Purdy Flips Two TD Passes
To Ward In Fourth Quarter

Koze Races 72 Yards For First Quaker Score, Then Runs Intercepted Aerial Back 56 Yards

Penn Gridders Defeat Brown, 21-20,
For First Victory Of The Campaign

Campus Chest Carnival
Offers Diverse Games

The Campus Chest reached a climax at Robinson Gymnasium at the sociology of the annual Campus Chest Carnival which was the best attended in recent years. There were games and entertainment offered to virtually the tenants of everyone including the annual Queen Contest and a new innovation—a halo-house contest. The winner of the latter contest had several winners determined on the basis of time, showmanship and grace. There were two winners for each of these classifications.

Waiting For Miss Rheingold

At the Carnival

It was eight o'clock when we arrived at Hersheypark Early. Buses were lining and belly rolling; the booths were making their final spit runs. A couple of halfbacks bare on the final crisp ribbons were engulfed into the display. We staggered over to the Kages No back to a wait Miss Rheingold. We asked one of the people when Miss Rheingold would arrive. He unceremoniously answered that she would be there any moment now; he cast a self-conscious glance at the stage on the left while "Elinor" soprano took with Miss Rheingold — Elkin. A lot of students were going to come for dinner here for this privilege, a lot of them.

At eight thirty we were still waiting. By this time there were perhaps two hundred supporters of the Campus Club milling around the gymnasium floor. They were stripping hankies, buying drinking glasses and making bets. They couldn't keep their portraits taken with Miss Rheingold. The only sign of nervousness among the boys was... on the appeal of the education, scholastic achievement. I read. But only a truly excused person can integrate scholarship with traditions and extracurricular activities—activities leading to school spirit.

Freshmen, don't be misled by these black blocks. Traditions such as you rail against Big Day, the Junior Corn March, and Skinner Days— or fact all the positive traditions of the Red and Blue—are important auxiliaries to your personal development and sit in the appreciation of the education you receive.

The halls of Ivy need a concrete foundation. What good is schooling without pizzazz in the end product? Negative attitudes, such as those expressed by the "sage," will not only kill Penn's Quaker, but will kill him, too.
