania man?"

Martin Griffin, last year's Editor-in-Chief of The Daily Pennsylvanian, a member of T Phi Beta Kappa, and a graduating senior at Yale, visited Woodrow Wilson Fellowship, "No," in an article he has written for a new manual for second-year students to be published by the Office of Admissions.

Griffin is one of several recent graduates who have been asked to contribute answers to the question, "Why Pennsylvania?" His comments on what four years at the University mean are printed in the current issue of the Pennsylvanian Gazette.

In his article Griffin describes the aspects of the University which charm him. Griffin would provide a clue to its unique suitability for the training of... certain kinds of young men and women."

He notes particularly the atmosphere which Pennsylvania shares with other institutions. The superiority of the University, he discovers, in two headings, Maturity and Personality.

Of Maturity: Pennsylvania, by its heterogeneous nature, by the immaturity of its student activities and its position in the city of Philadelphia, does not seek the status, the prestige, the reputation which Pennsylvania shares with other institutions. The University has acquired subsequent to that December 15, 1950. Any land which the University took over the site at 34th and Walnut was pledged of land can be satisfactorily arranged. This is not included in with the property which has been mortgaged to Equitable. However, under the terms of the will of Joseph Wharton, the University has acquired subsequent to that date.

Prior Lien on Most University Property

In each case where a government loan has been granted, "individual" negotiation has resulted in the school receiving the loan with a title to security, income from the building being built and title to the land on which the building is to be situated. This is the greatest obstable to the secur- ing of Federal aid so far as the University is concerned, apparently.

As the map on page one indicates, the University holds clear title to only a small portion of the land which we consider as the University campus. Practically every piece of property south of Woodland Avenue, south of Walnut Street and west of the Pennsylvania Railroad Tracks as well as the river fields have been used as security for a $12,000,000 loan which the University secured from the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States in 1966.

Can't Offer Unencumbered Titles

Because of Equitable's first mortgage lien on the property, it does not rule out, however, the possibility of the University taking over the site at 34th and Walnut, the title to the land being transferred to the University. Equitable has the option of offering a second mortgage to the University if they are interested.

Haverford's Freshmen Go With Goals

Pennsylvania's freshman soccer team won its five game winning streak on the line today, when it opposes the Penn State readings in Stewart Field. The Quaker frosh will be playing the only certain on the season for the Penn State.

The Quaker frosh will be playing without the services of their star center forward and leading scorer Andy Weigmann, who is presently recovering from an appendectomy. His place will be taken by George Stinchcomb, who lacks the starting lineups, but has had a fine season so far.

Lions' Defense New

The visiting Nittany Lion's use defensive pattern that the Quakers have yet to encounter in the season. They place five or six players in the center portion of the field and will try to prevent the outside forwards from cutting into the back of the line. Coach Wellborn said that four men are still in the running for starting halfback posts. Jake Eaten, Al Sass, Al Amsden, and Hyman-Chen-Park. The Lions' defense is new.
