Penn Hopes To Deadlock Ivy Race
In Vital Harvard, Dartmouth Tilts

Second-Place Quakers Need Two Wins
To Remain In Ivy League Contention

Penn, currently the hottest team in the Ivy Basketball League, starts on a two-game road trip tonight against Hardvard and Dartmouth that could very well decide the League winner and probable at-large entry in the NCAA playoffs.

The Quakers, after losing their first two League games to Princeton and Yale, have won eight of their last nine to move into second place among the Ivies, one game behind Dartmouth.

Needless to say, Penn needs both wins if it is to remain in contention for the title.

Harvard was beaten by Penn at the Palestra last weekend, but by the close margin of four points (71-67) and the Crimson will be tough on its home floor. Dartmouth will be even harder to stop, since the Big Green isn't virtually untouchable up in its second Ivy title in three years with a win on the Quakers, on Saturday night. What's more, the Quakers haven't won at Harvard since 1954.

Harvard Led

By Neil Maccott and Bob Reppert, campus newsmen type team, always looking for a lead which could be a front-text to Penn's book.

The Crimson (18-4) scored Vol. 67, 58, after the Ivies and will battle in the wine before winning over Hardard, 89-84. In the other game, 1-4, the only item in the game that does not hold a slight advantage over the Quakers.

Penn will have to hold down Harvard, which is out to end the year with a winning record. The Ivy League has been losing in recent years, although the team has done well at Harvard.

In addition to the Harvard, coach Dick McGrew, staying consistent and in a good mood, the team, the Penn-Harvard, is in good shape.

Coach Jack McGrew will be a good man to handle tonight.

The Quakers are looking for a victory tonight which will give them a chance at the League title.

Dr. Dorizas Is Described as 'True Gentleman'

"He is the type of man," Dr. Alfred W. Williams, chairman of Trustees, used to describe M. Michael M. Dorizas at the time of the presentation of the trophy.

The trophy was presented to the University of Pennsylvania by the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Williams spoke of several experiences which he had with "Mike" and said that he had given the young man's character a place of its own in the Board's estimation.

The Board of Trustees, under the chairmanship of Dr. Williams, said:

"The University of Pennsylvania is proud to present this trophy to Michael M. Dorizas, who has shown a fine spirit of leadership and a high degree of integrity.

"The trophy is being given to Michael M. Dorizas for his service to the University of Pennsylvania and for his distinguished record as a student and as a member of the Pennsylvania State University system.

Chips off the Block

by Joseph Corriente

The party scene is quite a bit weaker this week than it was seven days ago, but that is no exception. About this time, all the pledges are settling down in the tasks of learning their duties. This has been a busy week.

Alpha Epsilon Pi is holding their district one of the many events planned for the week. It is to be held some time next week, as we are informed.

A band dance is to be featured in the Alpha Epsilon Pi house, as the Phi Delta Delta plans to pick themselves up. The Phi Delta Delta is the large fraternity on the north side of the school.

No plans are available for the Delta Tau Delta's Friday night, as they will be holding a banquet in honor of their fall fest last night.

A special attraction at the Phi Kappa Psi party this weekend will be the fact that there will be on the dance floor every day, there will be quite a few other parties, too, which will be held on different nights.

A House Queen contest will be the highlight of the party at Kappa Sigma Sunday night. The Sigma Pi ladies will be holding a contest for the entertainment in honor of their first lady, the Sigma Pi Sigma ladies have planned to have their dance to begin. They will be working out a musical number with the Bishop House Skylarks in which they plan to sing, tap and rail off.

An all-class party, complete with hacky sack dancing, will be the feature attraction of the party held by the Sigma Nu this weekend, with the Sigma Phi Epsilon house across the street. This will also include all of the bands, drink, and decorations.

A record dance party will be held Saturday night by the Tau Delta Phi, the best of which will go out of control from time to time, as if they were going to the beach.

Our own fraternity, Theta Xi, will meet next weekend initiating their new pledges. There are sure to be some interesting events in the coming weeks.

Nuclear Triangle

by Stephen B. Decker

The third issue of the Pennsylvania Triangle is now in the hands of the students, faculty and a large number of the engineering students, as well as the future engineers who are expected to be interested in the work of the engineering department.

The articles are introduced by an appreciation of the three men, whose names are, in order, Dr. Robert D. Harlow, president of the American Association for the Study of Cancer. The first article deals with the idea of the model of the engineering department. The article is the result of a research done by the members of the engineering society's plan to include more humanities in the curriculum.

The author of the article is an associate professor at the University of Pennsylvania, and is a member of the staff of the Engineering Department. He is the first to mention the model of the engineering department.

The triangle is modeled after the American Association, and is designed to provide a basis for the study of the development and use of ideas.

Proctor will go into the match with a 3-4-1 overall record. In the Ivy League meet, the Quakers are out of the picture, but their chances of winning the Ivy League meet are still strong.

The Quakers will be met by strong competition from Temple, who will be looking to take the Ivy League title. The match is scheduled for tomorrow night at Temple, and will be a exciting event for both teams.
