Eban Pleads for Humanities Interest in 'Science of Man'

Israel Envoy Receives Standing Ovation; Diplomat Stresses International Studies

An emphasis by universities on the study of the humanities, with special stress on international relations, was urged last night by His Excellency Abba Eban, Israeli ambassador to the United States, speaking in Irvine Auditorium.

"The current Scientific Revolution demands of the free world's educational movements a shift from natural science to the humanities," Eban asserted. "What does it profit a man if he produce more weapons of destruction," he asked, declaring that we have not yet developed the art of coexistence with our fellow men.

The Israeli ambassador, who also addressed the occasion to the United Nations, was delivering the third in a series of Studebaker Lectures, delivered by distinguished leaders in the world of achievement and given by Studebaker for the benefit of all the students.

Three Problems Confront World

Eban went on to lay out the three major problems confronting the world to-day in his address to the student body at the university. These problems are: (1) the Birthday of the Atomic Age; (2) the present status of the United Nations; and (3) the international problems of war and peace.

"Although the Scientific Revolution is five years old," he said, "it signifies not just the discovery of atomic weapons, but the birth of a new and independent world which can revolutionize the minds of all people.

"The birthday of the Atomic Age is the birthday of a new world. We can look forward to that new world and we can work to make it a reality.

"The United Nations is the symbol of the new world. It is the symbol of the new world of peace and friendship.

"We must work to make the United Nations a success."

Frosh Harriers Run

The freshman cross-country team, most successful fall season yet, enters its last dual meet of the season this afternoon when it takes on the Temple Frosh in Fortmarch Park.

The Penn pressings currently have a 4-1 slate, having lost only to the Harvard freshmen in a triangular meet in New York. Coach "But" Morgan has said that the way his team has developed is a good sign in Fortmarch Park.

Walter's prediction will be made on November 5th. After the frosh compete in the ICAA meet the following week, the rose approaches the note in that competition.

Top qualifier candidate for high honors is that time-hardened ex-marine and current Terry. He has yet to be beaten in competition this season. Terry was tied twice, once by Lieutenant Frank Fitzpatrick and Dick Lansen, also on the only two teams who will start for the second consecutive week.

Supplemental tackle John Bahnke will not start this week. This is the first time in the season that Bahnke has failed to play. He failed to make his team and did not play until the Harvard game.

Junior Varsity Soccer Team Encounters Fast Girard Circle

Junior varsity soccer Arties good enough shape to play the Hosp will be slightly apprehensive whole game.

against the Girard Jesuits today at 1:30 at Pavilion Field. But Brice will be asking that the Quaker team win the second home game of the season.

Bryan commented, "I always feel safe on the ball and out of the from the time the opening whistle is blown to the end of the game. They simply aren't a second death," he added.

The Red and Blue usually play four twenty-minute periods while Girard usually plays fifteen-minute quarters. To order to rend this situation both teams agreed to play eighteen-minute quarters.

Cook fitness促进 and the "Girard attack" is the "kicker's" type of game, but neither one has a new coach in the squad. Girard has established in a short soccer game which the Hosp cannot seem to pin down.

The jesuits will have an extra addition to their ranks. Toddy Dwyer, who played freshman two years ago and didn't see much at Hosp last year, will act as part-time action on Duty.

Eban Gives Lecture

small country occupies but one-fourth the area of the 4,000 square miles that组成ed the United States at the Middle East. Israel had no inherent barriers of his Arab neighbors, "nor do we apologize for our 4,000 square miles," he informed the audience.

Arab borders of Israel continue unaffected, despite the fact that the Arab nations, surrounding Israel, have been more virtuallyierten with political victory in our aims.

In conclusion, Eban urged that we look to protect democracy as a dynamic idea in its own right and not merely a negation of total-itarianism. "Democracy is not the natural state of society and will ever engage the world by itself.
It is a state of mind which engal-

under it."
