All-University Chapel For Brotherhood Week Held Today in Irvine

Rev. Harris To Deliver Sermon at 11; 'Art of Being Alone' is Topic of Talk

The second all-University Chapel of the spring semester, sponsored by the Interfraternity Council and the Panhellenic Association, will be held this morning at 11 a.m. in Irvine Auditorium. Marking the University's observance of National Brotherhood Week, the service will be built around this theme. All classes scheduled for 11 a.m. will be cancelled so that students may have the opportunity to attend.

The call to worship will be given by Lawrence C. Schneider, chairman of the chapel service, and will be followed by a prayer by Brotherhood Week, read by Gerald L. Link, chairman of Interfraternity Week.

The subject of the sermon, to be delivered by the Rev. Edward B. Harris, chaplain of the University, is "The Art of Being Alone." The service, Charlotte Harris et al. are planning for thought about the Brotherhood Week service.

This service includes the following segments:

- The name of the brotherhood
- The meaning of the brotherhood
- The purpose of the brotherhood
- How to live in the brotherhood

The final segment of the service, the sermon, will be delivered by Rev. Harris.

48 Athletes Named To Receive Letters For Winter Sports

Eighty-four athletes have been awarded varsity letters in their respective sports, William E. Ward, Jr., president of the Interfraternity Council, announced yesterday.

These men are chosen by members of the varsity teams to represent their universities.

Ledovski Speaks Today On Russian Education At 4 in Dietrich Hall

Counselor of Soviet Embassy in Wash. Served as Mathematics Teacher in USSR

Andrei M. Ledovski, counselor of the Soviet Embassy in Washington, D. C., will discuss Soviet education today at 4 p.m. in Room W-1 (Ballantine Hall) of Dietrich Hall under the sponsorship of the Ivy Club. Barry L. Castile, president of the club, announced yesterday.

The topic that he selected is "Educational Advancements in the Soviet Union in the Twentieth Century and their Implications Today and in the Future."

Prior to giving his talk, Ledovski will be taken on a tour of the University by William Gottfried, vice-president of the Ivy Club. He will visit various classes, labs and observe other facets of University life during the afternoon.

Rev. Robert Scott, instructor in industry, will be the moderator of Ledovski's talk. Ledovski reads English, and will not require the aid of a translator when he talks.

Born in Astrakhan

Ledovski was born in Tsaritsa, Astrakhan Province in October, 1914. He attended a school for farmers and worked on a farm prior to joining the diplomatic service, studying his profession and mathematics.

He served as principal and taught mathematics in a high school in his home province from 1934-38. Moreover, served in Moscow Oriental School, Chinese section in 1942.

Undercover Diplomatic Assignments

From 1942 to 1943 he undertook several diplomatic assignments in China. Ledovski served as attaché and observer in the government of China in the north and south. He was responsible for the port of Canton General Headquarters and Peking.

Ledovski was minister for foreign affairs, deputy chief of the Office for Far Eastern Affairs from 1945 to 1946. He has served at his present position in Washington since 1946.

"It is with great pleasure that the Ivy Club bring Andrei M. Ledovski to the University. It is the first time that he will be able to hear the Harvard-Ivy experience out loud and in the halls of Harvard Literature," Cotin said.

Letter to the Editor

Editor, Daily Pennsylvania:

We would like to refer to the recent news conference held by the University of Pennsylvania where "he considered the state of the city to be the most important problem of the day."

As the most important problem of the day, we believe there is no question that the city of Philadelphia is facing a severe economic crisis. The high rate of unemployment and rising costs have led to a decrease in disposable income for many residents. This, in turn, has resulted in a decrease in consumer spending, which has further exacerbated the economic situation.

We urge the University of Pennsylvania to take a more proactive role in addressing these issues. As a leader in the academic community, the university has a responsibility to contribute to the solution of these problems. This can be done through research, education, and community engagement.

Sincerely,

[Op-Ed]

The Student Council of the University of Pennsylvania has passed a resolution urging the university administration to take immediate action to address the economic crisis facing the city of Philadelphia.

The resolution states: "We, the Student Council of the University of Pennsylvania, hereby urge the university administration to take immediate action to address the economic crisis facing the city of Philadelphia. This crisis has a direct impact on the university community, and we believe that the university has a responsibility to play a role in its resolution."

We encourage all students to support this resolution and to take action to address the economic crisis facing the city of Philadelphia.

Sincerely,

Receive Fellowships

Dr. Michael R. Jameson and Dr. Eugene A. Hildreth, Jr., faculty members at the University, have been awarded fellowships, it was announced yesterday.

Jameson, associate professor of classical studies and editing the turnus for the department of Greek at Bryn Mawr College, has been awarded a Stone Prize Fellowship by the humanities Academy in Rome.

Thirteen of these fellowships were presented this year, each awarding approximately $3,000, including travel allowances, field studies and conferences at the Academy.

Also honored was Dr. Eugene A. Hildreth, Jr., associate professor of medicine in the School of Medicine, who has been named a Markle Scholar by the John and Mary P. Markle Foundation. The award, part of a $37,000 program of aid for medical schools in the United States and Canada, provides for the allocation of $9,000. Of the total $5,000 per year to the appointed scholar's school.
