Quaker Basketball Team Opens Palestra Schedule Against Unbeaten Navy

Veteran Middle Quintet Rated Highly in East; Return of Csencsitz, Killian Boosts Penn Hopes

By Dan Daviey

With its nine-tourney contest out of the way, Pennsylvania's basketball team will be in action this season in earnest tomorrow night in the Palestra opener against Navy. The contest will be preceded by the LaSalle-Niagara game at 7:45.

A 1-0-0 slate against Swarthmore proved to be more of a battle than expected, but the Quakers were able to show signs of improvement over their previous performance despite having to play without their star guard, Wally Tatum.

Penn won the opening game by 36-24, and the following night was able to overcome a 21-15 first-half deficit for a 29-23 win over Mary Washington.

The defense, which has been the main strength of the Quakers' early season, held Mary Washington scoreless on free throws, and the team's scoring average has been reduced to 50.7 points per game.

The return of Csencsitz and Killian will give Penn a boost against Navy, who is rated highly in the East. The Penn team will have to rely more on the shooting of their three-pointers, which has been inconsistent so far this season.

The game will be played at 8:15 at the Palestra, with the LaSalle-Niagara game opening the event.

Council Views Social Drinking

The Undergraduate Council has taken notice of the privilege of social drinking if it is not done in excess and does not bring discredit to the University. The Council adopted a resolution stating that the Undergraduate Council recognizes the privilege of social drinking for those able to use it in an appropriate manner. It will be followed by the practice of not using this privilege in excess and not bringing discredit to the University.

The Undergraduate Council has also recommended that the Committee on Student Affairs be reminded to enforce the Social Drinking Program. The Committee on Student Affairs will be asked to keep a check on the use of this privilege.

Penn Players Will Present 'Our Town' Tonight; I Performance of Wilder's Play To Begin at 8:15

The full presentation of the Pennsylvania Players, Thornton Wilder's "Our Town," will be given tonight and tomorrow night in Irvington Auditorium at the University.

Bita DiPasquale, a freshman in the College Women's Club, plays the female lead, Emily. Emily is supposed to be a model for the audience, the idea behind the play, which is that those who live do not realize what a wonderful thing it is to be alive.

The player, George Gibbs, is played by Peter Driscoll, who is in love with Emily and is married to him during the play. Deanna, a sophomore, is the member of the cast of the freshman Mark and Wig show.

Today Last Chance For Record Portraits

THE OPEN TAP
by Joy F. Frank

PHILADELPHIA: The Pennsylvania Playwrights will have their first chance this weekend to view the act of fire of one of Penn's finest works, which has been in rehearsal since early in the fall season. The play is called "The Open Tap," and is being performed at the University Theater on Thursday and Friday nights.

The play is directed by Paul M. Stoller, and the cast includes such well-known actors as John A. Johnson, Robert L. Newell, and John J. O'Connor. The play is a comedy about the life of a tap dancer in New York City, and it is being presented in a realistic manner.

The Pennsylvania Playwrights is a group of students who have been working on this play for some time, and they are excited to have the opportunity to perform it. They have been rehearsing for several weeks, and they are looking forward to seeing how the audience will react to their work.

The play is being presented as part of the university's continuing efforts to showcase the talents of its students. The Pennsylvania Playwrights is one of several groups that have been working on productions throughout the year, and they are all looking forward to the opportunity to perform in front of a live audience.

The Pennsylvania Playwrights is a student-run organization, and it is supported by the university. The group is grateful for the support it has received, and it is dedicated to producing high-quality theatrical productions that are both entertaining and thought-provoking.

The play is being performed at the University Theater, located at 3417 Walnut St., Philadelphia. Tickets are available at the door, and the show will begin at 8 p.m.

THE BEGINNING OF THE END

By: "The Beginning of the End"

Producers' book sale! At least one student has been heard to mutter something about the dear lack of book sales, and this is the one. The sale will be held in the University Theater on Thursday night, beginning at 8 p.m.

The sale will feature a wide range of books, from classics to modern fiction, and everything in between. The proceeds will go to support the university's library, which is in need of funds.

The sale will be open to the public, and anyone is welcome to participate. The books will be arranged by genre and author, and there will be a separate section for textbooks. Prices will vary depending on the condition of the books, but all prices will be marked clearly.

Please come out and support the university's library, and enjoy some good reads at the same time!
Freshman Cagers Battle Highly-Rated Middies

It's the opening game of the season for Pennsylvania's freshman cagers, and already they run up against a team that opens a 17-game win streak.

When Lebanon County's five take the Dakota Hall floor tomorrow in Annapolis, it will be cut to a pitiful string of victories that dates back to 1924. The Middie's whipped York (Pa.) Junior College, 74-46, in their lone contest of the season.

The Quakers will field a well-balanced team with plenty of shooting ability, but they lack the one big man who could dominate the game under the boards.

Paul Kellin, ex-Durham High star, and Mike Fauri, both 6'11", should provide the scoring punch for the panthers. Alan Schneider, 6'7", has been especially adept on drive-in shots from the keyhole and adds some rebounding strength to the Penn attack.

George Schmidt at 6'3" and Joe Bowman, 6'1", round out the starting lineup and form the rest of the Red and Blue's three-rebounding and three-shooting crew.

Penn's best chance for a first place finish in the 300 medley according to Coach Jack Medlin, Johnstone, who has consecutive wins in this event the last four years, is with the selected Quaker captain, and is scheduled to swim in the third and fourth medley relay and on the four-man 600 freestyle relay team.

Soph in Three Events

Sophomore Al Dean holds the 200 medley record in the 300 medley race, the 150 individual medley and the 200 breaststroke. Gene Coggin will swim in both medleys and on the relay team.

Dave Payne will represent Penn in the 600 freestyle, the 200 medley and the 100 yard sprint.

Penn basketball has already invited the diva and 400 relay, Dave Wilson, who has broken the 200 medley record. As the Penn football players round out the rest of the swimming team.

Facility Tickets

All facility members and the administrative staff are allowed to purchase two $2.50 tickets for entry to the Penn basketball and the Palestra for $1.25 each. For $2.50 tickets must be purchased at the Franklin Field ticket office by 3 p.m. the day of the game. Tickets for facility members are discounted up to 12 noon on Saturday.

Powerful Unbeaten Yale Swims Against Mermen

With a squad of only 14 men to fill 21 slots, Penn's varsity swimming team opens its sea-son tomorrow afternoon at the Hotel_mtxum Pool against Yale, the perennial power of the Ivy League.

Last season in the opening meet Penn made two events against the Eli as Parland Johnstone won the 150 individual medley and the 200 breaststroke. Yale went on to win the meet, 67-20, to extend its winning streak to 113 in dual meets. The streak has not been broken.

Penn's primary challenge will be to prevent Yale from making a string of victories over the Quakers. Yale has three wins over Penn in the last four seasons.

The Penn swimmers will be out to earn the title "Iron Men" as five men are sched-uled to swim in six events.

Yale's best chance for a first place finish in the 300 medley according to Yale Coach Jack Medlin, Johnstone, who has consecutive wins in this event the last four years, is with the selected Quaker captain, and is scheduled to swim in the third and fourth medley relay and on the four-man 600 freestyle relay team.
