Cites Viewpoints Of Science, Clergy
Dr. George F. Thomas, chairman of the department of religious thought of the University, will speak on "Religious Trends Today in a World of Science," this evening at 8 in Museum Auditorium.

Dr. Thomas will discuss the growing tendency toward a conflict between the worlds of science and the clergy, and the effect that this conflict has had on the maintenance of peace during World War II. The lecture is sponsored by the Intercollegiate Religious Council, and is open to the public.

Penn Players Will Present Play Tonight
The Pennsylvania Players will present the annual play, "The Whirligig," tonight in the annual Drama Festival for Intercollegiate Thomas-Media.

Formation of the four-act play, "The Whirligig," is possibly joined by the students in the Department of Drama, the Wharton School, the University, and the Philadelphia Evening Bulletin. The play's theme will be "The Whirligig," a story of the struggle of man to maintain a high moral standard in a world of corruption.

The Pennsylvania Players will feature Rosemary McVay, niece of the late Rosemary McVay, and the late Robert A. McVay, who were members of the original cast of "The Whirligig." The play will be directed by Robert A. McVay, and the production will be under the supervision of the Interfraternity Council.

Gates Forbidden Right To Speak By 5 Colleges
J. Gates, editor of the Daily Worker, spoke at the University on Monday evening. The Workers, however, were forbidden to continue their public meeting.

Gates continued: "The Workers, speaking as a group, are not now engaged in any particular political controversy. We are not now interested in any particular political party. We are simply interested in the workers and in the working class. We are not now interested in any particular political party.

Gates further said: "The Workers, speaking as a group, are not now engaged in any particular political controversy. We are not now interested in any particular political party. We are simply interested in the workers and in the working class. We are not now interested in any particular political party."

Undergrad Council Selling Flight to Europe on June 24
Excursion Expected to End August 31

Contracts were signed yesterday by the Executive Committee of the Undergrad Council to act as an agent for the Philadelphia Union of Airlines, faculty members, administrators and officers of the University to transport these people to Europe. This excursion will be available to these people in the near future.

The flight will leave in two stages, in New York City on June 4 and in Amiens, France on June 24. The return flight from Paris, France will be on June 15. The transportation charges will be $250 for the excursion to Europe and $50 for the return trip.

To Render Arrangements
The Interfraternity Council, and Harvey University, will handle all arrangements for the Undergrad Council's excursion.

The excursion will be open to all students who are members of the Interfraternity Council, and to all students who are members of the Interfraternity Council's affiliated organizations.
Bohemia Comes To Penn

by Michael Hoffman

The continental coffee house literature has come to the University of Pennsylvania, be form of the Little Greenwich, 35th and Swarthmore S.
This unique form of "bohemia" has invaded the campus, borrowing its name and atmosphere from similar establishments in European capitals.
The Little Greenwich began operation on this campus last week, and it is already a popular gathering place for students.

It is ironic that during the celebration of Academic Freedom Week the heads of the five municipal colleges in New York City, President John G. Nevinson of the New York City College, President A. C. embody the break with Morgan that was accepted by the great Panun college. It is also interesting to note that at the time in the late 1930s, the New York City College, President A. C. had been a supporter of the break with Morgan. He supported it because he believed that Morgan's policies were not in the best interest of the students.

In a statement the five officials of the municipal colleges stated their "unequiv ability of the strike and the closing of the schools. They also stated that they were "against the violation of the government.

Why then are the officials of these municipal colleges supporting the strike and the closing of the schools? One possible explanation is that they are trying to gain leverage in the negotiations. Another possibility is that they are simply following the lead of other officials who are supporting the strike.

The municipal colleges may not always agree with the opinions of the minority, but it has enough support in the majority of its students and a strong enough belief in the principles of academic freedom to allow opinions to be expressed.

The twisted logic of Thomas V. Nevinson, "The Editor in Chief of the Daily Pennsylvanian" is the initial decision to cancel Gayton's speech on the campus. Emersonian semantics. Dr. Garvey classifies Gayton as an inferior lecturer because he holds that this man has gone to jail and has therefore paid his debt to society. Nevinson's argument is that if Gayton had been excluded from the college, the students would have been deprived of the opportunity to hear his views.

1 M Swimming Tourney

To Begin on March 25

The unseasonable Intramural swimming championships will begin on March 25 in the Hopkins Pool, Nick Gluesing, director, announced today.

Once more teams representing Intramural Swimming will be competing for their members' swim for the Intramural team titles.

The Intramural Championship for the men's division is scheduled to begin March 25. The 25-meter pool will be utilized for the winning team's dedication.

Individual events will include 100-yard and 200-yard freestyle and freestyle relay races. Events for the Intramural team will be run during March 25 and March 28, starting at 9:00 a.m. for the first heat. The final rounds will qualify those for the championship.

Points awarded on final events: 10, 7, 5, 3, 1. No entry can compete in more than one relay, including relay relay. Members of the winning team will get a gold medal. Points awarded on the winning team's relay will also be awarded for the final heat.

Junior men's swimming events will also be held during March 25 and March 28. This calendar is an updated version of the Intramural team's schedule for the Intramural team.
