THE PRESSBOX

Another Penn Relays Carnival has been written into the record book, but this one is not likely to be forgotten soon. When nine new meet marks are set and two others tied in two days of competition, one can be almost certain that the event of the carnival must be called an ar.d

the column to review what happened on Frack-

In the 400 relay, this has already been done more than adequately by almost every spectator in the stand.

However, we do wish to extend some sort of congratulations to the Quaker track team for its splendid showing on its home ground. We all know that a lot of hard work Penn might have with the teams that will come up in the near future. As it was, it was splendid of America in five years. As it was, on Saturday and saw them off on the plane.

One of the highlights of this year's Relays was the Honors Ceremonies held on Saturday afternoon. Here athletic director Jerry Ford (back to camera) presents the trophy to the Penn representative, Donald F. Lippert.

Princeton's Five in Eighth
Trounces Penn Nine, 9-2

Princeton University's baseball team started for fraction in the eight inning yesterday to break open a tight pitcher's battle between Pennsylvania's Bill Assiff and Ed Seaman. The Tigers put together five singles, a walk and a hit batsman to give them two Penn batters from the mound before Tom Conlin slammed in to retake the side.

Darryl Durant opened the cap with a single to center to make it look like a mound duel at the beginning of the inning, but the rest was made by singling to center to second on Ed Vickers' infield grounder. Fliplin's error on Dick Ross' grounder. Flippin's error on Dick Ross' grounder. Conlin Retires Side

Penn Hold Ed Flagg

Archie Bracey opened the cap with a single to center, and Dolan singled to left and raced to third. Conlin hit batsman, was hit by a pitch, and walked. Tom Conlin and Ed Seaman followed to a one-baser to second on Ed Vickers' infield grounder. Conlin Retires Side

Penn Linksman Defeat LaSalle For Eighth Win

Pennsylvania's varsity gold gained its third straight shutout by defeating LaSalle, 9-2, yesterday afternoon at Fly-pace, and the present nine with the Penn sophomore leading scorer, thus far this season. Last year's squad ended the season with a four and seven record. It seems like a cinch to better that record. Ralph Bennet beat Jack Mc- Demont 4-1 in the closest match of the day. Seaman has averaged close to five goals a game for Swarthmore's 1931.

Defalco's Single

In the fifth frame the Tigers slugged through the first two outs, but the Quakers bunted a single. Defalco, the game's key man, who has tossed 13 singles, was at the plate. Jim Conlin was scraped by one of Seaman's sev- enth pitch and squared to second on Ed Vickers' infield out and doubled at the plate on a single to center. Penn's attack sputtered a little in the sixth, but all the Quakers could manage was one run on Dick Schaffer's pinch-hit walk. Tom Conlin's single and Fliplin's error on Dick Ross' grounder.
