Letters to the Editor

Editor, Daily Pennsylvania:

From that day, when I first became a member of the football team, an era of football life until the present day I have always felt an indescribable drive, a fierce and unyielding passion, a desire that is impossible to describe, the desire to excel, to surpass, to dominate in every aspect of the game. This drive is fueled by a deep-seated desire to compete, to be the best, to leave a legacy.

I, therefore, wholeheartedly support the proposal to extend the football season by two weeks. This extension will provide the opportunity for teams to further develop their strategies, improve their skills, and enhance their overall competitiveness. It will allow for a more balanced and competitive environment, ensuring that the best teams emerge victorious.

Furthermore, the extended season will provide an increased enthusiasm and interest in the sport among spectators and fans. It will create a more engaging and dynamic atmosphere, driving up attendance and generating a greater sense of anticipation and excitement.

In conclusion, I believe that extending the football season by two weeks is a wise and necessary step. It will not only enhance the quality of the game but also contribute to the overall growth and development of the sport. Let us seize this opportunity to take football to new heights, creating a legacy that will be remembered for generations.

Sincerely,

J. Paul Sheedy* Wasn’t Very Sharp Till Wildroot Cream-Oil Gave Him Confidence

"Why do the girls act so snooty?" mused Sheedy. "It’s giving me the way they give me the brush-off. "It’s your hair, J. Paul," said one of the lads. "It sticks out all over. Confidently, it stings. You need Wildroot Cream-Oil." So Sheedy picked up a bottle. Now he has all kinds of confidence, because his hair looks healthy and handsome, the way Nature intended. Neat but not greasy.
