In Defense of Women

Poor Richard's Almanac

by Charles H. MacNamara

With the announcement that a new Women's College had just been established, the disheartened misogynists are willing to admit that a new era in the lives of the women of Pennsylvania has dawned. A fellow columnist, Arthur C. (for Charles) Hyndman, in his recent column, entitled "The Importance of the Woman in the University," has argued that the new College is capable of holding their own.

The faculty of these malicious rascals is made up of a group of men who are well versed in the art of teaching. They have a wealth of knowledge and experience that will be of great value to the women.

The College is located in a beautiful setting, surrounded by nature. The students will have the opportunity to engage in various outdoor activities, such as hiking, boating, and picnicking.

The curriculum is designed to provide a well-rounded education, covering a wide range of subjects. The students will have the chance to explore their interests and passions.

The College is also known for its outstanding athletic facilities. The women will have the opportunity to participate in a variety of sports, including basketball, volleyball, and track and field.

In conclusion, the new Women's College promises to be a beacon of hope for the women of Pennsylvania. It is a place where they can pursue their dreams and aspirations, free from the constraints of society.

Letter to the Editor

The Annual Pennsylvanian: I have been following with great interest all the news about the upcoming game with Ohio State, football recruiting, basketball, hockey, etc. Never have I heard so much excitement building up to a game of Pennsylvanian versus Ohio State. I am sure it will be an exciting contest, and I look forward to watching it.

The teams are evenly matched, and I expect a close game. Ohio State is a strong team, but I believe the Pennsylvanians have what it takes to win. I hope they come out on top.

The annual Pennsylvanian has always been a highlight of the college calendar, and I am excited to see what this year's edition will bring. I know the students will put in their best effort to make it a successful event. I wish them all the best.

Letters to the Editor should be addressed to the editor of The Annual Pennsylvanian. They should be double spaced and typed at 46 characters to the line. All letters must be signed, and the name and address of the sender will be withheld upon request.
