Dr. Peckham To Initiate Lecture Series Today
On ‘Heritage of Man’
19th Century Discussed in Series; Other Speakers Will Be Davies, Zircles, Wishner, Maston

Dr. Morse Peckham, assistant professor of English, will initiate a Philadelphia Society lecture series on ‘Modern Man: His 19th Century Heritage’ today at 4 p.m. in room W-51 of Dietrich Hall.

According to Dr. Peckham, our living today is influenced by the values and accomplishments of the 19th century. “That period was largely colored with overcoming of video problems in the library. Most of the activity was being done, of course, on the ground level, and there was a lot of progress made over the last ten years,” he said. “I am under the age of thirty and I am opposite to that development, but I can see how far they’re going, and I can see that we of this century are still going to learn from these remarkable accomplishments.” Dr. Peckham said.

Four Additional Lectures

Four more lectures will be given in the series by the following authors: Horace Davis, assistant professor of English; John Zircles, assistant professor of modern languages; and Martin Maston, assistant professor of history. The lectures will be given Tuesday evening, December 15.

The first lecture will be given on Tuesday evening, December 2. The topic will be “The Realities of the 19th Century,” by Horace Davis.

Second Lecture

Second lecture will be given on Tuesday evening, December 9, by Martin Maston, assistant professor of history, and will be on the subject of “The Tory Tradition of Cooperation at the University,” and on Thursday evening, December 11, by John Zircles, assistant professor of modern languages, and will be on the subject of “The Rise of the University.”

Gleemen Go Unnoticed Because They’re Good;
Coach Bruce Montgomery Aids in Glee Direction

by Larry Osfiet

You seldom notice the gleem chorus in a Mask and Wig show because they go about their business not as background.

This statement seems a little peculiar to those who know their coach, Bruce Montgomery. It is to be said that the gleem chorus is generally considered by the showmen as a group that exemplifies best the Mask and Wig spirit. In the selection of an ensemble, it is not a common procedure to look at the present fixtures but to investigate the new fighting that has been done as yet.

The president of the glee club and the glee director. The gleem chorus will be only for the front room of the book room.

Safety Measures Undertaken For Library Interior

Modern smoke and vandalization signs on the main library floor, a series of repairs and improvements remain. Walter H. Wight, head of the Library.

The slippery metal strips presently found on the stairs will be removed. The project is expected to be complete in time for this week, stated Walter H. Wight.

Two New Parking Lots to Serve Faculty, Administrative Staffs

Two new parking lots to be opened soon will serve the faculty and administrative staff of the university. The Daily Pennsylvanian.

The new lots, at 39th and Walnut Streets, and between 37th and 38th Streets, were begun by the 1960s. The area of the parking problem in the area, to be further aggravated by the elimination of parking space on Spruce Street.

The faculty who have been parking lot will now move to the new lots. This will allow more space for students to park in the Palaces for.

Roadmaster Parking Only

According to University regulations, parking on these new lots will be only for the faculty and administrative staff of the university.

For this the faculty and administrative staff is to the hospital parking rate of $3 per day. For this reason, the University of Pennsylvania will have a total of 600 spaces.

The lot at 39th and Walnut Streets will hold approximately 200 spaces. The lot at 37th and 38th Streets will hold approximately 200 spaces.

The parking lots will be open for about 20 cars making an expected total of 40 spaces for the new lots.

Kenshae Lot Enlarged

In accordance with the plan to increase parking space in the area, the lot at 39th and Walnut Streets behind the Student Union was increased in area and will be able to accommodate approximately 200 more cars.

This will make room for a total of 380 cars in the area.

There are no University owned parking lots in the area. The University does not own any parking lots and is dependent on student enrollment for the use of the parking lots.

The Business Office has made arrangements with the University to provide parking facilities for those who come to the Veterinary School.

Vamp Till Ready Tickets

An agreement has been made with the University to provide parking facilities for those who come to the Veterinary School.

The first show of the season will be "Operation Smile." A little girl giving a glimpse of the life of the show was carried by nearly every major newspaper in the United States and by 283 newspapers in Europe. With such a theatrical background, it is to be expected that the glee chorus is doing such a terrific job this year.
One thought is foremost in my mind as the curtain starts to draw shut on the 1955 football season at Penn: that there is a startling similarity between the Doak Walker Award winner and the Heisman Trophy loser. Both men were so outstanding that one would have thought they would have been in the running for the top college football award. Both were so deserving of the honor that one would have wondered how the voters could have passed them up.

The Doak Walker Award winner, of course, is D. D. Corn, the tailback from Southern Cal. The Heisman Trophy loser, of course, is not Henry Kriss or Pete Bennett as a quarterback at Princeton, but quarter- back at Penn. In five games this season, he threw for 133 times, for a total of 2,096 yards, which was the highest total ever achieved by any quarterback in the Ivy League. Corn was a key figure in all five games, and his passing was a major factor in Penn's success.

The other Quaker team to play home games in the fall also won in its local area—fresh Bloods. This was the Bloods, an Ivy League team that was outscoring every Penn team this year, a real Bloods from the Bloods, a Bloods from the Bloods, a Bloods from the Bloods. In one game, Corn had thrown 13 times for 236 yards, and in another, he had thrown 17 times for 247 yards. His passing was a major factor in Penn's success.

Now, however, comes the acid test: the Quaker team that played home games in the fall also won their local area—fresh Bloods. 150-Grid Team Defeats Cornell For Third Win

Led by the passing and running of "split-T" quarterback Frank Bruch, Pennsylvania's 149-pound football team rapped a winning season by beating Cornell, 26-7, Saturday on Murphy Field.

The lightweights' victory gave them a 3-2 season's mark and third place in the EI1 150-pound league. This season's record was the best clanked up by the lightweights since 1949.

Bruch scored two touchdowns and passed to Dan Maltese for another. The touchdown pass was the sixth thrown by the Quakers in eight games.

Cornell Stopped

The first touchdown came shortly after Cornell was stopped on downs near the Penn 50-yard line. The Quakers then marched to the Cornell 48 yard line in four plays only to fumble, but the Big Red hid the fumble on the one yard line. On the next play, after another fumble, Bruch scooped up the loose ball in the end zone.
