University Establishes Admissions Waiting List For Incoming Freshmen

Nearly 150 Prospective Students Put on List; University Will Admit 1200 to Freshman Class

For the first time in recent years, the University has installed an admissions waiting list. The registrar's office was forced to begin the list because of the large number of students who were finally accepted but did not have space to admit all of them. The number of students accepted but not admitted was doubled to 1,200 for next year's freshman class, added. Approximately 150 high school students who have already completed their freshman year will be admitted to the university on the waiting list if space becomes available.

Student Number Reduced

However, both Institutions will admit all students who are finally accepted but will not exceed the number that they originally intended to admit.
