New Athletic Facilities Would Be Built

When Land, Finances Become Available

Construction of a golf course and an ice rink for skating is in the planning stages among the Interfraternity Council. A tentative study of intramural and intercollegiate athletic and recreation facilities at the University, the Daily Pennsylvania, has been completed.

The golf course and ice rink, along with other additional facilities suggested by the report, would be built "as financial resources and land can be made available," Gene D. Ginberg, vice-president of the University for student affairs, explained.

The study, prepared by George A. W. Brousseau, director and professor of physical education, and John B. Ford, II, director of intercollegiate athletics, "represents a tentative idea of the needs for recognized and athletic facilities in the long-range planning of the University."

The study proposed the improvements of present athletic and recreation facilities. Additional facilities include a new ice rink for skating, hockey, and figure skating, and a ski-rink for skiing and hockey, the Daily Pennsylvania, said.

Paths of Glory

Carping at the Military

by Warren Link

"Paths of Glory," at the Matrix, is a conversation starter. It is a film that provokes thought, provokes discussion, provokes action. It is a film that challenges the audience to consider the morality of war and the consequences of violence.

The film follows the story of a group of soldiers who are falsely accused of mutiny and are subsequently punished with death by firing squad. The film raises questions about the nature of war, the responsibility of leaders, and the value of individual accountability.

The audience is left to consider the moral implications of the actions depicted in the film, and the film serves as a reminder of the importance of critical thinking and open dialogue in the face of societal issues.
