They've Got Six-Pence

by Martin Neff

Penn Jazz at Carnegie

by Joseph Corriere

By now, everyone has heard of the latest Dilbert wave on the Pennsylvania campus, or at least has an inkling of a group known as the Six-Pence. The Dilbert affair (see the Brown Daily Herald for a brief history of the Dilbert prehistory, which was the subject of a recent Daily Herald article) has now taken on a new form, or "new angle" in a mad world which has become a little more serious about such things. Dick Lindquist, the trumpet-playing leader and unquestioned head of the group, pointed out that unlike the stark times-free Dilbert arrangements which are so very popular but at the same time so very common, the Six-Pence have refused to adopt any particular idiom and have accomplished one entirely their own. He claims that the band has achieved for them a "refreshingly arranged uniqueness."

Three Penn Men

Jonas Lindquist, who is a senior in the Wharton School, Gary Goldsmith, the student, and Harvey delays, the band during his four years at the University, have been the driving force in creating the Six-Pence as it is now. Lindquist is a member of the College, and besides playing with the band, has spent considerable portions of the Autumn of Music. Lindquist is a junior in the Wharton School.

The drummer, Bob Getz, is a recent graduate of the University, and Bill Kondran and Bob Kndfel, who display their talents on the trombone and clarinet, respectively, are also classmen in the College who have become Six-Pence regulars.

Their recent publicity has been in connection with a Thanksgiving extravagance to be presented in Carnegie Hall. It will be the last in a series of collegiate jazz concerts which have been a recent tradition in the Hall. The international fame of this concert will be raised in the near future. The concert will be held Saturday, November 26th, at 8 o'clock, and will proceed long into the darkness. Produced by Jack Ensminger, the concert is not strictly jazz in the true sense of the word, but for those that are representative, there will be such stalwarts as the Eli Chosen Six, The Yale Whiffenpoofs, the Shire-Fogg Quintet, Brown's Brunones, and the big band under the direction of Chris Porter. The band, which was formed near the end of last year, has been greatly assisted and encouraged by Bruce Montgomery, Director of Music here at Pennsylvania. All of the members have been chosen to play for the Penn "V" crew and "T," which will take place December 12th, 13th, and 14th in Steve Auditorium. They have been featured quite frequently at a few of the local frat parties recently, but have played outside of the Philadelphia area as well. The band has been seen at Williams, Swarthmore, Yale, Johns Hopkins, and Pennsylvania State University.

To Play in Bermuda

Spring vacation holds a special treat for the group, for they have been booked into the Elbow Beach Surf Club in Purt, Bermuda, for the duration of the annual college week festival. This will run from April 3rd to the 12th. After that, the future is a bit uncertain. With a hopeful look in his eyes and his fingers crossed, Lindquist says that they hope to return to the States and Europe this summer. They would appreciate a combination of anything by the United States, Brazil, and Argentina. They would also appreciate any recommendations of their own. A full thanks, we accept that they would be happy to "Play their way over and back on a student ship."

Night now they are looking forward to the Carnegie Hall concert on Saturday as a prelude to longer and better offers. If they have by those who can distinguish style from chic, this should be accomplished without too much difficulty. Tickets for the concert can be purchased at the information desk in Houston Hall, or at the door the night of the production. Anyone who may be in New York this weekend and wants a late night of it could do worse for more.

Open Letter to the MECHANICAL AND
METALLURGICAL ENGINEER

Are you aware of the fact that over 40 per cent of our sales are in the non-chemical field that we manufacture such products as "Winchester" firearms, "Weather" brass, "Western" cartridges, "Remington" powder-actuated tools, "Oscar" aluminum, "Franklin" packaging materials and "Exxon" fine papers?

We are completing the construction of a multi-million dollar aluminum fabricating plant near Chagrin Falls, Ohio, and are expanding our nuclear fuel program at New Haven, Connecticut. We have recently established a Metallurgical Research Division and are in the process of staffing it.

As you can see, these are the types of operations requiring engineers such as yourself. For more detailed information, you should contact your placement office.

An Open Letter
To the Students of the University of Pennsylvania

Dear Student:

We sincerely hope that you were among those present at the post-game party at the Penn Club following the Penn-Columbia game on Saturday the 16th in New York. There was a great deal of work involved in preparing for the event, and a few words of explanation are necessary to those of you who were not present.

The Penn Executive Council of New York had an invitation to come to the best of the Pennsylvania Houses across the country, with the understanding that Penn students would be given an opportunity to be entertained.

We were asked to have a good time and to enjoy the event. We felt that we should try to make the most of the occasion and show our appreciation for the invitation. We felt that it was important to be friendly and to welcome the students from other schools.

We would like to thank all those who came to the event and helped to make it successful. We hope that everyone enjoyed themselves and that we all had a good time.

We look forward to seeing you again at future events.

Sincerely,

The Executive Council
Univ. of Pa. Club of New York
