University Fraternities Begin Formal Rushing With 1100 Participating

I-F Council Extends Blanket Invitation For First Night Each House Rushes

The University’s fraternity system begins ten days of formal rushing as approximately 1100 freshmen, sophomores and transfer students will visit 37 fraternities during the period.

The Interfraternity Council extends an open invitation to each fraternity to visit each house on the first night that the house will rush. The open invitation is usually only for the night, and written invitations and cold calls are usually restricted to the night following each open rush. Eligibility Requirements

In order to formalize the open rush, freshmen and sophomores will have to satisfy all of his criteria. This last season two students failed to satisfy the criteria of “I-F,” which will be considered to have the effect of making the written invitation or call of no effect.

Entertainment should be provided by the fraternity and the entertainment being taken upon, the hot and written invitation should be an entertainment program, and entertainment at the house should be of the type approved by the I-F Council in order to be considered a proper entertainment and in order to be eligible for a written invitation. The college will conduct an official entertainment program and in a file of 5000 per fraternity. If each fraternity wishes to have the house of the college, it is eligible to receive the invitation for the following season.

I-F Rushing Begins Feb. 28

Primarily houses will submit letters regarding their entertainment programs in writing by Feb. 10. The entertainment programs will be submitted to the college and the college will conduct an official entertainment program and in a file of 3000 per fraternity. If each fraternity wishes to have the house of the college, it is eligible to receive the invitation for the following season.

The entertainment program is to be submitted to the I-F Council in writing, and the entertainment program should be of the type approved by the I-F Council in order to be considered a proper entertainment and in order to be eligible for a written invitation.

Sacrifice Needed To Maintain Freedom, Brandt Says in Commencement Address

A million East Germans are determined not to allow themselves to be fully segregated from our side and we “do not know how far we can go before that line is crossed,” asserted the Mayor of West Berlin, Willy Brandt, at the Mid- Winter Commencement exercises today.

“We must be watchful and prepared to make sacrifices if freedom is to be maintained, but we also know that we can make reasonable sacrifices in this respect and for friendly co-existence with all our neighbors,” Mayor Brandt explained.

Using the divided city of Berlin as a symbol of the political situation facing the West and East, Mr. Brandt pointed out that the American public should be made aware of the fact that the Berlin Wall is not a symbol of the division of Germany, but a symbol of the division of mankind. Jean Seberg in the Movies

Jean Seberg was reportedly brought from France by agent William Wyler to play the role of Elise in "Bonjour Tristesse," Brando's debut in "On the Waterfront," and in "The Big Knife." Wyler discovered her talent, but the success of "Bonjour Tristesse" was largely due to the talents of Silvia Pinal, Seberg's co-star in the film. Pinal's casting overshadowed Seberg's, and the film was not a commercial success. Seberg's next film, "The Big Knife," was a critical and commercial failure, and it marked the end of her career in Hollywood.

Despite these setbacks, Seberg continued to work in film and television. She appeared in "The Group," "The Pleasure," and "The Ten O'Clock Man," among other films. However, her acting career never achieved the same success as her initial appearance in "Bonjour Tristesse.

In 1967, Seberg was found dead in her apartment in Paris. The official cause of death was a drug overdose, but her death was also rumored to be a suicide.

Some European films are... territorial, and this is often the case with certain European films. They are not always easy to follow, and they often require a lot of research and study to understand them fully.

Critique on Curriculum

By Steven D. Ivins

On one occasion Aristotle asked what kind of education was best for women. "I was never a woman," he said, "but from what I have heard, I infer that the education for them should be similar to that of boys." This is because education is not just for boys, but for all humans.

The liberal arts have a very definite, albeit subtle purpose. They are meant to prepare students for life, to make them better citizens, and to give them the skills and knowledge they need to succeed in the world.

On the other hand, technical skills are necessary for certain occupations. For example, a doctor needs medical knowledge, a lawyer needs legal knowledge, and a chef needs culinary knowledge. These skills are essential for their respective careers.

The liberal arts and technical skills are not mutually exclusive. They complement each other, and they are both necessary for a well-rounded education.

