Wrestlers, Fencers Host Cornell Tomorrow

Strong Big Red Defends Ivy Title; heavy weight Traendly in Big Test

Penn State's undefeated heavyweight, Frank Trandely, is expected to be sent flying yesterday when he tangles with the Big Red's Nick Toliver in the 220-pound weight division.

The match will not only be Trandely's first test of the season, but also the first for Toliver.

Penn State, on the other hand, is expected to be the favorite in the match, having defeated Cornell in the Ivy title.

Fencers, Kishman celebrates, ten years of fencing

Joe Kishman, one of the most successful fencers in the nation, is celebrating his tenth season this year.

Kishman, who has accumulated numerous victories over the years, is expected to lead his team to victory in tomorrow's match.

Varsity Swimmers Face Navy Squad

The Quaker swimming team travels to Annapolis tomorrow to face a powerful Navy squad.

In search of their third win of the season, the Quakers will have their hands full with the well-seasoned Navy sailors.

Committee on the team's previous meeting against Villanova this past Saturday.

The Red and Blue have a good shot at victory, but the Quakers are not taking the meet lightly.

“Join the boys help me celebrate by beating Cornell on Saturday,” stated Larry Cizer, on the eve of his tenth anniversary as coach of Pennsylvania's fencing team.

A win would give the Quakers a commanding position of first place in the Ivy League, a position they currently share with the Big Red, each squad boasting League records of 1-6. The winner of this match will come out the University Place and the defending champions Columbia.

The Quakers are fresh from a convincing 21-4 victory over Johns Hopkins while Cornell has won its only match of the season, a 1-6 decision over Harvard.

Cizer will open the match with a strong performance on Loop hours along with Princeton and the defending champion Columbia.

This season, Joe Trenchard, Jim Leiberman and Tom Bauffe will start in full, with Johnny Lott, Natting Cizer and Moe Keys in reserve.

Trenchard is the leading scorer on the squad with a perfect 5-0 slate. Leiberman and Bauffe have each won with eight victories.

Cornell's full four will be led by co-captain Bill Cotter, who made the second all-Ivy team last season and was on the 1957 intercollegiate Championship all team.

Facing cornell will be Joe Cizer, and Bill Rossberg.

In reserve, Cornell will have Bob Holloway, Rand Sabec and Tom Yacker.

Captains Joe Cizerne, Ed Parmeck and Bill Robinson probably will get the ball for the Quakers in the middle, with Penny and Larry Cizer also available for action.

Economists Robinson and Parmeck have the best records for the Red and Blue this division. Robinson has lost only one bout in five decisions, while Parmeck has lost only one bout in seven decisions.

Cornell's sabre fencers lack experience with only one scoring lieutenant, Harry Cover. The other two for Cornell on the Big Red will probably be split.

Crippled Trackmen Compete In Philadelphia Inquirer Meet

A crippled band of Quaker trackmen set out last week in the Philadelphia Inquirer Meet for the 1893 campaign in the Franklin Field, Pennsylvania. January 24, at Convention Hall. The 12 and 8 miles is also entered in the Washington Evening Star Games on January 25th and the Boston A. A. Games on February 2nd. Two of Penn's best oarsmen, George Kautzmann and Andy Wiltsehe, will win the Inquirers' meet and, a third, co-captain (c) Perry, may go up to par because of a recent ankle injury. Kautzmann, from Evergreen, New Jersey, General Hospital, with elephants. The openly hostile turn against the Inquirer Games as he was scheduled to anchor the Quakers in the mile relay and run a leg in the one-mile relay.

Wool is suffering from a serious wool price pull, and has been able to practice but a few times this winter. Wool is, of course, the top hurdle and high jumpers in the Ivy League. After holding off with Wool, and then a few weeks later, Danil is behind in his practice schedule. Penn's men are slipping on the Franklin Field today during the holiday recess and the lids appointments in their practice ses.

Coach "Doc" Mossman said that a change is expected in the individual running events, such as the 880 and 440.

Freshman Cagers Bow To Explorers, 93-89

All were on at Quaker Hill McDonald driving in the Levitt shorts before the last game of Levitt, the Explorers' George Bell (I), Tony Walsh (II) and Bob Horlick (III) and Penn's Steve Greenfield. Penn lost, 83-89.
