Site of New Library Will Be Grassed Area Instead of Parking Lot

Buildings on Walnut Street between 36th and 38th streets are being razed as part of the University's development program. The area, which is the eventual site of the new library, will be grassed as soon as the buildings are removed, instead of being made into a parking lot as had been previously reported.

The area between Woodland Avenue and Walnut Street and bounded by 34th and 40th streets, the eventual site of the proposed library, will be grassed, not turned into a parking lot, John L. Moore, business vice-president, said yesterday.

Reports had been circulated that the area would be turned into a parking lot to partially alleviate the acute parking problem in the University area. Moore said that it would be foolish indeed if it would be expensive to grade and bluegrass the lot, for parking while the grade would serve to beautify the area.

Plan Calls for Mall

Moore said that the eventual plan for the area calls for a mall, a tree-lined street and walk, way running through the mall from Walnut Street to the Benjamin Franklin Monument in front of College Hall.

Described as a number of build ing sites in this area will be completed before the end of the present school year. Contractors are now working in building in Walnut Street.

The plans are expected to be completed by March 15. The building is expected to be completed by May 10. The building is expected to be completed by May 15. The building is expected to be completed by May 15.

Work Begins on Woodland

After these beginnings have been made, work will begin on the mall between 34th and 35th St., making 33rd and 34th streets the eventual relocation of the Philadelphia and the Delta Phi fraternities.

Other buildings in the area slated for eventual demolition are the Franklin Society Building, the Journalism Building and the Green Field Center for Human Relations.

Demolition of the Journalism Building will be delayed because of the difficulties involved in the placement of the classes that are scheduled for the present season. It will be made sure that this scheduling problem will be soon solved.

Newman Will Hold First Spring Dance

The annual Newman Spring Dance will be held from 9 to 11 p.m. at Newman Hall, 1301 Locust Street. Activities will be sponsored by the freshmen members of the University Newman Club and the Newman Club of the University. McClure said that the dance will be a testament to the rivalry spirit of the season. He pointed out that the dance will be a prominent feature of Valentine's Week and a temporary parking angle.

McClure also said that a general banquet of the club will be held Thursday evening. Activities for the evening are planned by the faculty and secretary of the University. McClure said that the dance will be a "great" event in the history of the University.

Examples of Lost Art on Exhibition

By Peyrin Bray

The Slavic Art Exhibition in the library of the Fine Arts Building are works of art of China, Japan, and Persia.

The prints, which emphasize objects on the walls of Chinese, Japanese, and Persian rooms, are approximately 100. The exhibition was spanned in the early part of the 19th Century. The works of the Famous Art, a fine art, is planned with plans for its production, and the hope is to bring the prints to the public in 1913, to the hope is to bring the prints to the public in 1913.

The exhibition was sponsored by the Philadelphia School of Fine Arts and the Brooklyn Museum, of which the hope is to bring the prints to the public in 1913.

As Carpi stated that the exhibition is the "first print" of the year, and prints of which are not often seen are the new work, which is being shown in the exhibition and is a useful thing to many who are interested in the exhibition.

The process involved in producing the exhibition is the use of wood blocks, usually made by hand, and printing a new color for the print. The prints are in groups, and each one includes a number of prints, which are shown in the exhibition, and are in color, and some of the prints are in black and white. There is a limit to the number of prints that can be exhibited in the exhibition, and the exhibition is limited to 25 prints, which are in color, and some of the prints are in black and white.

The Dean and the Diners

Poor Richard’s Almanac

by Charles H. MacNamara

The Dean and the Diners

The Dean of the College, a member of the Penn Whirl, has had a long and illustrious career in the halls of academia. He is known for his wise words and thoughtful insights, and this particular week, he has decided to share his thoughts on the current events at the university.

Dear Sir: As an academic, I would like to bring to your attention a matter of great importance. The Penn Whirl, a publication cherished by the students of this institution, has been facing financial difficulties. The staff, who work tirelessly to ensure that the newspaper reaches the hands of every student, are seeking your support.

As a faculty member, I urge you to consider the importance of having a student-run newspaper. The Penn Whirl serves as a platform for student voices and opinions, and it provides a valuable outlet for discussion and debate. It is a testament to the vibrant and diverse community that Penn represents.

I would like to appeal to the university administration to consider allocating funds to support the Penn Whirl. This is a small investment that could make a significant impact on the future of the newspaper and the students who rely on it.

Sincerely,

[Signature]
