Indiana Says Bell Will Run At Carnival

by Jerry D. Deahl

(Philadelphia, April 13) — Indiana's Ivy Williams denied yesterday that Greg Bell, last year's outstanding athlete in the Big Ten, will appear in the 69th annual Carnival, April 15-16, at the Philadelphia Civic Center.

Williams said Bell would not compete because he has not been selected for the Ohio Relays because, he says, "we are sure that he will appear in the Relays."

Casting Start for Bell

Williams said Indiana would allow the Olympic breed to run if Bell would enter the Ohio Relays. If Bell shows improvement from the pulled muscle at the Relays, he will enter the Ohio Relays while winning his favorite event, the Illinois Relays.

Chaplain Harris Will Address University Chapel Tomorrow; Topic Is 'What Really Matters'

The Rev. Edward G. Harris, chaplain of the University, will address the student body tomorrow at 11 a.m. in the University Chapel tomorrow at 11 a.m. in Auditorium. The meeting is sponsored by the Varsity Club, Women's Association, and the Philadelphia Society.

The purpose of the sermon is to analyze the human experience of love as being one step for an experience of the Divine and to show that there are elements in this experience of love which are to be considered in the experience of God.

New Catalogue Will Combine Seven Depts.

The seven undergraduate depart-ments of the University have combined their course catalogues into one richly bound book, to be known as the "Undergraduate Catalogue."

Published this new handbook will be not only the courses offered by the University but will also the degree and major requirements, registration procedures, scholarships and tuition fees.

The Catalogue will be available for this year's school year and will be distributed to all undergraduate students at the time of pre-registration. Additional copies will be made available at the Hall at a cost of $0.00 per book. All promotion material has been re- moved and placed in a separate booklet under the title of "Undergraduate Programs," which is not available in the Office of Administration and is sent to all prospective students.

The Catalogue will be divided into three major divisions, first of which will include registration procedures, scholarships, tuition and related subjects. The second part will explain the requirements for degree and majors for all undergraduate students.

The final part of the catalogue will include a description of the courses offered in undergraduate programs.

Clifton Fadiman, nationally-known author, columnist, and radio-television personality, will speak on "The Necessity of Reason" tonight in the University Auditorium.

Fadiman’s talk will be the fourth and final lecture in this year's University Lecture Series.

Last year, his book, "Any Number Can Win," was published, and Fadiman has also been a contributor to "Time Magazine" and "The New Yorker" magazine from 1935 to 1937.

Fadiman was master of ceremonies and "Constitution" from 1946 until 1947, and an editor of the book selection committee of the book series.

The University Lecture Series, established in 1917, has been a valuable service to the University and the community. It is hoped that the series will continue to be a valuable service in the future.

Dr. Shallor Attacks Lack Of Uniformity

The lack of uniformity in economic policies of the world is being discussed at the Council of Women’s Affairs in Philadelphia.

The meeting will be held at the school and will include a discussion of the problems of the world.

President Eisenhower Vetoed Harbors and Rivers Bill

President Eisenhower vetoed the Commerce Committee's bill approving $900 million in federal grants for new harbors and rivers. The President said the bill would cost the federal government $700 million and the states $200 million.

New Blood Drive Begins Under Sponsorship Of Friars Society

The annual all-campus Blood Drive is to begin on campus on Saturday, the 14th, at 10 a.m. in the Bowl. The drive is to be sponsored by the Student Council, the Phi Delta Theta, and the Pi Kappa Alpha.

The drive is to be held to raise funds for the Blood Transfusion Service, which is under the direction of the University Medical Center.

The drive is to be held on the second floor of the Science Building, and the students are to be registered by the local chapters of the Phi Delta Theta and the Pi Kappa Alpha.

To Be Fair

It is with the emotions of a child surveying a strange object that we, the new editors of The Daily Pennsylvania, accept the reins of office. We suddenly find ourselves thrust into positions that, but yesterday, seemed so distant. We are a bit wary, a bit jitters of what to do. And as the strange object is strange to the child, so are the new Senior Board positions strange to us.

We find before us a difficult, but challenging task, and honestly feel we atttempt too much too soon. We are youth, striving for recognition and success.

There is much for us to do and the time is too short. But, and here we have been more aware of the inadequacies of youth. It is this awareness that makes us believe the waywardness of those of us insuance, vouchsafed to those who have achieved success.

Presented, as we are, with a challenge, we must answer this challenge.

For us to speak of a just editorial policy, fair treatment of all organizations competing for publicity, accurate and comprehensive coverage of news and sporting events, justified criticism of plays, movies and other publications, could lead us to infer that our pronouncements failed in three respects. Such an inference, however, would be a misinterpretation of what we are actually endeavoring to convey.

We will strive for fairness in all its aspects. We will criticize. But that criticism will be tempered with the realization that it must be justly deserved. When praise has been earned, we will not remain silent. Student and teacher, administrator and director, school and organization, society and club will be subjected to editorial review.

We make no pretense at being expert, professional journalists, for we are not. We do, however, desire to make a pretense—to make the effort—to act as we think experts, professional journalists should act. But, more than this, we seek to administer the policy of The Daily Pennsylvania during the next twelve months to the best of our ability. For us to do more would be impossible; for us to do less would be regrettable.

