Cinerama Wonders

Seven League Routes

by Lewis Merlkin, Jr.

"The Seven Wonders of the World"—as seen through the eighth wonder, Cinerama—provides the advertising world inside the State Theatre. The film is not limited to the Seven Wonders; we see it does reach all of them. Cinerama certainly is not the eighth wonder. Placed in the succession of Cineramaland around the world, "Seven Wonders" trims hard to be the best of the two.

Beginning the production with a galaxy, seven painter, Lowell Thomas, on an old-fashioned negroes, make the whole production of the future seem as easy as taking home movie. Eyes awitkting, Norman and General Malvina Thomas, brushes infused with the glamour, the excitement, the challenge, the whole world dining.

Gliding all the way to New York, the first shots are to be seen in the Cinerama studies on Long Island. The Cinerama truck rolls through immense width and dixey pattern, we begin to wonder whether Long Island has gone anywhere or Hollywood has gone Long Island. Further extending across scene, inside the Cinerama Orchestra turns up, rolls of this kind, with dances, tune, and other engraving purposes.

Cinerama Emerges

Finally, the famous series, the Cinerama picture window, the main swing to a thousand kinds of visual aid, the leisurely, and we saw over in the heat of New York skyline, the Cinerama plane swings smoothly, followed with the story of Liberty.

As Lowell Thomas invites us to put on "Seven League Boots" we seem in three minutes to see the famous Falls in the upper corners of the Brazilian jungles. A chain of several hundred miles, the Iguazu fell beneath the Amazon River, piranha fish and all. A little action on the film is those piranhas would likely do some to improve the picture. "Seven Wonders" next stop the pyramids.

Jayvee Quintet Faces Soldiers In First Game

Pennsylvania's junior varsity basketball team inaugurated its 1965-6 season with a 63-43 victory over Fort Monmouth in the last home game of the season. The victory was the first for Fort Monmouth in the history of the team.

This will be probably the strangest test of the year for the J.V.'s, in the starting lineup for the Soldier's is everybody. All-American Tom Falls, the former La Salle standout, backed up by a dazzling array of All-Americans including 6'7" Donald, from Niagara, 7' Bill Reed, from Temple Tech, 6' Tom Barlet, formerly of Marquette College and Gene Kasulka, the 6'5" playmaker from La Salle.

Unfortunately, there are a number of families right here in the University area who are not as fortunate as we are. For them, Christmas will be just another day, another day with not enough money, not enough food. We here at the University can help them, we can make Christmas a joyous day. Contribute ... contribute generously to the Friar's all-University basket drive, for we can give them this day.

GIVE US THIS DAY — DEC. 25th

Christmas day for most of us will be a day of joy and relaxation. Gifts, friends and an abundance of food all come to make this day what it is.

Unfortunately, there are a number of families right here in the University area who are not as fortunate as we are. For them, Christmas will be just another day, another day with not enough money, not enough food. We here at the University can help them, we can make Christmas a joyous day. Contribute ... contribute generously to the Friar's all-University basket drive, for we can give them this day.
