I-F Council Votes Down Request To Reestablish Of National Fraternity

House Presidents To Be IF Representatives

States Proposed Amendment to Constitution

The Interfraternity Council voted almost unanimously, last night, against a request by Delta Sigma Phi fraternity to be allowed to reestablish a chapter on the University campus.

Other business that was discussed were four revisions to the constitution of the Interfraternity Council.

Object of recommendation of Delta Sigma Phi on campus were that there were not enough men for the fraternity, and another fraternity was not accepted to complicate the problem.

The Council will go before the next meeting of the Committee on Student Affairs for a final decision.

The first proposed revision will be to the effect that the president of the individual fraternity may be the representative on the Committee and now reads that the representative must be the officer of his fraternity.

Vice President Alternate

An alternate representative must be the vice president of the fraternity and can serve in the president's absence, and can call a meeting of the campus.

A third revision states that no one boy may attend the meetings, any member of the council may serve on the council and can be chosen at the discretion of the Council.

The fourth revision states that the secretary of the council may attend the meetings before nominations as a member of the fraternity council and by the Committee on Student Affairs, and may be able to cut meetings down to once a year.

Schroeder Completes New Plan For Students’ Health Insurance

Details of a health insurance plan for students were announced yesterday by the University in the final stages of completion, announced yesterday, and is a function of the University Health Insurance Committee.

Information regarding the benefits of the program and the methods for obtaining coverage will be mailed to students during the summer vacation.

Program Need

The new insurance program, which went into effect September 13, 1963, has been in the stage of planning for eight months. In releasing the details of the program, Dr. Schroeder stated that a program of this type has been available in some other universities for some time. After working for some months, the University has found a plan which will best serve the University and the student body.

The program is designed to provide coverage at group rates, with a maximum coverage of $1,000 for any accident which occurs within the United States or Canada.

Dr. Schroeder explained that the premium is $1.50 per semester, and $1.00 per quarter, to be paid in advance. The plan features a maximum of $1,000 accident insurance and $1,000 maximum medical expense insurance for each member.

The program will not replace the present Student Health program, but will supplement the three degrees of coverage which the University now offers.

The plan will be available to all students enrolled in the University and will cover the present plan may apply to the present plan.

$100 for any accident which occurs within the United States or Canada.

Frances W. Engle, president of the student body, explained that the premium is $1.50 per semester, and $1.00 per quarter, to be paid in advance. The plan features a maximum of $1,000 accident insurance and $1,000 maximum medical expense insurance for each member.

The program will not replace the present Student Health program, but will supplement the three degrees of coverage which the University now offers.

Dormitory Unity and The University

For the major portion of the undergraduates in the University, the fraternity is the basic all social life, and the most important center for all social contacts. First-year freshman, the fraternity is not available. Hence, the major part of his social life is centered around the dormitory.

It would seem that it is a prime responsibility of the University to further this social organization in such a way as to create the proper environment that would enhance this dormitory association and at the same time bring the freshman in closer contact with the administration and the faculty of the University.

The plan is simply that of having dormitory house supervisors for each freshman dormitory. More specifically, the plan would call for having two supervisors for each dormitory on the first and second floors of Houston Hall. The Faculty would have a semi-formal nature.

There would be a speaker at each of these meetings. He would represent the faculty administration or from the student body who would speak on some timely subject. After the actual dinner, an informal coffee hour would be held, affording an opportunity for the freshmen to chat with members of the faculty and administration.

The advantages of this type of dormitory house supervisor are numerous and certainly warrant putting this plan into effect. The most obvious advantage to get from this type of supervisors cannot fail but bring each individual freshman dormitory closer together. Since the dormitory is the center of association for the first semester freshman, anything that will reasonably strengthen this association should be seriously considered.

Moreover, such a plan would provide a good opportunity for the freshmen to get to know members of the faculty and administration more intimately. Thus, there would be a marked degree of unity among the freshman with the University.

As it looks now, the plan for dormitory house supervisors seems quite feasible. All members of next year's freshman class will be obliged to eat in the common dining room of Houston Hall. It is only a small matter to transfer a group from the cafeteria to the second floor of Houston Hall. There would only be a negligible increase in the cost per man for having these dinners. Possibly, the only real obstacle would be in the schedule of rooms for the afternoon and again for dinner.

The adoption of this type of plan would certainly lead to the betterment of the social life of the University. It would allow the advantages that would accrue from it would substantially aid in strengthening the bond between the freshman on one hand and the faculty and administration on the other.

Letters to the Editor

Editor, Daily Pennsylvanian:

I am sorry to see that my original letter on the subject of the "It's not real, it's not going on" has been tossed around to this point where it is virtually unrecognizable as written; as I do, I feel that it is pointless to take sides. Though originally with Mr. Wurman, I feel that I can no longer use his support in this issue, as I am totally out of sympathy with his method.

I was never in agreement with Mr. Macnamara; as a matter of fact, if I am to be taken correctly, the first column of Mr. Macnamara's was written as a direct protest to my letter.

I feel that the reason that the pee-pee or the cry can speak with such confidence today is because the problems which used to be limited in the size of our campus, two, or at most three countries are now being projected on a world scale. By making such a change if obvious, our nature seems to have been quite accurate, and I feel that we have not only a moral question of the present and previous ways questioned. In a word, it is impossible that this controversy is not a result of the age-old conflict between truth and security, and this can only make for unhappiness. I do not think that Mr. Wurman is concerned with the spiritual life of the word and your sense of the word and your own intellectual.

John Carney, playing six, took his match, 6-4, 7-6 becoming the only man on the team playing in both the yearling matches to have an undefeated record in singles.

Quaker Nine Faces Stern Test With Princeton

After Lopsided, 10-5 Triumph Over Explorers

Quakers Nine Faces Stern Test With Princeton

Jack McCleary is looking to this afternoon's test with Princeton with the sincere confidence that comes to a coach who sees his club break out in a rash of four perfect drag bunts in five appearances. Yeohn's team, already ranked No. 2, will carry a 6-2-1 overall mark Into the fray.

The Pennsylvania mentor is still a little apprehensive. The Tigers are unbeaten in four EIL contests and will carry a 6-2-1 overall mark Into the fray.

Four Lones

Before Saturday's intra-city clash with LaSalle, McCleary and the Quakers were in dire straits. They had dropped their last four games, and if they hadn't been handicapped by the opposing hurler, then Providence might have come away with an agreeable late—for example, Penn's recent loss to Villanova was the result of a dropped fly ball and an unsuccessful attempt to steal home.

Letty Tom Conlin drew Saturday's starting assignments. His mates got him ten runs, he allowed only seven hits. The Quakers rolled up a 10-5 win, their fifth in 14 outings, and every run-total. It was a long time coming.
