Ivy Adopts New Format; Loses Distinctive Nature As Second Year Begins

By Arnold J. Kliber

A futile attempt to imitate the format of various national magazines leaves Ivy Magazine without the distinctive nature it had last year, along with a feeling that its material is at its best less than what should be expected in a second year included for the first time in a "true" Ivy publication.

Harrwell Urged by Dilworth In Speech Yesterday
In a public address before the Student Assembly, President Harnwell urged the young men of the University to be willing to consider the campaign for "Corporate Alumni" plan, and to ask for work in the office of the Alumni Association, to the end that the University may become a real educational institution.

The move to create a "Corporate Alumni" plan was approved by the Student Assembly at a recent meeting.

Harrwell's address was made at the opening of the academic year, and the students were told that the University is in the nature of a institution that is primarily educational in character, but that it is only a part of the whole educational process.

The students were further told that the University's future is in the hands of the students themselves, and that they must take an active part in the work of the University to make it a success.
