The special flight to Europe this season sponsored by the Undergraduate Council has elicited a sufficient number of passengers and will definitely take place, William J. Williamson, chairman for the flight, told The Daily Pennsylvania yesterday.

However, he said, some seats are still available on the low-cost round trip charted by planes for undergraduate and graduate students. Pastor members, administrative members, their wives, husbands, and children.

The flight is not an organized group, but merely offers money-saving transportation to Europe. The students subscribing will have free travel from Pennsylvania to Hamburg, the national airport (Hamburg) June 18 and will land in Amsterdam and then in Amsterdam for the local fare.

The return trip will arrive in New York by September 6. The approximate price for this round trip fare is $245. The flight will take place between June 18 and September 6.

In addition to the flight over Europe, the students will have the option of taking a tour of the Netherlands. The tour will be in German.

* Censorship Unveiled

The veil of censorship has been lifted. This is as it should be. The public is now able to tell a tale, a tale of cooperation rewarded with suppression, of favoritism shown to the publisher of the Daily News by a few members of the University administration.

The issue was the press release for the women's dormitories; those involved, members of the Administrative Council of the Women of the News, officials of the News Bureau, Public Relations, and Lion Staff.

The facts are simple and beyond dispute. The University had to make an announcement. This announcement was censored by the Department of Student Affairs. Now this claim is null and void of any semblance of a change in policy—a change of policy which has been publicly announced to the Philadelphia Sunday Bulletin—gave them the privilege of a private hearing.

Late last week, we were told that no news of the censorship of the women's dormitory could appear in either of the two campus publications until the Bulletin expressed its opinion. The Pennsylvania News had prepared a magnificent two-page supplement to be made of the Bulletin. That supplement appeared on the bulletin board. The University, however, wanted it to go to the added and double expense of a supplement which would then take the print story until the Tuesday after the appearance of The Pennsylvania News supplement.

What was the reason for this suppression? We were told that the motive behind this unique form of censorship of the Bulletin's story was that its appearance in the Bulletin would be unfair to the news story in the University-owned paper. That, it was said, was enough reason for the suppression.

It is ironic in that desire for fairness that the University is itself the creature of the news story in the Bulletin. That, it is return for the censorship of news for the benefit of the Bulletin, the latter organ of the University, is a story that the bottom line of the University is delivered to the homes in the Philadelphian visitor—an allen, all the same, a news story that the suppression was unfair.

We realize that nothing can be done to undo the censorship exerted last week. Now we call for the highest volumes of the administration to intervene in behalf of the Bulletin's right to deal with the issue of censorship.

The Daily Pennsylvania News is ready to give, if required, will help to defeat a better University, and well, in a way, the road of cooperation surrendering

It was just about a month ago when the announcement was made that Columbus would host the Pan-American Games this year. The Games are the Pan-American counterpart of the Olympic Games. The Pan-American Games are the American version of the Olympic Games, and Columbus, Ohio, was chosen as the host city for the Games.

The Games were scheduled to begin on May 20, 1958, and continue through June 6, 1958. They were expected to attract athletes from over 30 countries, representing more than 100 million people. The Games included a wide variety of events, including track and field, swimming, diving, cycling, and weightlifting.

The Pan-American Games are held every four years, and they were first held in Buenos Aires, Argentina, in 1951. Since then, they have been held in various cities throughout Latin America, including Lima, Peru; Montevideo, Uruguay; and Mexico City, Mexico.

The Columbus Games were the largest and most successful Pan-American Games to date. They attracted athletes from over 30 countries and over 1,000 competitors. The Games featured 21 events, including track and field, swimming, diving, cycling, and weightlifting.

The Columbus Games were a huge success, with the city of Columbus providing excellent facilities and accommodations for the athletes. The Games were well-organized and well-attended, with thousands of spectators coming to watch the various events.

In conclusion, the Pan-American Games are a great event, and they highlight the important role that Latin America plays in the world of sports. The Columbus Games were a huge success, and they set the standard for future Pan-American Games.
