Letters to the Editor

Editor, The Daily Pennsylvanian:

The problem of plagiarism is a significant one, and one that I believe should be addressed by our university community. It is crucial that we uphold the standards of academic integrity, and that all students are aware of the consequences of engaging in such behavior.

I have observed instances of plagiarism both in my own coursework and among my peers. These incidents range from minor cases of copying sentences word-for-word to more serious cases where entire papers have been submitted as one's own work.

It is important to note that plagiarism not only undermines the value of our education, but also has serious ethical implications. By submitting someone else's work as our own, we are dishonest and undermine the trust that our peers and instructors have in our abilities and integrity.

I would like to see our university take more proactive measures to combat plagiarism. This could include more robust policies and consequences for those who engage in this behavior, as well as increased awareness and education on the topic.

In conclusion, plagiarism is a serious issue that affects us all. I urge our university to take this matter seriously and work towards a solution.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

Crimson Invades Philly After 16-Year Absence

The Penn team made its first trip to Franklin Field after a 16-year absence, when the Quakers of Philadelphia faced the Volunteers from Princeton, Yale and Harvard.

In 1911, the Volunteers were the victors in the first game against the Quakers at Franklin Field. Since that time, the Volunteers have been unable to defeat the Quakers.

The Quakers, who are the oldest college football team in the country, have had a winning record at Franklin Field for the last 16 years.

The Volunteers have been using their new field since the fall of 1911.

I-F Slates Four

Quarter-final competition in the Interscholastic Track Football League begins tomorrow afternoon at Franklin Field.

Four games are slated for the 11th round, with SAN and Phil Sigma Delta square off, and the others will meet the winners of the contests between ZBT and TSW.

The Delta Phi Pi opposes Delta Tau Delta, and this year's defending champions, the Delta Chi Pi, meet the Eta Nu Kappa. The 11th round of these games will be in the semi-finals.
Illman Center Aids Children, Conducts Special Programs

by William Stewart

Upon being asked by a slumber who may find the Illman School the student, the Pennsylvania entrepreneur would be to direct him to the University Center. The center is a part of the University of the University, located at 3001 Walnut and 3933 Locust Streets. The purpose of the center is to provide the best possible learning environment for children from the third to the fifth year of age.

The enrollment of the center depends on the number of children who are given the opportunity to attend. The cost of attendance is $25 per month. Children are selected based on their age, academic performance, and personal needs. The facility is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Educational Survey Will Evaluate Univ.

A new survey is being conducted by the Illman School. The survey is designed to evaluate the effectiveness of the educational program and to identify areas for improvement. The survey will be administered to students, teachers, and parents. The results of the survey will be used to make necessary changes to the educational program.

STICKERS!

NO SORRIER WARRIOR exists than the one without Luckies. What's he missing? A smoke that's as light as they come. Relax! He'sfound a Lucky. A Lucky is made of superbly light tobacco—golden rich, wonderfully good-tasting tobacco that's tasted to taste better even. That's a lot to miss out on—why wonder our chief has grief! Up North, you'd call him a Blue Sioux; back East, a Bleak Creek. But out in land of the pueblo, he's just a mighty Mopcy Hopi.

Smoke Signal to you: Light up a Lucky. You'll agree a light smoke's the right smoke for you!