We accept the challenge that faces us as ethusiastically as we accept the reins of office.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS

On Old Delancey Street

by Derek Davis

Philadelphia’s role as a center and dehaven for many old and new groups is ever more evident. Here one finds half-talented folk from before the Revolutionary War and numerous of the publications “Daily Pennsylvanian.”

On Delancey Street, a quiet, motionless street only a few blocks from the center city central, stands the auditorium of Plays and Players, the oldest Living Theater group in America. Amid the low-tower of Philadelphia’s old barrier and the more modern buildings to which it has succumbed, it is the home of the serene and solitary life, the yellow bench building remains a robust dignity with two stories high lights and an unadorned entrance.

Founded in 1879, with Mr. Frank Thornton as first president, the organization remained on Delancey Street for eleven years or so, then moved to 54th Street and 16th Street. In 1922, they moved to their pres-nent location at 1724 Delancey Street, being one of the first of its kind to have a buildging which was designed and built especially for one as a theater.

The level of performances has always re-thained high, affording of professional caliber. As a mark of the missions in which they are held, most recently, Tennessee Williams then did the honors of visiting the theater during a performance of The Rose Tattoo last year. Many of those who started their amateur careers at Plays and Players, perhaps at first only as a way of impressing their own empty house have gone on to great heights.

Equipment in the present building also rivals that of the professionals. Lighting effects seem almost inexhaustible, with a surprising effect of electric controlled feet of a type you would be interested in getting for your own home.

Equipment in the present building also rivals that of the professionals. Lighting effects seem almost inexhaustible, with a surprising effect of electric controlled feet of a type you would be interested in getting for your own home.

The organization of Plays and Players remains unaltered for a Little Theater group and yet remains the Philadelphia’s best. Plays for the amateur and private audiences have been developed as a private club, but limited, the audience also may be comprised only of members and their guests. Payment of dues

by members at the beginning of the play ensures some support funds for production, this bringing to maintain the club’s high standards. Much the same system of financing has been adopted by the Players’ fund with obvious success.

The plays presented over a wide range, are not all well-known. This season’s program is entitled Women and Men Sales: The Daily Diet, Wil-lorre for the Preservation, and Touchstone of the August Moon. The regular season concludes this week, with The Hidden River, though is none the least, Grandpa will be put on. This last endeavor promises an outlet for the operating talents of the membership.

A near catastrophe in Touchstone of the Au-stian Moon managed to show the weaknesses and adaptability of Players members. The theater rehandled to take the part of Col. Pundy. It fell seriously ill only moments before a performance was ready to begin. Another member stepped into the role as a reader with no preparatory. Few could have done the part as well under ordinary circumstances as he did reading it.

Nine Tries To Extend Streak Against Lehigh

Rallying on the crest of a two-game winning streak, Pennsylvania's men's team will fly to Lehigh this afternoon at 3:30 to continue its annual Ivy League rivalry.

The quartet of Penn’s trips to Pennsylvania will bring it face to face with the only Ivy League team to defeat the Quakers, historically the Lehigh Hilltoppers.

Paul H. and Ralph A. Harrington, with last year’s games as a backdrop, have compiled a terrific record against the Lehigh men's team. In three contests last year, the Quakers won two and lost one.

Northwest Plays and Wins

The team’s record of 7-3-1 doesn’t do justice to the fact that the Northwest men’s team has won the opening match of the day 4 and 2 out of 7. The Hilltoppers are, however, ranked #15 in the nation.

Smith, with 10 points, 6 in goals, will be key in this game. Smith is a first-year man, and his performance will determine the outcome.

Pool Johnson, who scored the match's only goal, is a key player for the Northwest team. He has scored 10 goals this season, and his performance will determine the outcome of the match.

Penn Lacrosse Team Faces Lehigh Seeking First Victory

With a tough game against the Penn team, the Lehigh men's team is looking to break its losing streak (1-1) as a possible first in the season.

Lehigh's Freedom, Frank, and Joe Present will lead the Lehigh team against the Penn team. Frank and Joe Present are key players for the Lehigh team, and their performance will determine the outcome of the match.

Bowlers Schedule

LIU on Skimmer

Penn's bowling team is currently preparing for the Long Island University Friday night match. Coach Dick Brick will be the key figure in this match.

The match will take place at 9:30 at the William Penn Hotel in Atlantic City. The match will determine the winner of the women's championship. The match will be a key figure in the Long Island University's goal of winning the championship.
Cindermen Down Hill
In First Meet, 66-51

by Bob Fisher

Despite the absence of two of its top performers, Don Braubel and Jeff Doniho, who had to return to school and take exams, the Freedman track team defeated Hill School, 66-51, on the Pettis track proper's home field.

During the year, the Quaker's opening meet victory was an exciting affair. Two Freedman dismissed the 39-year-old mark of 35.4 and finished first in the mile and the 220.

The only event the "Lionmen" were able to keep was the hurdles. Carl Gausson finished first with a 27.4%.) second place and third place in the 100-yard high hurdles and first in the 220-yard low hurdles.

Other first place teams were recorded for Penn to Ken Worlock in the javelin throw, Hyderian Dick in the pole vault, Ed Smith in the 100 and Bill Habinsek in the high jump.