The liberal arts are not just for the rich, but for everyone. They are a fundamental part of the American educational system, and they provide the foundation for all other forms of learning.

The liberal arts are...
Eli Runners Beat Quakers, Bruins

You might expect that term team would have second place Penn. only run four, Friday, in a triangular meet at New Haven. But 25-22 was 79-73, but 2-12. The eight-odd Quakers were only able to take first two places and have two ties. Yale won or shared the other events.

"When it is 140°8 shut out really won him that over about Warren Holmes of the Dartmouth, ” said Coach Bob Webber. "His mark to the pack was 56.8. He never allowed him to the pack without putting up any resistance. The last of the long jump, and Holmes was 5' 8". John Gray won over the one-mile run with a time of 4:18.5, but Holmes didn't want to be the last man in the meet."

Indians Defeat Penn Courtmen

Dartmouth's much weaker team lead up to advance against Pennsylvania at the Rockefeller. Academy meets when the highly ranked Penn swept by the Fund courtmen 8-4.

The first match of the afternoon saw two titans clash, and it was Dartmouth's Dick Beach who came out on top.

Beach made a poor start, and was outstretched in the second regatta.

The Quakers competed without a strong middle distance runner, while Penn has one in Robert Cotterell. Cotterell, who was stabled in a top position, was outdistanced last year by a Tuskegee. In addition, excellent for Dartmouth since the war are described as "highly" and "perfect" by Coach Harvey Willard. It was the same story in the remainder of the meet, as the victors from Harvard extended their winning streak to five.

The Quakers will go all out in this Wednesday afternoon when they travel to Princeton, N. J., to meet the Tigers.

Don't Miss This Opportunity

John Lawlor is a Transmission Engineer with New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Newton, Mass. His answers reflect his experience during two years with the company. What is the attitude of older engineers toward young men?

"It depends on the man. Opportunities are second to none in rewards and opportunities."

An engineering career with the Bell Telephone Companies

John Lawlor is a Transmission Engineer with New England Telephone and Telegraph Company in Boston. His answers reflect his experiences during five years in the telephone business.

Q How did you begin an on-engineering career in the Bell Telephone Companies?

A My first fifteen months were spent in "on-the-job" training—charging assignments every three months or so. These assignments gave me a broad, all-over background in telephone engineering. And they were accompanied by plenty of responsibility. They progressed in importance with my ability to handle them.

Q What is the attitude of older engineers and supervisors toward young men?

A I've found a strong team spirit in the telephone company. You're encouraged to contribute your ideas, and they're received with an open mind. No ideas and new ideas are regarded as vital to the continuous growth of the company.

Q How about opportunities for advancement?

A I'd say they depend on the man. Opportunities to demonstrate your ability come with each new job you're given. The size and importance of your assignments grow with your ability to handle them. All promotions are made from within, and the growth of the business is creating new openings all the time. One more thing. Most telephone engineering locations are convenient to colleges. You can aid your advancement by keeping in touch with your studies.

Q How does the telephone company stack up where pay is concerned?

A Starting salaries are competitive with those offered by most large companies. Rates are based on merit, with several increases during your first two years with the company. That's more, your performance is reviewed regularly to make sure that your pay keeps up with your progress. All things considered, I believe a Bell Telephone career is second to none in rewards and opportunities.

Mermen Lose; Wakeley Off Probation List

Although the Quaker swimming team was led by Harvard, 74-12, Friday afternoon at Batchelor Pool, the good news that captained Joe Wakeley is eligible in again again enabled the defeat.

Wakeley, top scorer on last year's greatly squad, was taken off probation by the Executive Committee of the Intercollegiate Swimming Convocations and was reinstated for this meet.

"It's certainly good to have that thing off our backs," said coach Jack Meldon. "Joe is good in almost all events, so that's the last bit of his record," said Meldon.

Friday's defeat marked the Quaker's fourth unsuccessful attempt to capture an E.I.M. victory. The men's team were able to capture only two second places against the Big Five.

Silver Ford Fox lost a heartbreaker when he was edged by 35-49 of a point and had to settle for second meet for the Red and Blue.
