University Representatives View Problems of Palestra Basketball

At a meeting in the new Physical Science Building auditorium last night, all of the difficulties which might be encountered in the round robin at the Palestra were discussed by city officials, college representatives, and representatives of the states.

Representatives from all the colleges that will play basketball games in the Palestra this year met with city officials last night to discuss problems connected with the forthcoming games.

Herbert G. Coon, a member of the staff of the Philadelphia Inquirer, spoke on what the games will mean to Philadelphia. He mentioned that the game of basketball is at its best when it is played before crowds as large as the ones anticipated for the forthcoming series.

Many questions were asked from alumni if a school did not win. He said that the students should try to make sure that they would have the best team.

Gary Myers, chairman of the basketball committee, said that tickets indicate that the game will be a success this year.

Augmented Budget to Meet Big Demand

The state education system in Pennsylvania is meeting an increased demand for its services this year.

President of the University, Dr. Charles L. Safford, said yesterday that the state is spending more than $1 billion on education this year.

The university is spending more than $100 million on education this year, he said.

Winless Quaker Eleven Hosts Powerful Cadets In Homecoming Contest

Return of Kyasyke Expected To Bolster Army; Knights Seek To Rebound From Yale Loss

Seeking to rebound after last week's 14-12 loss to the Yale team, Army's eleven challenges winless Pennsylvania, tomorrow at Franklin Field, before an expected homecoming crowd of 27,000.

Army will also watch the West Point Cadets march onto Franklin Field at 12:40 preceded by their band.

Army will present a much more potent squad on the field, Saturday, than its 4-3 season's slate might indicate.

After romping over Purdue, Penn State, the Black Knights lost to third-ranked Michigan by two touchdowns and to Syracuse in one of the season's biggest upsets. The West Pointers then went on to win one-sided victories over Columbia and Colgate before last week's loss upset to Yale.

Coach Steve Beals calls Army "one of the better teams in the country, and says that "the Cadets' strength is not in defense."

Soccer Seniors Seek Record Breaking Ninth Victory

A record-breaking ninth victory is the goal for Pennsylvania soccer team when Army comes to Pittsburgh at 3:30 tomorrow morning and challenges a five-game winner winning streak.

The Cadets have won their last seven games, and coach Charles Beals said his team will be ready for the match.

Tenth Anniversary

Tomorrow after the football game WTOP will be broadcasting representatives of University officials and alumni at a party commemorating the tenth anniversary of the radio station. The program will only last two hours, therefore, that we add our commemoration by acknowledging the achievements of the men who have made the station during its short history the excellent one it is.

Its associates have been many during the past few years but the most notable one has probably been the Talkathon which has contributed so much to the success of the Campus Chest Drives in the past two years.

This is an innovation, however, which is only one among a great number by which the campus broadcasters have sought and are seeking to improve their service to students at the University.

We believe that the student activity which began operations on November 10, 1943 has been admirably successful, and we hope that it will continue so.

Eighth Game

On Franklin Field tomorrow the football team will play the last of its Saturday games. The opponents against which, the predictors said, had no chance of victory.

Armsmen, however, the Cadets do not now seem to be nearly so invincible as they once looked, and especially in recent weeks that they can be beaten and they are not so formidable as other opponents.

If the spirit among the students and team members tomorrow is the equal to what it was last year, we are sure that the team will do nothing but reflect credit on itself and Pennsylvania.

Letters to the Editor...

Editor, Daily Pennsylvanian: I want to take this opportunity to thank Jim, Bob, Chad, Scott, George Terlep and all the others in the football team and the football team for making it possible for me to see the Penn-Notre Dame game last Saturday.

It was certainly a magnificent game, and the Penn-Diame game had the thrill of being a Penn-Diame game. The game was won by the Penn-Diame team to present him the game and to entertain the fans who were watching the game. The dressing room after the game was filled with joy and excitement, and it was clear that it did more for him than making some contributions to the Penn-Diame team.

Jim, Charlie and George, I am sure, will have their parents, Greetings and thanks for making these arrangements in the finest Pennsylvania tradition.

Editor, Daily Pennsylvanian: In the October 28 edition of the Daily Pennsylvanian, there was an article concerning the lack of school spirit in the Pennsylvania Class. Well, on the weekend of the Notre Dame game, the freshmen had signs for cheers, and they were very successful in instilling a spirit of cooperation. I wish to take this opportunity to thank Jim Siaua, Charlie and George Terlep for their excellent cooperation.

Editor, Daily Pennsylvanian: The lectures of the faculty are the most important to the student in the Pennsylvania Class. They are the only cash reward that we have. It is not the lectures that are important, but the spirit with which they are presented. The faculty members have always been willing to help students, and they have always been able to instill in us the proper spirit. The spirit of cooperation is the key to success in college.

Editor, Daily Pennsylvanian: I do indeed hope that this is the proper letter you receive in reference to the use of the University's name to solicit the Notre Dame game. Quaintly, they made a big deal of it. But could you be so kind as to call them "BAILI PENN-ALIAN?"

I suggest the band wear orange (opposing teams), and play them all so that they can be good bands again.

The saddest fact of all was that Notre Dame aired its third and fourth times only because they were our good team play. If only for the sake of our future, I think our leaders should have been educated.

Yearlings Engage Lions In Football Clash Today

Coach John Butler’s yearlings may not have as easy a time against Columbia as the records would indicate, when they entertain the Lions” wireless favored eleven this afternoon on Murphy Field. Kickoff time is 2 p.m.

The Lion cubes have yet to hit the scoring column this season, having dropped decisions to Yale, 36-0; Princeton, 36-0; and Rutgers, 42-0, in their previous six contests.

The Quakers, however, are beset by injuries sustained in last week’s encounter with Navy. Center-lineback Dick Jones is out for the season with a broken rib, and six others also be in Thursday’s starting lineup.

Three Other Injuries

Three other injuries hit the Penn squad during the game. Tackle Jim Fopprikart hurt his shoulder. Halfback Matt Gobble, 208 lb., center, will play wide back against the Columbia defense. Coy Smith has given indications he will be ready at fullback, although Dave Gourley is listed as the probable starter.

150-Gridders Conclude Season Against Cornell Lightweights

Op. 26 to 30 percent, and all of these games were played in the EZL.100 football school for both teams. A win tomorrow will not only give the Lightweights a 3-2 season record but will also clinch their third league. A Cornell victory will drop the Quakers into the fourth place with the "Big Red." Both of Penn's starting eleven will be playing their last game for the team. Red Wiltman and tackle Don Belsom are both expected to see action. Center Jim Riegler, end Steve Friedberg, fullback Jack Kline and quarterback Frank Barch are all other fourth year men in the Penn starting eleven. Schuman is back in the starting lineup, replacing the injured Earl Perry. Coach Jack McClisky praised end Tom McKey and halfback Jerry Roonl for their outstanding plays in the Navy game.

McClisky stressed that his team was still in good spirit despite last week's loss to Navy. "We're very interested in playing in the EZL this season," he added.

Last year the Penn Lightweight defeated Cornell, 14-0.
